4 YANKS KIDNAPED BOLIVIAN REDS

LA PAZ, Bolivia (A)-Antigovernment tin miners seized four Americans, a Dutchman and 16 Bolivian technicians Saturday and held them as hostages for the release of three Communist labor leaders accused of subversion.

Three of the Americans are U.S. government officials and the fourth is a Peace Corps volunteer.

The miners promised not to harm the hostages. State Department Press Officer Richard I. Phillips in Washington identified the Americans as:

Thomas M. Martin of New York, and Michael A. Kirstula, of Cadillac, Mich., both assistant information officers of the U.S. Information Agency; Bernard Rifkin, labor adviser from the U.S. Agency for International Development, and Robert Fergerstrom, Peace Corps volun-

The Dutchman was identified as Cornelius Bloot, general manager of the tin-mining complex at Catavi, in west-central Bolivia, where the hostages were seized.

In New York, Martin's father, Thomas M. Martin

Sr., said he received a letter from his son last week telling of his planned trip to the Catavi mine.

The father said Martin had been "in the mines before and he speaks very well with the miners.

The elder Martin said his son expected to return to the United States early next year. The father expressed confidence he would be reunited with his son in New York

MARTIN'S WIFE, Mariella, 27, and their 15-month-old daughter are in La Paz.

Rifkin's son, Erik, said at New Brunswick, N.J., that his father had been educational director for the United Auto Workers union in the northeastern United States before entering government service about two years ago.

Erik Rifkin, a student at Rutgers University, said his mother also was in La Paz, the Bolivian capital.

The elder Rifkin, 52, is a native of Brooklyn, The tin miners reportedly decided to seize the hostages south of La Paz.

Bolivian Foreign Affairs Minister Jose Fellman discussed the kidnaping with U.S. Ambassador Douglas Henderson, who just took his post in La Paz.

The Bolivian government assured Henderson that it would protect the Americans. But it was not clear immediately what steps the government would take.

The district attorney's office in La Paz demanded that those responsible for the kidnaping be prosecuted.

A formal charge would open the way for police action. But it was believed the government was reluctant to use force against the miners, headed by Bolivia's leftist vice president, Juan Lechin.

The tin mines have a history of bloody violence. Outbursts have occurred against foreign technicians at another mine that now is under government control. As the kidnaping became known, the Catavi miners'

DEATH ALLEY

Barrier Saves Lives

Death Alley is no more.

Chain link and cable between lanes on the infamous stretch of the Long Beach Freeway between the San Diego Freeway and Ninth Street is the barrier to death.

No one has died on the former expressway of death since the fence was erected last summer.

Nine cars since have smashed into the barrier.

And were halted from the lethal flight into the path of oncoming traffic.

FBI GATHERS SHELLS

Oswald Rifle Practice Told by Three Men

DALLAS, Tex. (A)—The owner of a public gun range said Saturday thre FBI had taken pounds of empty shells in an attempt to confirm that Lee Harvey Oswald had practiced shooting there as recently as five days before the assassination of President Kennedy.

Floyd Davis, owner of the Sportsdrome Gun Range near Grand Prairie, said neither he nor his wife, Virginia, ever had seen

Oswald at the range.
"But there were three different people here at three different times who told us about seeing Oswald," Davis said,

Asked how anyone could use the range without Davis' knowledge, the owner led a reporter to the fenced-in area of shooting stands and indicated the end of a fence which permitted entry.

"ALSO, WE just opened Oct. 26 and things were fairly disorganized. One of the days a witness said he saw Oswald, I was conducting a turkey shoot and we had more than 200 people around here," Davis said.

Davis said he received information from three different persons: a doctor's son, whose name he did not know; a man named Slack. and a man named Howard

Price, a machinist and gun expert, said, "I cannot tell you a thing. If the FBI says it is okay for me to talk, why then I'd be glad to tell you what I know. But up to then it is strictly classified."

lating to Oswald being at the gun range:

On Nov. 9 or 10, he was noticed by the doctor's son who remarked upon the weapon and its sight. The doctor's son recalled after the Nov. 22 assassination that he had seen such a weapon as that found in the Texas School Book Depository, from where the fatal shots were fired.

Price, Davis said, was at the range either Nov. 9 or 10, and remembers helping a fellow fix the sight on a 6.5-mm weapon of the same type which authorities later said was used in the assassination. Price says he was fascinated by the gun. According to Davis, Price said the man who had it was

WATER BOOSTS OIL

Reap Benefits Louisiana Fog played a cat-and-mouse game Saturday night through much of the Long Beach area.

The big water-injection program in the harbor section of the Wilmington oil field has sharply increased oil production from wells in the upland portion of the district.

Output rose by 759,019 barrels in 1962 from the previous year's figure, reaching a total of 7,118,810 barrels, City Auditor Murray T. Courson has reported.

The area covered by the auditor's summary consists of upland segments Fault Blocks II, III and IV, all within the harbor district and north of Seaside Boule-

"ALL INCREASES in production are chiefly attributed to effects of waterflood stimulation," said the Courson report.

A comparable trend for secondary recovery in the tideland portion of the developed field has been revealed in earlier reports from the auditor. In the upland section as well as the tidelands, the City of Long Beach benefited substantially through greater oil royalties. The city's participating interest in the uplands amounts to 10 percent in Block II, 19 percent in Block III and 42.9 percent in Block IV.

Courson disclosed the production gain in a lengthy audit report on the accounts of the Union Pacific

Criticisms aimed at Union Pacific's accounts in previous audits have produced adjustments that increased allotments of the oil income to the city and other interest holders, Courson said.

A SALES tax pricing adjustment amounted to $79,-670, of which the city's credit was $20,400. Another affecting subsidence costs totaled $65,000, the city's share being $22,000.

However, the auditor continued to take exception to UP's method of booking the company's retroactive incentive pay costs.

He recommended that these costs, retroactive in some instances to 1958well before the UP became the unit operator-be fully funded so that some of the expense can be offset by interest earned on the special deLesseps S. Morrison, 51, who resigned as ambassador to the Organization of American States (OAS) to make the race, was far out front by virtue of a big south Louisiana vote.

Robert F. Kennon, a former governor whose bitter anti-Kennedy campaign strategy was dropped after the President was assassinated, moved up to second place.

HOWEVER, Kennon, and Rep. Gillis W. Long, 40, head of one faction of the politically potent Long family, were running almost neck and neck in early returns.

With 1,463 of 2,219 precincts reporting Morrison had 186,452 votes. McKeithen had 90,075 and Kennon had 90,001, Long was in fourth place with 79,728.

While Morrison dominated in South Louisiana, which has two-thirds of the state's vote, Kennon and arch-segregationist Shelby M. Jackson were the leaders in the north.

TREE RIBS GOVERNOR

BOISE, Idaho (A) - The vast rotunda of the Idaho Capitol, traditionally the site of a 40-foot Christmas tree, was graced Saturday by a scraggly two-footer.

The tiny tree was placed by a statehouse employe as a gag symbol of a cutback in state spending ordered. by Gov. Robert E. Smylie.

The big one will be installed later,

Author John Steinbeck, who undertook a tour of Communist countries at the personal request of the so thoroughly trained for the presidency as Lyndon B. Johnson." We cannot agree with this assumption although we would in no way question the ability of President Johnson to handle the great responsibilities of his office.

If we are to accept experience as a criterion there is one man who has had a much greater training for that office. That man is Richard Nixon. There may be a question as to the comparative abilities of the two men. But for actual experience in the office-or problems surrounding it - Nixon was forced into acquiring that in 1955.

It will be recalled that in 1955 President Eisenhower was stricken with a severe heart attack. It was then Vice President Nixon quietly assumed responsibility for the President's office. He presided over cabinet meetings and the general executive responsibilities of the office. He was given great credit for the way he handled these many months of crisis. In particular, it was acknowledged he did so without attempting to take political advantage of the crisis.

Both Vice President Johnson and Nixon were given great consideration and responsibilities by their presidents. Both men had served in both houses of Congress-and both men had received strong support for re-elections by the people of their respective states. In this respect the founders of our government showed their wisdom in the provision for succession in the office. But only Nixon and Johnson were given the opportunity of true experience in that executive office while vice presidents.

It will be assumed by some that this is written as an endorsement of Richard Nixon for the Republican nomination. It is not intended as such because it is too soon to decide which of the candidates should be nominated. But it is written to evaluate the situation as it appears at this time. A national poll, taken during the tragic week following the death of President Kennedy, indicated the following as voter attitudes at that time:

It showed the following in percentages: Johnson 55 percent, Nixon 45; Johnson 58, Goldwater 42, and Johnson 62, Rockefeller 38, It showed Johnson below the Kennedy poll of a month before in the East, about the same in the Midwest, much higher in the South and slightly lower in the Far West. The poll was taken at a time when emotionalism was very high. Support for the new President was believed to be higher than it may be when the many issues again become pre-

Many Californians discount the Nixon national strength because of his defeat for governor in 1962. But it has long been apparent to the rest of the country that this was caused by a fight within the state's Republican Party. That split first came during the 1958 election when the party divided over the Knowland-Knight factions. In 1962 it was caused by the attitude of the Shell supporters who failed to join in all-out support of Nixon who defeated Shell in the primaries. California Republicans have defeated their own candidates by stupid factional fights and will continue to do so unless they grow up to political realities and party loyalty.

In the East and Midwest the memory is of the 1960 campaign when Nixon came within 118,500 votes out of 68 million cast-of being elected. This was a difference of only one fifth of one percent. These are reasons why there are questions raised as to Nixon's possibilities. But the important factor is that as to experience and training for the job, Steinbeck overlooked ne fact that Nixon was the most experienced man in the nation, available for that office-L.A.C.

Crooks' Jolliest Time Soon Here

Jolly old Saint Nick isn't the only big wheeler and dealer in December.

A host of less savory characters-embezzlers, shoplifters, burglars, robbers and con men-are apt, during this month, to visit the unwary and reverse Santa's role by taking rather than giving.

Where the average person looks forward to relaxing during the holidays, police departments brace for the annual December crime wave.

They never are disappointed.

While all criminals are more active than usual, embezzlers really work overtime.

Embezzlers, according to Detective Inspectors C. C. Sullans, C. O. Bennett and W. D. Leslie of the Long Beach Police epartment bunco detail, are those who:

"Divert to their own use money or property entrusted to them for a particular purpose by another

EMBEZZLERS RANGE from the sales clerk who pockets a few items or dollars to the trusted bookkeeper or cashier who steals thousands.

Not more than half the embezzlers are reported to the police department, the bunco detail estimates. In many instances the victim is glad to recover all or part of his loss from the thief and doesn't report the theft to police," they said.

However, the return of the stolen money or articles does not or should not prevent the successful prosecution and punishment of the embezzler, they point out.

In other instances, the detail said, the thief works on the sympathy of the victim and keeps him from reporting his loss to police or the victim doesn't want the publicity that would result from the filing of a crime report.

Every year the number of embezzlers and the amount laken increases, the bunco detail's figures

In 1962 in Long Beach $84,901 was embezzled in the 59 incidents reported to the bunco detail. So far in 1963 in 67 reported instances the victims lost $176,627.

The penalty for embezzlement is severe.

When the amount stolen is over $200 the embezzlers face up to 10 years in prison when they are convicted of grand theft embezzlement.

IF CONVICTED OF TAKING under $200, petty theft embezzlement, they can be sentenced to a fine of $500 and or six months in jal. The hunco detail does not believe that embezzlements can be completely prevented. But, they hold, the amounts stolen can be sharply reduced.

They suggest that dual signatures be required on all business checks.

They urge through inventories of stock, and that bank deposits and basinces be checked frequently. And, most important of all, never, never completely trust anyone who is handling your money or property.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS Legislative Day

WASHINGTON (UPI)-The House met for only two minutes Saturday but the session was long enough for the purposes of those trying to pry the civil-rights bill from the House Rules Committee.

The legislation would seek to eliminate racial discrimination in the areas of employment, public accommodations, education, voting and federal financial assistance to

The Senate is not expected to take up the measure until after the House completes action on it, probably after the end of the year.

Despite the brevity of the meeting, it was technically considered a "legislative day." As such, members will be able to begin signing a petition Monday which would spring the bill away from the Rules Committee.

Train Kills 11 in Auto

MIDLAND CITY, Ala. (/P)-A grinding car-train smash killed 11 members of a Midland City family Saturday, in one of the state's worst traffic tragedies in years. A 1-year old girl was the only survivor.

The child, Margaret Ann Langford, suffered head injuries and was in serious condition at a nearby Dothan, Ala. hospital.

Those found dead at the scene were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Henry Langford; their children, Ray Allen, 10, and Jeannie, 6; their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Kenneth Langford and three of her children, Henry Allen, 3, Vernelle and Judy Carol, and a second daughter-in-law, Mrs. Thomas Langford, Margaret Ann's mother.

Another of their sons, Donald, 18, and Mrs. Kenneth Langford's daughter, Shirley Ann, 7, died about three hours after the wreck in a Dothan hospital.

The disclosure, in the official English-language Peking Review, underscored the strong personal animosity hetween the two Communist leaders stemming from the Moscow-Peking political and idealogical quarrel.

The Peking Review said Khrushchev attacked Mao at the banquet of the Political Consultative Conference of the Warsaw Treaty signatories on Feb. 4, 1960, nearly four years before the party dispute burst into the open.

Nixon's Bar Essay Called 'Finest'

NEW YORK (A)-An essay written by former Vice President Richard M. Nixon for admission to the New York bar is described by a veteran court official as the finest he has read in 28 years.

Nixon, who moved here from California last June, was required like other applicants to write on "What do you believe the principles underlying the form of government of the United States to be?" Lowell C. Wadmond, chairman of the Appellate Division's Committee on Character and Fitness, described the essay as the finest he had seen in his 28 years on the committee.

up in the North Pole must be getting some hearty chuckles this year judging by the letters he is receiving from Long Beach-area children.

And-surprise to parents-the kids have been just terrific, wonderfully behaved during the year. The letters say so.

So far, 300 local children have unlocked their hearts in personal letters to Santa Claus this Before Christmas morning, the Long Beach Post Office expects to process nearly 1,000 such letters on their way to St, Nick's headquarters up north.

Santa-with the help of his aides, Long Beach Postmaster David Selcer and the Salvation Armywill answer all.

For the first time in its history, the Post Office is helping supply Mr. Claus with gaily-decorated postcards for his answersand has even applied a ZIP-code number to his northern workshop to hurry his mail. The kids will receive a personal card postmarked, naturally, "North Pole Branch, U. S. Post Office."

Since the Government has stepped into the swing of things and cut the red tape, Santa now has free-mailing priviare clearly marked, "Penalty for private use to avoid payment of post-

Santa's aide, Post-master Selcer, asked only that the kids properly address their requests, write their return addresses with ZIP-code numbers and mail them first class, 5-cent postage. The correct address is: Santa Claus

GIANT CARD, about the size of a large briefcase, was mailed to Santa Claus by first graders at Jane Addams Elementary School. Card is among hundreds of letters received by Long Beach Post Office for delivery to North Pole. All will be answered, postal authorities quote Santa as saying.

North Pole 99701

But even that request hasn't stopped Santa's letters at the local post office. Some have arrived without any postage. Some have arrived with mom's trading stamps plastered on the envelope. All have been handled.

One confused tyke addressed his letter: "Santa Clause, North Pole, U.S.A.," and then penciled, "I guess."

In a peck at the letters, with Santa's permission of course, The Independent, Press-Telegram found that the little men and little women stressed their good behaviour before launching into lengthy lists of what they

L.B. Hospitals Try to Tighten Reins, but Babies Still Saddled With Horsey Names

A Norwalk mother admitted to The Independent, Press-Telegram she fished the comic strips for names of her children.

A Mr. and Mrs. Bear of San Diego tagged their son Teddy. Another couple — Lier is the last name — labeled their daughter Chanda, Fortunately, the child has the prospect of a name transfusion with marriage, Colorful Redondo Beach public relations man Day V. Jones has had to put up with a lot of jokes.

A LONG Beach doctor, reports Community Hospital, makes it a practice to check the name first with the expectant parents and attempting to dissuade them if it is of the race horse variety. Nevertheless, a Texas

couple named Hogg did name their unfortunate daughter Ima

At Long Beach Memorial Hospital, where the roster of an average 230 new babies is drawn up each month, nurse Ola Seitz reported that religion helps keep the odd-ball names in the starting gate. For example, Catholics generally name their children after saints and orthodox Jews after deceased relatives.

NURSE Mildred Mc-Gonzgle in Community Hospital said historic events light up the idea bulbs hanging over parents-to-be.

Movie stars also light up the bulb as many present day Shirleys (not dimpled like Temple) and Lanas (from the Turner haydays) can confirm.

However, Liz Taylor drawn a blank in local hospitals. And, for that matter, no Castro has passed out cigars for nam-ing his heir Fidel, Both nurses said that one common problem is for parents to heave out a pre-selected name once they've looked up its meaning in the hospital name-suggestion pamph-

FEW KNOW that Cecil means dim-sighted and Claude is lame.

Then, they change to names that mean the Lord's Anointed or some-thing like that," a hospital spokesman dryly

At Community, where more than 100 babies are born a month, Nurse Mc-Gonagle said in-laws frequently battle with parents over a name.

"And when it comes down to a verbal tug-ofwar between the new lather and mother, mom tries to please pop," she said.

One difficulty at Memorial, according to Mrs. Seitz, is the mother whose serviceman husband is overseas and no name has been selected.

"In many cases," she "the mother tells me, I know he won't like it, but I'm going to name my baby after my hus-band anyway.'" The same hospital reports that many parents methodically stamp their kids with first names starting with the same letters of the alphabet such as Andy, Anne, and Arnold. A trio of children may bring Adam, Benjamin and Carl --- and there you have the ABC's.

IN TWINS, one trend is sound-alike like Ro-bert and Robin, However, some "rebels" go for a complete contrast like John and George.

rears ago.

It is not uncommon for a new parent to run a finger - eyes closed down a name list, say the hospital aids. But that still doesn't stop them from rejecting the first name, and going on with the name game.

For those with a particular name-giving problem at Community Hospital, the nurse first of-fers a pamphlet listing

If that doesn't work, mom and dad are given a paperback book with 2,500 names.

Should that lead to a crisis, the nurses then lugs out a huge handcov-

Reprieve Won on Off-Street Parking

Builders were given a brief reprieve Tuesday for complying with higher off-street parking requirements in new residential construction.

Long Beach City Council agreed that the new ordinance will not be made operative until Feb. 1, 1964, although it is scheduled for first reading next Tuesday and adoption one week later.

Buildings for which foundations are poured on the Feb. 1 date may be completed in compliance with the present parking ratios.

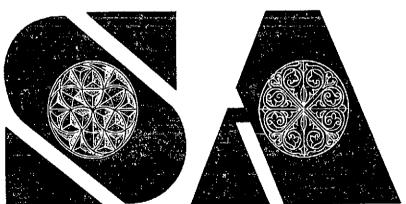

Councilmen also informally directed that the building department go ahead with processing applications for construction permits at the normal pace during the interim period. After Feb. 1 builders must provide a ratio as high as 11/4 offstreet patking spaces for each apartment in larger dwelling units in mest sections of Long Beach. The maximum now is generally a ratio for two spaces for three apartments.

HE GOES OUT OF HIS WAY TO SAVE AT COMMUNITY (because we go out of our way for him)

Like the rest of our South American customers, this Brazilian rancher is going out of his way to save at Community. Seven thousand miles, to be exact! First he rides 14 miles to his village post office, then mails his savings 6986 miles to Compton, California. Why? Because he knows that Community has been paying higher earnings for 35 years, that it has never missed an interest payment and that his money is insured by an instrumentality of the U.S. Government. He also knows that his interest checks will arrive promptly four times a year and that he will earn dally interest. His savings earn from the day they are mailed if they remain thru the end of the quarter. Savers in 37 other countries feel the same way...that it's worth their while to send their money over long distances to Community Savings. If you're within driving distance of any of our offices, even greater service is yours ... the personal kind. Drive in and see!

End of the 'Grey Ghost'

Demolition of the "Grey Ghost" - the old Wise Building at Broadway and Pine Ave. - will begin Monday and its reconstruction into a new United California Bank Bldg. is scheduled for completion by mid-1965.

Frank L. King, chairman of the board of UCB, announced plans for the structure at a meeting of bank representatives, city officials and Long Beach businessmen at a meeting at the Long Beach Yacht

Currently, the Long Beach main office of UCB is located at 129 E. Broadway, When the new structure is completed offices will be moved to the first floor and basement of the reconstructed building and upper floors will be available for general office tenancy.

THE OLD Wise Building, a long-vacant fivestory department store building actually is two separate structures. Plans call for complete demolition and removal of the eastern half of the twin building. On this half, the bank will erect a five-level parking garage.

The corner buildingthe western half-will be beams and slab and this skeleton will be reconstructed from the base-

The exterior, as reconstructed, will have duranodic aluminum window walls and will be of modern design. All new interior ceilings will have recessed lighting fixtures. Three electronically controled automatic elevators will be installed and the entire building will be air conditioned, according to Kenneth S. Wing, F.A.I.A. architect for the project.

THE UCB purchased the building with a frontage of 150 feet on Pine Avenue and 150 feet on Broadway for a reported $650,-000, in September.

According to King, the bank's confidence in the future of downtown Long Beach is evidenced by its plan to spend approximately $2.5 million in reconstruction of the building, long an eyesore in the downtown business confidence in the area." he said, "and am very gratified that we could take this step."

Reid is vice president of the Board of Harbor Commissioners, on the Board of Memorial Hospital and has held numerous other civic posts, including chairmanship of the Community Chest

EDITORIALS, PAGE B-2 SUNDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1963

VARIED and sometimes startling are the reactions I get to some of the things said here in carrying out my daily task of talking to people just about every-

For example, I recently wrote a piece carrying an appeal for United Way-the ormer Community Chest. It was based on a statement by a prominent citizen who pointed out that a contribution to youth work at Fort Texas, some years ago might have helped the youth agency reach Lee Oswald and thus prevent a profound tragedy on Nov.

Could such a piece with such a purpose draw fire? Well, it did, as well as favorable response WITHOUT further coma couple of letters: Wrote Barbara L. Staple of Lakewood:

"Your article in today's paper is without doubt the biggest farce I have ever read anywhere. You tell us that now is the time for our generosity and willingness to give to youth, if we impelled to some personal act that would in some way explate the assassination of our President . .

"We have compassion enough to be shocked, hurt and depressed when a man so great as President Kennedy has died, but we would feel the same if some neighbor, friend or a friend of a friend died. For any worthy cause, Mr. Epley, we have never felt impelled to give. We give because we want to and because we can

"Who are you, and how can you, sit in judgment on us? How do you know what we can give? If we can give, we do, but if all we have to give is a few cents, that is our share . . . If you have it you share—because we are already doing our part.

"By the way, Mr. Epley, you must feel awfully good about associating the name of a man not yet cold in his grave with this lousy article. Is that the American way??????

AND HERE'S another note, this one from Annie freaders.

Laurie Gregory, referring to the same article:

"An excellent column this evening. It moved me to send my check to United Way. No one had come to my door for a contribution and two of my friends said they had not been contacted. Perhaps many others were missed . . .

"As you say, we are too indifferent, wrapped up in our own affairs and prone to let somebody else do it. Thank you for giving me a prod-it's easy to let the contribution slide unless you are asked directly."

WIIILE traveling in Wales last summer, Mrs. Thomas Main Sr. of Long Beach noticed a U. S. Flag flying in the little town of Betws-y-Coed. It was a 48ment, I will quote from star Flag, fairly worn by > Mrs. Main made contact with a police constable, G. V. Pritchard, and promised to send a new 50-star Flag when she returned to "the States."

> She redeemed her pledge this fall, and the other day received a letter from Constable Prichard. He explained that he had handed the Flag over to the Betwsy-Coed Urban District Council, and that it will be displayed at various functions as a token of friendship for the United States.

His letter concluded:

"On behalf of myself and the residents of Betws-y-Coed, we wish to express our deepest sympathy at the tragic death of your President Kennedy. We were all deeply shocked, and feel very strongly for the American people, especially the wife and children."

This is one of many such xpressions from foreign lands, both in Europe and Asia, that have been relayed to this dept. by local people. They add up to a heartening demonstration of friendship for the U.S. peo-ple and of admiration for the late President.

This is to acknowledge all of these items which have been sent on to me. Many thanks to alert and friendly

WASHINGTON-If you tell someone these days that your THE U.S. SENATE can vote profession is being a Washington newspaperman, the one final foreign relations ost immediate response is to ask the question: "What's memorial to John F. Ken-Lyndon Johnson like? I mean what is he really like?"

· It happens to be a fairly difficult question to answer for who knows what some other person is really like. I happen to have seen the new President on numerous occasions, some of them formal, some of them informal, but I'd hesitate to say I knew what he is really like. I sometimes wonder whether Lady Bird knows.

JOHNSON IS NOT AN EASY MAN to characterize. There are certain facets of his character which lie brightly on the surface - he is intelligent, shrewd, an operator rather than a thinker, a man of compulsive action, vain, generous, tough, a horse-trader, self-centered, kind, demanding, unsophisticated and homey.

He lacks the sparkle, the wit and the all-embracing curiosity possessed by his predecessor. Johnson has a kind of eloquence, but it is of an entirely different nature from that of Kennedy. Where Kennedy was interested in an idea for the sake of an idea, Johnson would be interested only if he saw some practical use for the idea. Kennedy always managed to give the impression that he came by his convictions through the rational processes of the mind. Johnson on the other hand gives the impression that his convictions were born in the heart. Let no one mistake, for instance, the depth and the sincerity of his beliefs in civil rights.

Johnson is a mature (in many ways he seems older than he is) man of good judgment. His judgment sometimes seems to fall apart when it comes to people for he has not always associated himself with persons whose interests were solely for the public weal.

president of the United States on Sunday, March 4, 1849. He served one day. President James Knox Polk's term ended on that Sunday. President-elect Zachary Taylor was inaugurated Monday, March 5, 1849. Under the presidential succession law of his day, Atchison became President from his seat as president pro tempore of the U. S. Senate.

Our present succession law, about which so much is being heard today, was approved by Congress July 18, 1947. This act and another in 1948 established the line of succession in the event of the death or disability of the President.

The line goes from the Vice President to the Speaker of the House, to Senate President pro tem, the Secretary of State House." and then on through the Cabinet.

HOUSER

Much of the succession talk today centers on concern that the two in the present line who would take over in the event of nation's voters for the presidency or vice the death of Lyndon Johnson are aged men -Speaker John McCormack, who will be 72 on Dec. 21, and Senate President pro tem Carl Hayden, 86.

new House speaker would be elected improve the succession situation.

"McCORMACK and Hayden appear to be somewhat resentful of the concern expressed over the present arrangement," Hosmer said. "They seem to be taking it as personal attack. However, I don't believe this is House. This fact would allow the House, in the case at all. Congress now has the power to fix the mutually incompatible."

DAVID RICE ATCHISON became the 12th succession matter by law. And Hosmer has solution in mind.

He would have the House elect a new vice president, from its membership or elsewhere. This, says Hosmer, would take the Speaker off the hook and would provide a man to stand by the new President and

Hosmer adds that the congressionally. elected vice president would not have to sacrifice his House seat, his seniority or his House committee ranks.

"FOR EXAMPLE," said Hosmer, "a man like Wilbur Mills, chairman of the powerful Ways and Means Committee, would not be required to sacrifice that situation. He would, in effect, be given a leave of absence from that post during the time he was serving as Vice President and understudying the President. Thus you don't make a good man unavailable by taking away his seat in the

At the next election the interim vice president could resume his seat or, at his option, could run for election on his own before the presidency.

Two large retailers said that sales trends convince them that despite the tragedy and despite the shorter shop ping season, total Christmas sales volume will be as high as last year's,

Steelmakers said they saw no disruption and production rose for the sixth successive LOOKING AHEAD, businessmen viewed with interest the talk of sharper economizing by President Johnson and speculation that a federal tax cut may come sooner than expected.

Opinion sampling at the convention of the National Association of Manufecturers in New York found many businessmen saying Johnson may be friendlier toward business and more conservative in policy than his predecessor, Looking at the past few weeks, some husinessmen said the sharp rebound of the stock market and the smooth transition of government affairs should bolster confition to absorb bad blows.

Meanwhile, the financial world saw Allan P. Kirby re-Street brokerage firms and raising the specter of a $100 million loss.

ON THE international business scene, the so-called Chicken war moved along with the United States detailing boosts in tariffs of potato starch, brandy, automobile trucks and dextrine and soluble or chemically treated starches. This was to inflict $26 million in trade losses in retaliation for European tariffs causing that much damage to sales of American

On the price front, Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp. announced a boost of 1 per cent in the ingot price of aluminum to 24 cents a pound. Rises were also posted for zinc from 121/2 cents a pound to 13 cents, some machine tools and some metal cans. Coffee prices also rose though not universally,

The Consumer Price Index in October hit a record of 107.2 (1957-1959 equals 100) from 107.1 the previous three months, but the Labor Department insisted there was no indication of inflation.

Figures continued to comin on how consumer spending was affected by the Kennedy tragedy. Government economists estimated that the November total probably fell below October's record $20.8

STILL, SEARS, Roebuck & Co. officials reported that their sales hit a record in November and they predicted "the holiday season will be the biggest in the nation's clude compact cars, gaudy sports cars and fancy sedans. The 1963 Auto Show, held in the same arena, drew 33,-000 people, McLaughlin re-called. He said the 1964 attendance will top that figure and perhaps set a record for a city of this size.

The show will open daily at 1 p.m. Announcement of ticket sales will be made soon, McLaughlin said.

"THIS YEAR'S show is meeting tremendous success from exhibitors," McLaughlin leclared, "Virtually all of the major exhibition space has been contracted for. The suc-cess of our 1963 exhibition indicates the auto show has become a permanent part of the Long Beach scene.

He complimented the City of Long Beach for construction of the Arena

Too Much . . . or . . . Too Little

★ There is hardly anything in the world that same man cannot make a little worse, and sell a little cheaper; and the people who consider price ONLY are this man's low-ful prey. It is unwise to pay too much, but it's worse to pay too little. When you pay too much, you lose a little money—that is all. ★ When you pay too little you sametimes lose everything, because the item you bought is incapable of doing the thing it was bought to do. ★ The common law of business balance prohibits poying a little, and getting a lot.

Showcase Homes Ready by Holiday

Showcase Home in Westminster is offered by builder William Krueger. These one and two-story homes feature an oversize fireplace which lends itself to imaginative holiday decorating.

A growing room is the most popular feature of split-level plans at Showcase Homes. This enables homebuyers to... have as many as six bedrooms and three baths with an oversize two-car garage, Krueger. also offers three plans for finishing the growing room by the homebuyer or a builder-finished option. This spacious area can also be used as a large family activity center.

PRICED FROM $19,995 and requiring $395 down, the dwellings come in 18 eievations. All electric kitchens have deluxe built-in range, oven, automatic dishwasher and garbage disposer. Ceramic tile is installed here and a convenient breakfast bar for serving into the spacious family room.

Wall - to - wall carpeting is used throughout the home and marble pullman and ceramic tile baths are featured. Slate or stone entry halls are an added nicety.

Decorator furnished models of the second unit of these homes can be seen daily on Hazard, east of Hwy, 39.

on as little as $300 a month

It's like getting rich overnight . . . what this wonderful way of life does to retirement budgets. A lot of folks are living on less than $300 a month including making the payment on their home. Just imagine how inexpensive it is for single people and those who pay cash.

You'll have a fortune in facilities for just a nickel a day including the Riviera-size swimming pool, shuffleboard courts, lawn bowling green, fully-equipped workshops and studios and the big Town Hall. You can even play that beautiful Championship Golf Course at greatly reduced rates.

Your transportation costs will be minimal what with everything right in town. An entire week's worth of trips to the shopping center, church services, club meetings, recreation facilities and friends' homes or dining out at Del Webb's Kings inn will hardly move the needle on your gas gauge.

Originated by Del Webb, this active, fun-filled economical way of retired living has no equal anywhere. But then only a company of the magnitude of the Del E. Webb Corporation could create such beautiful and complete cities . . . as those in California, Arizona and Florida whose 12,000 residents will tell you that you'll be wasting your money and your time to live anywhere else.

Buyers Guide to Medallion Homes

The only electrically modern homes... in every price range

The Medallion Home Award is a cornersione for modern living-a solid basis for a home's lasting value, today and in the future. Compare the detailed electrical construction requirements for the Medallion Home Award with those for any other type of new home symbol.

You'll discover the Medallion Home Award is the one award that requires a new home to conform to specific and rigid standards, giving important value to the buyer. Here are just some of the qualifications:

- 1. A flameless electric kitchen equipped with major appliances, including range and oven.
- 2. Full "Housepower" Wiring provides capacity for at least twenty circuits, considered a minimum for modern living; large enough wires; 240 volt service for the electrical capacity every home needs.
- 3. Abundant lighting planned for comfort, convenience and beauty. A total-electric Gold Medallion Home gives you all these benefits plus:
- 4. Flameless electric home and water heating.

Clock Runs Out on Cadets; Cotton Bowl Next for Middies

Fullback Pat Donnelly ran for three touchdowns Saturday and hard-pressed Navy captured its fifth straight victory over Army, 21-15, when the clock ran out with the Cadets just two yards short of a score in a football game dedicated to their slain Commander-in-Chief, John F. Kennedy.

Directly after the game, Navy announced it had accepted a bid to the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Tex., on Jan, 1 where it will meet unbeaten, top-ranked

Visions of Starr, Stars'

By JERRY WYNN The Rams took the hook

Saturday. Bart Starr tossed three touchdown hook passes to Maxie (the Taxi) McGee and Herb Adderley flattened Jim Phillips with a right hook to the chin as the Green Bay Packers whipped the Rams, 31-14, at the Coliseum.

The Rams had led at halftime, 14-10, and a crowd of 52,357 chomped heartily at its hotdogs in anticipation of third quarter, the Rams succumbed to their old postintermission bugaboo as the Packers roared away for two

The triumph boosted Green Bay's record to 10-2-1 and enabled the Packers to keep in hailing distance of the Chicago Bears, who play San Francisco on national television today. Saturday's game also was shown across the

However, neither the cameras nor many in attendance saw the altercation between Adderley and Phillips, which ended in a one-punch knock-out for the 205-pound defensive back of the Packers and ejection from the game for both players.

ADDERLEY had hooked (naturally) in front of Phillips to intercept a sideline pass by Roman Gabriel midway in the third quarter. Phillips appeared to jump on Adderley's back to haul him out of bounds. It wasn't five seconds before the fiery, redneaded star end of the Rams was seeing red, stars and sky-blue from a view flat on

"He jumped on my back and was chocking me," said Adderley. "After the play 'you're going to learn how to tackle as well as catch passes.' Then he kicked me.

"I looked at him, I measured him, and I hit him right on the jaw with my right hand. I wasn't going to miss this chance and hit his hel-

The blow went under the face mask and split Adderley's knuckles. But it was square on target.

Adderley revealed that he had been feuding with Phil-lips for a long time. "Every time he runs down field, he gives me an elbow."

Phillips was reluctant to comment, but denied kicking Adderley, "He was cursing at me on the sideline. I couldn't understand exactly what he said. Then he swung at me. I couldn't believe it when the referee kicked me out."

WHILE THE silver belt went to Adderley, game laurels for the Packers were divided among Starr, McGee and Jim Taylor. Starr shredded the Ram secondary for 14-of-26 completions for 205 yards. McGee caught 7 including the 3 pay off pitches. Taylor rumbled for 113 yards in 17 carries and looked as shifty as Dee Andrews on a 40-yard touchdown jaunt. Bill Forester, subbing for Ray Nitschke at middle linebacker, and end Willie Davis were stars of a hard-charging Packer defense which threw Gabriel six times for 59 backward yards. Bill Munson, the Rams' new quarterback as-pirant, watched the game from the press box and must have thought, "Utah State never was like this!"

For one half, at least, Gabriel and his Rams clearly outplayed the world champions.

GREEN BAY opened the scoring at 10:37 of the first quarter on a 25-yard pass from Starr to McGee. The gangling receiver hooked away from Bobby Smith for the catch on the Ram 4 and dragged Smith over the goal. The Packers had moved from their own 42 in five plays aided by a 20-yard run by Starr.

Carver Shannon returned the ensuing kickoff 55 yards to the Packer 39, adroitly

The Clients Compose

A staggering amount of correspondence has been received the past week on Poly High's unfortunate CIF disqualification, but let's get on to greener pas-__tures . . . like these:

"Your column has clashed with my humble opinion. The record indicates that USC was not the best football team in the West this year. For a squad that many believed should have been a polished, superior edition of the 1962 Trojans, the team produced sometimes brilliant, oftentimes fitful performances. Let's he honest and admit that Oklahoma,

Notre Dame and Washington were better teams on those given Saturdays, and rule out Trojan misfakes and wet fields as the exclusive reasons for defeat. I cannot agree with you that USC is the best in the

tion for 1963, but all coast teams contributed to a more fascinating season." (signed) Leonard Chambers, 2067 E. Broadway.

HANK

HOLLINGWORTH

(Fascinating? I'd rather term it ridiculous - if a Team with a 2-7 record still has a chance to go to the Rose Bowl as late as its last game of the season.)

"Any team that plays the Washington Huskies in the anud should receive 14 points before the game starts. That would put the dry track teams on equal basis. P.S. I'm a lucky fellow. I retired from Civil Service this year and . my wife still brings my coffee and toast to my bed, just like when I was working." (signed) Thomas B. Browne, (That's what I'd call having a dry field and 14 points

"Please inform your photographer, Mr. Chuck Sundquist, that he and other taxpayers can relax. All expenses for high school athletic contests (except coaches' salaries) are paid for by the student body from game receipts. Also, all band equipment, uniforms, transportation and other, expenses are paid by the student body. In regard to the helicopters used to dry Millikan's field, they were arranged by Charles Linza of World Helicopters. One copter was being delivered to Hayward and the other to Whirlybirds in Oxnard. It pays to have friends." (signed) Norm Wilky, Poly High Student Body President.

(Neither Mr. Sundquist nor I would know.)

REGARDING YOUR ARTICLE on the Angels and Long Beach, I must say I think this is the opportunity that Long Beach should not pass by. But most of all, I think now is the time for citizens of Long Beach, Orange County and surrounding areas to put forth their voiced opinions. We should start a car humper campaign, such as 'Angels for Long Beach'," (signed) Ernest J. deTournillon, 3021-A East Second St.

(How about it, sports fans and Bert Bond?)

"In regard to Mr. Bud Tucker's column on our fair city I would like to say this: I am an avid baseball fan and would like to see the Angels make this their home. The Angels would, no doubt, prosper here, as have our citizens. Name-calling is for the jealous little children who don't know any better. Apparently, neither does Mr. Tucker. I think Tucker is as funny as rubber crutches in a polio ward. As he is living in West Covina, I don't see where this should concern him or his 'large' newspaper. Mr. Tucker is probably the only one who reads his tripe, anyway." (signed) Ralph Mullen, 1136 Linden Ave.

(How about a car bumper campaign, "Keep Tucker

"If the Angels come to Long Beach, I predict they won't starve, but will eat a lot of hamburger. I see you are about to pick up the old story that some had in Los Angeles: Down with O'Malley. Who runs to the bank singing? Who gets the fans? I notice you thought quite a lot of the Dodgers when they won the pennant. If YOU can get L.B. people to get their bottoms off a nice soft chair in front of their TV set and go to any sport, YOU deserve a crown. I wish you luck. You shall need it."

Giardello Takes Tiger's Title

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (P)-Joey Giardello, a battlescarred veteran with a troubled past, won the world middleweight boxing crown from Nigeria's Dick Tiger Saturday night in 15 rounds on a decision that was wildly cheered by a big crowd at Convention Hall.

The 33-year-old Giardello, a pro for 16 years, was given eight rounds by referee Paul Cavalier, the sole official, who voted five for Tiger, the 3-1 favorite, and called two rounds even.

Giardello, a rangy, boxer type, used the old pattern of jab, sharpshoot and move against an ever-pressing opponent. Tiger missed often and seemed to have trouble catching up with Pal Joey who used the ring to his ad-

There were no knockdowns and neither fighter appeared to be in trouble at any time as Giardello took an early lead, quickly widened it and closed strong.

Giardello had missed on one previous try for the 160-pound crown when he fought a 15-round draw with Gene Fullmer in Bozeman, Montana, in 1960. Since then, Tiger had won the title from Fullmer and twice defended against him.

TIGER, UNBEATEN in 10 fights over a three-year span, had not fought since he whipped Fullmer last August in his native Nigeria. At 159 pounds, Tiger had trouble untracking himself against an elusive target.

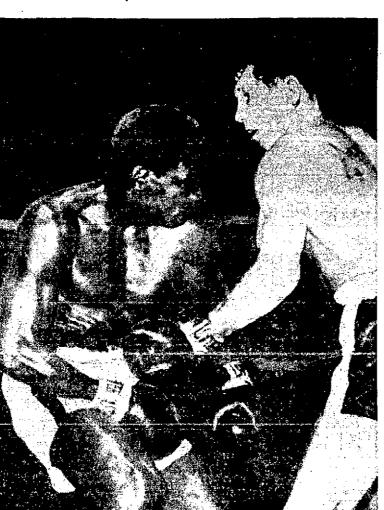

Giardello, 158, flicked a left jab, moved away and then cut loose with his right hand at long range. Tiger stalked but failed to throw enough punches. When Tiger did cut loose, too many were wild and too many were Referee Cavalier gave the new champ the first, fourth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, 11th and 14th rounds. He scored the second, third, fifth, 10th and 12th for Tiger and called the 13th and 15th even. The AP card was 9-5-1 in favor of Giardello.

There was no radio or television broadcast of this

Tiger, whose real name is Dick Ihetu, was making his third defense. Both the others had been against Fullmer, from whom he won the title Oct. 23, 1962, in San Francisco.

It was the climax of a long uphill battle for Giardello, born in Brooklyn, July 16, 1930 as Carmine Tilleli. He picked up the name Joey Giardello while in the Army and stuck with it all the way. He was in trouble with the law in 1955 for assault on a gas station attendant and

There are no mightier rams than the Rocky Mountain Bighorns which live on the rugged slopes of Utah.

A peaceful animal, it can fight with fury when aroused over a lover or enemy. In pursuit, it propels its large body gracefully down nearly vertical inclines in 20foot bounds. Its horns are massive and borne proudly.

standing football player.

For a man who majored in high finance in college, Merlin, isn't there an easier way to make a living than playing defensive tackle in professional football?

"Yes there probably is. I usually feel this way every Monday morning when I roll out of bed and count my toes and inspect my body for broken bones. But I enjoy the game and it is a stepping stone for other things."

What other things?

"I hope to go into business. The reputation you can make from being successful in athletics and the persons you are able to meet are healthy advantages to that kind of career."

second season, has pro football lived up to your expectations?

"Yes. The only disappointment was that we couldn't do better as a learn last year. There are lots of disappointments to a losing season. It is very difficult to adjust to losing. This year, we're greatly improved and consequently I am enjoying the game a great deal more.

What do you think about when you walt at the line of scrimmage for a play to begin?

"Before or as you prepare to line up, you try to analyze the situation, the down and distance, the territory, do they have a drive going. You learn to feel these things instinctively. Once you are down on the line, the situation is one of actual perception rather than thought. If you have to think, you aren't going to do well. Everything is geared to reaction."

Danny Villanueva converted for a 14-7 lead with 8:48 lapsed, and the Rams should have called it a day.

THE SECOND-HALF handwriting may have been on the wall late in the second quarter when two piling-on penalties against the Rams resulted in a 41-yard field goal by Jerry Kramer. The second came on a fourth down and allowed Green Bay to keep the ball.

The Packers took the third-quarter kickoff and drove 83 Taylor gulping the final 40. He looked like a fullback as he cracked up the middle and a scatback as he hipped by Cliff Livingston and Ed Meader.

Green Bay roared into a 24 14 lead the next time it took the ball. Starr passed to Mc-Gee for 25 and Boyd Dowler for 13 before connecting with McGee for the final 16 yards

The Packers soon were threatening again following the interception by Adderley, but the Rams received a break when McGee dropped an easy touchdown pass and Kramer missed a field goal from the 22.

NFL Not 'Scared'—Just Cautious

As late as a week ago, it would have been difficult to imagine the all-powerful National Football League "running scared" of the rival AFL. However, several top observers insist that this is the implication to be drawn from the NFL's marathon draft session which lasted almost 22 hours. The NFL teams were afraid to risk a high draft choice without first getting reasonable assurance from the players that they would consider all offers before signing with the AFL clubs that had drafted them two days earlier.

It was more than "run-ning scared," however. As one NFL source points out, "it was just good business."

One of the slimmest talent pools in a decade was the reason why the NFL clubs were so careful with their top selections. As it has been pointed out, it took 8 hours and 8 minutes to complete the first round.

Because of the slim pickings, the NFL switched tactics in competing for talent. In past years, the tendency was to draft normally, bid up to a certain

'Exhorbitant' Contract figure and then, if unsuccessful, let the AFL pick up the tab for fat contracts. The NFL has lost several players it would liked to have had, but allegedly figured this strategy would pay off in the long run because it would hurt the upstart new league where it always hurts the most-in the pocket-The AFL dropped $10 million in its first three years of operation and despite "better business" than ever before this season, losses of the eight clubs likely will total around another $1 million, THE LENGTH OF THE DRAFT-particularly the first round-will be discussed at the annual NFL meeting in Miami next month. New ground rules undoubtedly will be set up to prevent taking so long in the future.

After the first round, the NFL draft moved rather quickly. The other 266 players were chosen in 12 hours and 17 minutes. The American League, meanwhile, didn't set any speed records. It took the younger circuit 10 hours to pick only 160 players. So, the NFL wasn't exactly running scared-just being cautious. The one NFL club that "gambled" on the first round promptly got burned. That team, of course, was the Detroit Lions, who selected USC's Pete Beathard despite the fact it was common knowledge that the Kansas City Chiefs of the AFL had the inside track on his services because of "old family ties" with Don Klosterman, the Chiefs' talent scout.

THE LIONS, NEVERTHELESS, made every effort to sign Beathard. Detroit general manager Edwin J. Anderson already was on his way by plane to Los Angeles to meet with Beathard before the first round was con-

In an unprecedented move, Norm Van Brocklin, coach of the Minnesota Vikings, even talked by longdistance telephone to Beathard on behalf of the Lions as Anderson was winging his way to Southern California. William Clay Ford, owner of the Lions, admitted it was strictly a gamble in choosing Beathard . . . but blasted Kansas City's bid as "exhorbitant and unrealistic, As far as we're concerned, it's good riddance at those prices."

According to Ford, Kansas City owner, Texas oil millionaire Lamar Hunt, beat out the Lions with a fan-tastic contract that will give Beathard (1) a bonus in excess of $15,000 for signing, (2) a new car, (3) a no-cut contract calling for more than $20,000 a year, (4) a paidup life insurance policy for his wife and child, (5) option on shares of stock in a pay-TV corporation, cost of which reportedly will be financed by Hunt, and (6) free rent in Kansas City for him and his family for an unspecified

THE 49ERS ARE THE ONES who threw the first monkey wrench into the NFL draft machinery with a surprise move that caught everyone unprepared. They used their No. 1 pick to select Dave Parks, Texas Tech

He is the first end drafted No. I in the NFL since Leon Hart was taken by Detroit in 1950.

Parks was rated highly by everyone because of his great speed. He has been clocked in 4.5 seconds for 40 yards in football gear. His coach at Texas Tech says "you see him in a game and he's all over the field, but you don't fully realize his true greatness until you check the movies and see all the things he does."

The selection was unexpected because the 49ers (1) already had picked Oregon State's great end, Vern Burke, as a "future" a year ago, and (2) everyone figured they would take quarterback George Mira of Miami U.

THE DALLAS COWBOYS already had committments from Parks as well as from Charles Taylor, Arizona State back who was picked third hy Washington. That's why it took them 2 hours and 39 minutes to come up with another choice-Scott Appleton, Texas tackle.

The only real long delay after the first round came on the 49ers' selection that led off the second round. San Francisco officials talked with Mira by telephone in Miami before choosing him.

Mira later indicated he would sign with the 49ers but admitted that he "was disappointed about not being No. 1 after being told that I would be the first pick. I guess things changed. Anyway, before the 49ers drafted me, I had a long talk with them and we got things worked out between us. However, I won't be able to come to any terms until after my last game.'

Great Improvement for Temple Bar

Here's the best news Lake Mead fishermen have had for months: The physical properties and lease at Temple Bar have been bought by a dozen Long Beach men and the rehabilitation of that landing will be started immediately with new docks, slips, launching ramp, motel and trailer park.

It will be known as Temple Bar Marina, Inc. This is no idle gesture on the part of the Long Beach men, all prominent in various businesses. They have had the plan in mind for sometime, but the government was unable to break the lease with the former owners.

A court in Phoenix ordered the sale on Dec. 2 and the Long Beach men immediately started on plans that had been drawn up.

Those plans call for the construction of a marina with 120 slips, a wide concrete launching ramp, a trailer park that will take care of 100 units, 30 new motel units, all air-conditioned, enlargement and improvement of the restaurant, new fuel docks and new aluminum boats Fand new outboards.

Oddly enough, 10 of the 12 men are members of the Southern California Tuna Club, yet the corporation has nothing to do with the SCTC. The Tuna Club each year has a campout 20 miles from Temple Bar. As many as 80 men have attended the five-day camp. Numbers of the club have not liked what they saw at Temple Bar. Ten decided that something should be done and

WALTER (WALT) HOFFMAN is president of the corporation; Herbert Murphy, first vice president; Arthur N. (Art) Macrate, second vice president; J. S. (Jim) Kuster, secretary, and J. W. (Jim) Wood, treasurer. Other members of the corporation are William F. (Bill) Macrate, Ansol Murphy, Carter Livingston, Harvey Kuster, Carter Boswell, Dick Browning and Harrison Moore.

Temple Bar is not the closest launching place on Lake Mead, but it certainly does have the best fishing. Water-skiers prefer those marinas closer to Hoover Dam and that is good for both themselves and the fishermen.

I have watched the dilapidation of Temple Bar for several seasons as it became worse and worse, but for obvious reasons I could not accuse any individual in public print. I know that it will be a herculean task to put Temple Bar in top-notch shape. I know each of the corporation directors personally and they'll get an excellent job done as quickly as possible.

The reconditioning of the marina and the surrounding property does not mean that the average fishermen, or camper, will not be just as welcome as the owner of a large yacht.

It will be a fisherman's landing primarily, with better accommodations, better service, better food. Mac Miller, a veteran of the Lake Mead country and a man with much energy and drive, is the acting manager.

TWO GREAT HORNED OWLS supplied by the Ohio Division of Wildlife have a job to do for the Air Force. They are being employed to keep flocks of pigeons and sparrows from roosting in the B47 jet bomber maintenance hangers at the Air Force's Lockbourne Base near Columbus.

The Air Force officials hope that it will save thousands of man hours in cleaning hanger floors and aircraft each month. The owls had to be caged in the roof until they became acclimatized.

Gosh, one of those owls might be the answer to several hundred sparrows that use the magnolia trees in front of our house!

A sailing photography contest will be held in conjunction with the second annual International Sailboat and Yacht Show Jan. 3-12 in the Long Beach Arena. A $50 top prize will be awarded and the competing photos

Pictures must be of sailboats or related sailing activities and will be judged for beauty, composition and Interest. Pictures become the property of the show.

All entries should be 8x10 inches or larger, and should be mailed to International Sailboat and Yacht Show, 3363 Lime Ave., Long Beach 7. For further information call GArfield 4-0336.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS - There's a major change in archery-a square target instead of the conventional round one used for many years. There are eight different sizes of the Precision-Pak backstop and the targets are being manufactured at Pico Rivera by Western Wood.

The targets are made with wood fiber mats, compressed, bound with twine and then covered with burlap and the target material. Famed archer Howard Hill calls the target the toughest ever manufactured. More than one million arrows were shot into the targets by professional archers at Enchanted Forest in July and all the targets held up well.

The Southern Council of Conservation Clubs likes John Lowery and the way he gets things done. He has been elected for the second two-year term as president. Other officers are M. W. Doornbos, vice president; Del Schell, executive secretary, and Leroy Nichols, treasurer.

They and the directors will be installed at a meeting Dec. 18 in the Mobil Oil Building, Sixth and Flower, Los Angeles. It is open to all club delegates and to the recreation-minded general public.

Motor Boating, 959 8th Ave., New York 19, N.Y., has issued a new and enlarged edition of C. F. Chapman's 'Piloting, Seamanship and Small Boat Handling," referred to as the "Bible of Boating." It is used in all safe-boating classes. The most recent edition is priced at $6.

PACKAGES, PANDEMONIUM . . . crowds and confusion. That's the plight of busy housewife-clubwoman Mrs. Marvin Garvin, who-along with a hundred thousand other shoppers—is currently caught; up in the biggest Christmas gift-buying sprec in Long Beach history.

away, they realize suddenly it's too late to do their Christmas shopping early. And so ... with only 14 shopping days left ... The the big rush is on! As one local merchant pointed out: "We try to get people to shop before the last minute. But they just WILL wait until after Thanksgiving. 1963 Christmas

The Merchandise Is Great --Only the Customers Are Shopworn

> Staff Photos By Joe Risinger

Ellis Carlton

MEANWHILE, Santa sends words from the North Pole that it'll be the biggest gift spending spree in history, with each shopper doling out an average $165 for Christmas goodies.

And he notes that shoppers, early or late, never had it so good in the nifty-gifty department.

ing gifts-both zany and practical-than Santa ever twinkled an eye over.

He predicts, further, that there'll be lots of "trad--the tendency of shoppers to buy more costly stuff for friends and relatives.

It will be a good year for color TV, high-priced fashions, expensive appliances (big and small), hi-fi sets, cameras, "second set" TVs, jewelry, Paris perfumes, high-grade furniture.

Powered toys, too, are on the increase-everything from miniature home appliances to liny cars. New educational toys are designed to teach small fry basic optics, linear measurements and simple counting.

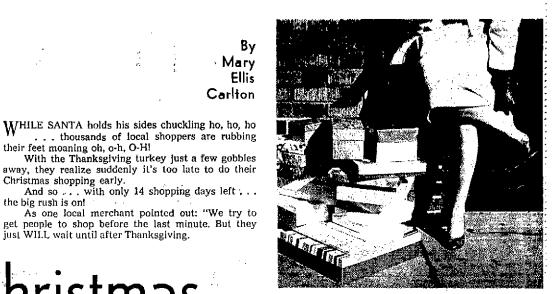

There are dolls that cry and drool and blow up balloons . . . dolls whose hair grows and dolls that squirm with pleasure as they are fed from bottles. There are dolls that cry when spanked and laugh when tickled. One is equipped for a conversation in six languages, another coughs and sneezes between conversational gambits. Her young owner is supposed to nurse her back to health.

A RECONNAISSANCE flight through local stores proves that for the man who has everything, you haven't seen ANYTHING yet.

For the executive who's in more than out, there's a handsome double-duty desk lamp ($50), handsomely brass-based. One light is for working, the other is for

When taking off for outer places, Mr. Exec canwithout bending-slip on his shoes with a long-handled shoe horn ($2), polish them with a stand-up shoe polisher and whisk his suit with an electric-powered clothes brush ($3). When he's on the road, there's a new battery powered blinker ($7.95) that can be placed on the highway to flash danger when the car breaks

BOXES AND BUNIONS . . . the shopper's lament. On gift-buying: binge, Mrs. Garvin finds merchandise of high-quality . . . but SHE'S shopworn.

ZANY GIFTS ALWAYS crop up at Christmas, but there appear to be more than ever this year. Among other things, stores are offering yard of ale glasses, tweeter sweaters (one sweater built for two), $1,000 chinchilla sweaters, jars of gourmet stones, vermouth-flavored, for "stone dry martinis," and Santa Claus bars of soap that grow beards.

Such items often serve mainly as attention get-ters and stir up lots of interest among shoppers. For instance, the yard of ale glasses ($65), mounted on handsome brass bases, make beautiful decorator pieces. Conversation pieces, too. It's an old English custom: drink all 36 inches of ale, become a member of the club.

The tweeter sweaters, just the thing for companionable couples, are the latest gimmick for cold stadiums. Retailing at $25, they have two necks, one sleeve for each wearer and a single slit in the middle for hot dog eating or hand holding.

On the more practical side are new-this-year Ronson gas candles ($25 pair) that look and burn like regular candles, electric carving knives that cut into the budget $23 worth and new bow-matic machines ($12) that turn out a half dozen different styles of real pro gift-wrapping bows.

NEW FOR the ladies are stretch costume rings, beautifully jeweled . . . electric manicure sets in aitractive plastic cases . . . yummy fur-trimmed suede coats . . . and watches that come in lockets, pendants, rings, cuff-links-even earrings.

For the woman who wants everything: a $400 mink vest.

By Iola Masterson 1, P-T Women's Editor

IT'S A BIG job and it takes a big pot of coffee to keep the cheerful workers warm, happy and at it. The Lemon Avenue Gang is up to its good works againand drinking coffee, as witness, below, Marie Sechrest accepting seconds (or is that thirds, or fourths?) from Alice Patterson while Marge Simcox waits her turn,

Lemon Avenue Gang gangs up for yule charity.

Ten years ago it all started and it's a heart-warming (as well as coffee warming type story). It was while Wes Rollo was on the board of the Salvation Army that he and Betty adopted a needy family to care for at Christmas.

Neighbors of their Lemon Avenue Gang between Marshal Place and Roosvelt Road pitched in and it was so successful it became a yearly project.

The heip-each-other effort has grown in effort and enthusiasm until this year three families, representing 17 people, will be taken care of-food, clothing and

After all the chores are done in garage work shops, the gang treats themselves to a tea party in one of the homes. This year Marge and Dr. Tom Simcox will host the affair.

A few of the others who participate in this worth while cause, through the Salvation Army, are Cleo and Earl Beauchamp, Emma and Arden Charrlin, Virginia and Dr. John Faris, Norma and Frazer Merritt, Marie and Earl Sechrest and Alice and Ken Patterson.

WHILE SOME dream of skimming over the snow. others dream of skin diving in the warm waters off Mexico. Such is the way of people.

Bea and Gene Cuthbertson (he is prexy of Equity Securities) left for Mexico City Wednesday for a brief visit, then will head on to Acapulco and Puerto Vallarta for about three weeks of purely pleasure skin diving. They're avid fans of underwater picture snapping and took their special cameras along with them -with more loving care than the rest of their luggage, Bea and Gene both love to water ski as well as dive and Gene is a positive push-over for a marlin fishing search. This he plans definitely to do.

Wild Waves Say...

All I can guess, package wrapping will be a hectic affair on their return because Bea plans, somehow or another, in all this marvelous melee of merriment, to complete her shopping.

SPEAKING OF shopping, Sue and Ron Brunner BOTH have their Christmas shopping all done. It isn't wrapped vet-iust hidden, sald Sue sorrowfully.

What makes this so miraculous is that they've been in the middle of re-modeling. They're doubling the size of their living room, adding to the family room and planning some sturdy shifting around in the kitchen department, too. While they can sing a song of sixpence spent (or charged) regarding shopping done they, moan a mite because the remodeling will NOT be finished by Christmas. Where the tree and the wrapped (if ever) gifts will go are still a mystery— or should I say, plans are still up a tree.

MARSHALLING forces, St. Mary's Hospital Guild is, anent former plans, continuing daily operation of its Christmas gift show and sale through Dec. 15th.

Volunteers must man posts from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily (including Sunday) which is quite a stint for hours' keepers, workers and telephoners to keep the show on the road.

Big daily stint is in the doctors dining room and where the doctors dine these days I knowest not-but not there. Marie De Noyelles is chairman. Some of her right handers are Helen Hamer, Mary Hodge, Prez "Jo" Voorhees and Peggy Fisher, naming a minimum handful.

Guild, incidentally, will have double duty both pleasure and work, Thursday. They'll entertain new members at annual coffee hour at Ferrel Shug's home and give out first concrete word of Day at the Races, slated for April 29th.

Committee members assisting include Lorraine Schultz, Virginia Brennen, Pat Guiver, Katie Harper, Edith Parr and Betty Munholland.

HAPPY HUNTING grounds during the holidays won't be Long Beach for Janie and Gil Brown. They'll go first to Denver to visit her parents then head on for ule in St. Paul to be with daughter and son-in-law, Sally and Hunt McCauley, and the two little ones, Stevie and Mary Beth.

TO PROMULGATE good food on the table-and keep their professional interest alive in their chosen field-L.B. Home Economists in Homemaking (in the home, now, generally for reasons of marriage) had a great progressive dinner party Saturday night. Can't you just imagine what kind of fare husbands fared

Dinner began at Margaret and George Foor's, 366 Orlena; next stop was Edna and Sigurd Nelsons, 408 Santiago, and dessert, tummies full and guests a-sighing in total contentment, was at Mildred and Harold Frerks, 393 Los Altos—all homes within walk-ing distance in Alamitos Heights. Not such a bad idea, considering who was cooking, what was being cooked and that exercise was needed between courses.

BRINGING DOWN the house-no new experience to any of them—were the "tired Jeannette McDonalds" (MC Marvin Cloyd's term—not mine!) who performed an hilarious vocalized skit at Civic Light Opera's awards night dinner Tuesday at the Lafayette.

Matador Marvin (he's plenty brave; wait'll you hear what he said in introducing CLO's five prima donnas -Laura Killingworth, Jackie Waggoner, Betty Kimber, Patty Zeig and Betty Arntzen) began "We have five leading ladies . . . who have competed for parts since the beginning of time—whoops!—I mean beginning of Civic Light Opera.

All good friends, the songstresses then put on a vocal free-for-all in shrill tones, each proclaiming why SHE should be THE star of the group. The socalled "wornout prima donnas" proved themselves anything but that. Certainly, they're among the most humorous of gals, who at one time "intuned," in words written by Betty Kimber, skit authoress: "Our rocking chairs are ready, but before we go, we want you all to know; we'll all be there auditioning for 'Molly

WHILE MOST of us tanned near the sand-or on it-over the long last weekend, doughty members of L.B. Ski Club went by car caravan to Mammoth for tanning in the snow at June Mountain.

When there's snow on the hill tops there's joy in their hearts and no shushing up the urge for schussing. Pictured below among the 20 or so members from here who went are Vicki Vick, Will Martin, Velma Georges, Don Smith, and, with back to camera, Toby Von Euw, director of the ski school at June but, other than snow season, a resident of LB and member of

No one says "shh" when schussing trip planned.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee L. Beemer

Mr. and Mrs. Lee L. Beemer will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary this afternoon with an open house from 2 to 5 o'clock at their home, 3218 E. Second St.

The couple married on Dec. 10, 1913 in Pawpaw, Ill. They lived on a farm in Lee County, Ill. for two years, then moved to Pawpaw, where Beemer was a Ford dealer and had a farm implement business.

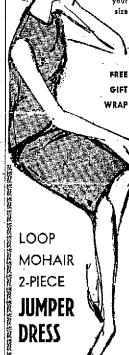

In 1920 Mr. and Mrs. Beemer came to Long Beach, where they entered the real estate business in 1926. They are still active real estate brokers.

They have one son, Elman Beemer, and a grandson, also Long Beach residents.

Women Golfers Score

By CURTYNE DRISCOLL

Twenty-three years as starter at Recreation Park Golf Course has turned his hair gray, Gene Combs claims. And lady golfers may have helped:

There are lots more and better women players these days," Combs said recently, "but I still get some pretty remarkable questions."

Like: "What is my starting time?"

"Two forty-five," was the answer.

"You mean in the afternoon?" she asks.

And then there was the woman who called him and asked what time the fog would lift. And the one who wanted to know if he gave "wind checks."

Women's Auxiliary to the Recreation Park Golf Club, now the Recreation Park Women's Golf Club, had its first meeting at the Naples home of charter member Mrs, Leonard A, Jones in October, 1928. Mrs. Edward M. Miller was elected president by the 10 women who comprised the membership.

The group has recently had to close the membership at 135 members and now has a waiting list of applicants. Membership is still open in the women's groups at Recreation Park South Course, Skylinks and El Dorado, however.

Mrs. R. L. Burke, a charter member, says, "The big difference is that in those days a score of 100 was really good for a woman player. Now you've got to shoot under 80 to be good."

Better equipment, more regular play and more uniform teaching is responsible for the new lower scores, according to Mrs. Burke.

Early members used to play once or twice a week, she remembers. Now a great number belong to two or three clubs and play daily. Metal shafts have replaced wooden ones and shorts and shirts have taken the place of skirts and sweaters.

Mrs. Burke has a full day on Tuesday, Ladies Day at the Recreation Park Golf Course. Following tournament play she and three feliow golfers adiourn for an afternoon of bridge.

Among the woman golfers interviewed, there was just one regret-that they had not started playing golf sooner.

South Course President Mrs. Don Haines said, "I'm sorry I didn't start before, It's a wonderful sport for every age, however. We have one member who is 78."

Requirements for membership differ at each course. A 26 handicap-five scores, one with 104 or better-is required at Recreation Park, Members must play once a month to be eligible for tournament play.

A less experienced feminine golfer called Combs recently and asked for a starting time for a party of 10.

After explaining that the game was usually played by foursomes. Combs inquired if she and her friends had played golf before.

"Oh, yes." said she, "we all played at Shady Acres last night and had so much fun we decided that we'd like to play a larger course."

Q. What kind of court order is a "writ of mandamus"? T. O.

A. This is the legal name given to a court order which is served on a government official or an officer of a corporation who refuses to do something which is a required part of his legal duties. The order commands the official to do his duty.

word "mandamus" is Latin for "we command"; the court

Q. Why do dogs have such watery saliva? C. R.
A. When a dog is eating, he secretes a small amount of a rather sticky kind of saliva, but when he is not eating he secretes a watery kind for couling purposes. Two different nerves go to his salivary glands; according to which nerve transmits mes-sages from his brain to his mouth, the dog produces the needed kind of saliva. The cooling saliva is produced in quantity, and panting helps it to evaporate, Dogs have few sweat glands; they perspire, to some extent, through sweat glands on the soles of their paws. (As a reader of Southland,

And, in this case, two heads are much better than

Because they, and about 60,000 others like them in the Long Beach-Orange County area, are members of the U. S. Naval Reserve.

One head deals with the ordinary details of life—business, family and home.

THE OTHER HEAD is in a constant state of alert—dealing with the multiple problems of the military and constantly working on the age-old problem of the Reservists, how to be combat ready yesterday, not tomorrow.

Los Alamitos Naval Air Station, commanded by Capt. William P. Tanner Jr., a native of San Pedro, is the largest installation of its kind in the nation. About 3,500 Reservists receive weekend training in the 30 squadrons assigned there.

In addition, Los Alamitos NAS houses the Long Beach Naval Reserve Training Center. More than 1,000 Reservists from the Long Beach area train there in four units under the command of Cmdr. John E. Kennedy Jr.

The Weekend Warriors are a breed of their own

They come from all walks of life and are bound together only by their common desire to serve their country.

Most are paid for their attendance at unit training sessions, but, in the opinion of Captains Tanner and Kennedy, this amounts to only a minute percentage of the time all devote to the Reserve.

APIDLY stamping a batch of envelopes carrying Christmas greetings, the Copenhagen postal clerk glanced up from his work. A smile curved the corners of his lips. "Why not?" he thought. "It'll work. At least, it's worth trying."
"Good morning, Einar." The postmaster's voice

"Good morning, Einar," The postmaster's voice interrupted the big, jovial clerk's thoughts. "Knute won't be in this morning. Afraid you'll have to do as much of his work as you can. Too bad we're so rushed."

"Yes," agreed Einar. His grin faded. Not because he minded the extra work—far from it. But he knew why industrious Knute would be absent. Sick and emaciated little Hans, the youngest of Knute's five children, was bedridden again. To care for the tubercular child, widower Knute had missed work several times of late. Loving children as he did, Einar often wished he could bring the rosy huc back to the youngster's cheeks.

IT WAS 1904, just a few weeks before Christmas, the busiest season of the year at the post office. From dawn to dusk, Einar sorted and stamped the thousands of envelopes carrying the season's greetings from the people of Copenhagen to their friends. But only the thoughts of the thousands of sick and needy children, and especially little Hans, marred Einar's spirits, "If only I could do something to help those poor kids," he often mused. And now he had an idea—a plan that might work.

Eagerly he poured his idea into the ready ears of his fellow employes. Most of them agreed with Einar. "It's worth trying," one mail carrier said. "And if the plan succeeds, it'll be a million times worth the effort we put into it."

The employes told the customers who came to the post office. They liked the idea, too, and passed it along to their friends and neighbors. The plan spread by word of mouth through the streets and into the homes of Copenhagen with epidemic rapidity. Within a few days it became the chief topic of conversation over all Denmark. Even King Christian IX caught the fever.

EINAR'S IDEA was so simple that he wondered why no one had thought of it before. Couldn't all those letters and greetings going through the mails during the Christmas season carry a special stamp? If such a stamp sold for a penny and enough folks bought them, there would be sufficient money to help Copenhagen's needy children and perhaps even start the construction of a tuberculosis hospital.

To test the possibilities of the plan a printer set his press with a plate bearing the picture of Queen Louise of Denmark and rolled out two million stamps. Newspaper editors and magazine writers urged their readers to dig in their pockets and buy the stickers. The readers needed little coaxing, however, and in a short time the supply had been exhausted; two million more had to be printed. Everyone, it seemed, supported the plan not only in spirit but financially as well. Some ardent supporters even refused to accept a letter unless it carried a seal.

Einar Holboell had not expected such an overwhelming response to his idea, and of course he was overjoyed. Now little Hans could be properly cared for and land bought for the construction of a tuberculosis hospital. The success of the Christmas Seal drive sparked the enthusiasm of many doctors and scientists. They took a new interest in researching for the cause of the disease and in stamping it out. A great crusade had begun.

ENTHUSIASTIC about the crusade, an American, Jacob Riis, whose six brothers had died from the dread disease, published an article to persuade the people of the United States to adopt a Christmas Scal program. But Americans were slow to rally behind the cause. The response to the pica was almost negative.

Fortunately, Miss Emily Bissell championed the cause, or Christmas Seals might never have come to the United States. As secretary of the Delaware Red Cross, Miss Bissell and a few others were struggling to keep an open-nir tuberculosis sanitarium on the historic Brandywine River going with almost no money. Now, unless she succeeded in raising $300 in a hurry, the institution would have to close its doors permanently. But no one seemed interested; everyone turned a deaf ear to her pleas for financial aid.

"We'll keep the sanitarium open if we have to raise the money penny by penny," Miss Bissell declared. About that time she happened to read Jacob Riis' article on Christmas Seals. The idea appealed to her. "We'll sell tuberculosis seals and get the money we need," she told the directors of the sanitarium.

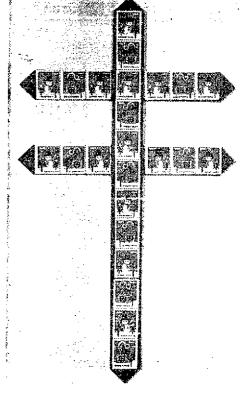

BUT THE PROBLEM wasn't quite that easy to solve. Low on funds, the Red Cross could not sponsor the printing of the seals, but it did agree to permit the use of the familiar crimson cross. A charity-minded printer, Charles Story, agreed to print the desired stamps on credit. In a short time 50,000 Christmas Seals designed by Miss Bissell were ready for the public. The stamp design consisted of a green holly garland centered with a red cross and a cheerful "Merry Christmas."

Now another obstacle loomed. Although the Danish seals had been sold at post office windows, the postmaster general of the United States refused to permit the sales at government stamp windows in this country. Early in December, however, Miss Bissell set up a booth in the lobby of Wilmington's main post office and displayed the stamps packaged in small envelopes. But few persons bought them. Post office patrons practically ignored the little booth. The first day's sales brought only $25.

A lesser person might have been varquished by this indifference, but not Emily Bissell. If one method failed, there were others to try. And so she boarded a train to Philadelphia, determined to stir up public enthusiasm for her cause.

WITH THE COURAGE of a crusader, she invaded the offices of the City of Brotherly Love's greatest newspaper. "We can beat tuberculosis," she told the editor, and then enthusiastically cutlined her plan. The editor, however, was adamant. He could see no connection between the ravaging disease and the Christmas season. And Miss Bissell's hope of saving the Brandywine Sanitarium began to fade.

Luckily, one of the paper's editorial writers, Leigh Mitchell Hodges, who listened to the conversation, sensed the value of the idea. His eagerness convinced the editor, "Fighting tuberculosis is a worthy cause," the newspaperman admitted. "This paper will do everything it can to help." And suiting his actions to his words, he not only gave space for publicity in the paper but also ordered 50.000 stamps. That marked a turning point in Miss Bissell's crusade.

At the opening of the first Philadelphia sale of Christmas Seals on Dec. 16, 1907, a ragged little newsboy reached up with a penny—he was too small to see over the counter—and said, "Gimme onc. Me sister's got it!" He got the message of the seals and so did the Philadelphians, who wholeheartedly backed the program.

IN TWO DAYS Miss Bissell had more than enough money to save the sanitarium. But it didn't stop there. Many persons wanted to help sell the stamps; civic leaders, newspapers and government officials endorsed the idea. Even President Theodore Roosevelt eagerly backed the plan. Miss Bisseil's goal of $300 was passed and soared to $3,000.

Encouraged by these results, the American Red Cross sponsored the first nationwide Christmas Seal campaign the following year. The first year brought in $135,000. In 1910, the National Tuberculosis Association joined the campaign. A few years later this organization took over the entire campaign, which, of course, is now an annual event. As its official symbol, the National Tubercu-

As its official symbol, the National Tuberculosis Association adopted the double-barred cross, sign of the ancient crusaders. Every Christmas Seal bears this imprint.

TODAY, THERE ARE 3,000 tuberculosis associations across the nation. From each dollar they collect from the sale of seals, all but 6 cents remains in the community and state in which it was raised to fight the battle against the disease which still causes many deaths. The seals have become as much a part of Christmas as Santa and his reindeer.

Now the Christmas Seal is sold the world over during December. As testimony to the good the seals do, only one person dies from tuberculosis today for every six in 1904.

Einar Holboell, the jovial postal clerk, and Emily Bissell, the woman who wouldn't accept defeat, proved that unselfish persons who give of themselves in the true Christmas spirit can achieve far-reaching results.

Automation Comes to Archery

By Robert Hazelleaf

was the atomic bomb of the Stone Age. Much later, the flying arrow cut its way through history in 1066 at the Battle of Hastings, when Norman conquerors crossed the channel to England. And, in 1415, English archers chalked up a win in the Hundred Years' War against the French at Agincourt.

For centuries, men served their appointed hours at the archery range to gain certain benefits in taxes or military service, as an organized reserve.

Now, in a more genteel atmosphere, archery is a sport that is rapidly becoming big business with some 7,500,000 participants who target-shoot at ranges, in the field, and who trade the hunting rifle and shotgun for the bow and arrow.

Although only 28,000 men and women constitute the membership of major archery associations, the 7,500,000 is an educated estimate of the part-time enthusiasts—those who occasionally spend an hour or two at a range.

THOSE MILLIONS will seem insignificant, now that fresh ideas are being injected into the ancient sport. The number is expected to double and even treble before many years pass.

These days, the accent is on convenience. It means automated ranges with archers sitting out rounds in fancy plastic chairs on deep-pile carpet. Instead of spending most of their time walking to targets and pulling arrows, the touch of a button does the work for them.

The idea of automated archery is only about two years old, but it's already gone through a generation of refinement as operators and patrons alike spawn innovations.

Some of the freshest ideas are coming from a new firm in Orange with a fresh, new name—Arrow Dynamics—which sounds as though it belongs to the acrospace industry.

Partners in the firm include James C. Kern, long an archery enthusiast, instructor, and former manager of Robin Hood Lanes in Garden Grove, who oversees manufacture and installation; Dean Parsons, instrumental in bringing Robin Hood into being and now working as leasing agent and management man for the new company, and Barry Miller, versed in league coordination, who will form and schedule teams and activities.

"WHAT WE WANT to do," says Parsons, "is set up complete indoor ranges that include everything from targets to scoring tables. We'll even provide management, either permanently or just long enough for an owner to get started."

The partners have a lane in action at their Orange office, just to confound the skeptics. Everything in view is furnished in the setup. The target, reversible with the pressure of a hand, is backed with special excelsior material that absorbs arrows with a minimum of damage to the backing.

When an archer has shot his round, a push on one of seven buttons brings the target up to the foul line from a distance as great as 90 feet, maximum for tournament play. One of the other six buttons sends the target gliding smoothly back to any preset footage. Two-inch accuracy assures association acceptance of the movable assembly.

A safety mat placed an inch or two inside the fout line immediately stops the target at any point. It is almost impossible for a small child or careless adult to reach the target or overstep the Fne without treading on the mat.

LEAGUE RECORD books, quality bows and arrows, seating, even the ash trays come with the new lanes. Each is set off by a modernistically designed divider,

"Before automated lanes," says Jim Kern,

Automated target takes the drudgery out of archery, brings arrows back to the line.

"archers either had to find an outdoor range, usually some distance from home, or shoot at a gallery affair that didn't meet their needs or archery rules. The new lanes change all that."

They'll change something else, too, in the equipment line. Too often, a neophyte is saddled with improper gear because he has no way to learn his real needs.

New facilities will include a pro shop, where an accomplished archer will guide the beginner and where equipment will be sold. The shop will accommodate the novice who wants to spend no more than $30 or so, as well as the expert who seeks the best in the $150 class.

"We can place an archery lane in position in less than five hours," says Dean Parsons. "If a bowling lane operator has alleys that aren't paying their way, it's no problem. We simply spot the archery target and track on top, and he's ready for a business boost. The new equipment doesn't disturb the wood in the least."

SO FAR, three archery ranges serve the Southland in Garden Grove, Downey and Covina. Nationwide, automation has come to Tacoma and Scattle, Wash.. and Carrington, N. D. There will be more.

"With the convenience," says Barry Miller, "we visualize regular league play with handicaps. There's no reason why Scouts, boys' clubs, high school and college groups can't participate."

The partners foresee installations in hospitals, too, not only as a recreation activity, but as a supplement to therapy departments. Proper shooting requires a steady pull, coordination and a good eye with a few grains of patience added.

Larry Eaks, a war veteran and long-term wheelchair patient, shoots with the Sidewinders in the Garden Grove area. He's enthusiastic about automated archery. Admittedly, there's exercise in wheeling up to a target and back, but it can get tiresome in meet play. Electrified lanes eliminate the drudgery.

SAYS MRS. EAKS, also a member of the Sidewinders: "The team was going to be an all wheelchair group, but now it's mixed. And don't let Larry fool you. He and his chairborne teammates are tough competitors."

"Some time in the next five or 10 years," say the company's partners, "automated archery is going to come to physical education classes and school teams. Cities are going to support recreation centers every bit as plush as the newer bowling operations. We see an expansion to as many as 40 million participants at centers catering to archery, billiards and bowling. Snack bars, cocktail lounges and fine restaurants will be included. We hope to be on hand when the boom really gets under way."

California Yule Spirit in 1846

By Betty Hardesty

AN 1846 DIARY account of Christmas in Southern California, written 117 years ago by the doctor who became the first president of Los Angeles County Medical Association, shows that the Christmas spirit is unquench-

John G. Griffin, M.D., was assistant surgeon with the U.S. Army under General Kcarny when he wrote his notes about the last Christmas in California under Spanish-Mexican rule.

That Christmas was an emotional and dramatic period in California history. The worst tragedy of the Mexican war here was keenly felt by the many injured U.S. soldiers laid up under Dr. Griffin's care. They had suffered three times as many casualties as the Californians who had attacked them in the Battle of Pasqual fought near the present towns of Escondido and Romona.

THE CABALLEROS knew best how to fight on their own home ground. The Mexican reatas and lances were skillfully wielded against muskets with wet powder and the swords of travel-weary cavalrymen in Army blue who had made their way over the long trail from New Mexico. The California horsemen wore wide leather chaps with cowboy outfits and typical Mexican bats, as authentically depicted in diarama in the Early California History Room of the Los Angeles County Museum.

Reinforcements from San Diego arrived in time to turn defeat into victory as the Californians withdrew and Dr. Griffin, with the help of Kit Carson, managed to transport the wounded to Old Town then held by American troops. The battle took place

As Christmas approached, there was pain, loneliness and worry among the wounded, who could not know how well Lt. Col. John C. Fremont was progressing on his march to capture Santa Barbara, They could not guess that two weeks later, on Jan. 13, 1847, he would reach San Fernando and sign the Cahuenga Treaty to end war in California and make it a part of the United States. (A photo copy of the "Articles of Capitulation" hangs opposite the Pasqual Battle scene at the museum.)

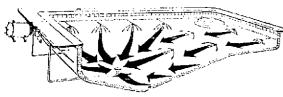

DR. GRIFFIN'S words make it understood that the sick and dying men did "try to put aside their grievances and concentrate on Christmas in the spirit of the towns-folk." Little ones planned for pinatas and tried to mould small animals for their trees of life while adults prepared for feasting and parties. "Odors of warm pepper and garlic mingled with those of roasting pigs, ducks and chickens," huts were hung chickens, huts were hung with color and all donned their Sunday clothes.

The doctor had been too busy to write Dec. 24 and 25 when one man died in spite of all he could do to save him, but he added to his historical diary on the evening of Dec. 26. His last words that day are significant of the Christmas spirit:

"We had a fine formal ball last night and quite a few beautiful women turned out." They had put aside animosity in the spirit of peace on earth, good will toward men.

From hot rum spiked with gunpawaer to modern mouthwash, man has devised many remedies for sore throat,

By Joseph Policano

LMOST everyone has had a sore throat at one time or another, but most people are not familiar with what brings them on, what aggravates and what soothes them -and why they should not be dismissed with a polite or even an impolite cough.

No other irritation or infection is more common than the sore throat—except the common cold, which it frequently accompanies. This familiarity leads many to regard a sore throat as a painful but trivial nuisance when the truth is that it is among the body's important alarm signals.

A mild sore throat can be the first symptom of many diseases, ranging from the simplest and harmless to the most virulent and life-threatening. Among the ailments it signals are influenza (including Asian Ilu), bronchitis, polio, rheumatic fever, rheumatic heart disease, meningitis, neuritis, scarlet fever, who oping cough and measles. Blood disturbances often accompanied by sore throat in the early stages include mononucleosis and even leukemia.

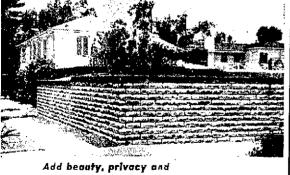

ACTUALLY, the wonder is not that there are so many sore throats in the population on any given day but that there are so few of them.

Within hours of birth, the human throat becomes the headquarters of millions of invisible garms which inhabit the air we breathe and the food we eat. By breeding these micro-organisms, the throat becomes the path of invasion for many infections within the body. Skirmishes fought in the mouth and throat may determine whether disease germs are defeated or fan out to establish beachheads in other parts of the

The throat protects itself against these onslaughts with two main lines of defense. One, encircling the entrance to the throat, consists of islands of spongy tissue designed to attract germs and then to overwhelm them with discuse - fighting antibodies and white corpuscles supplied by the blood stream,

EXHAUST FUMES and factory smog, tobacco smoke and heavy alcohol intake all irritate the membrane, constricting the blood vessels and slowing up mucus flow. Due to the efficiency of air conditioning and central heating, the air we breathe is often too dry for our nose and throat passages. Faulty diet, chronic fatigue, constant mental stress also help to weaken the membranes.

A day arrives when the temperature shifts, or we get drenched or chilled, Blood rushes to other parts of the body and the throat's blood vessels constrict. The temperature of the mucus membrane drops and the familiar tickle pears, followed all too often and all too soon by the catalogue of aches and pains well known to anyone who has ever suffered a sore throat.

Through the ages there have been many remedies to soothe the pain and discomfort of a sore throat. A recent discovery, an antiseptic and anesthetic mouthwash, was found effective in relieving soreness in 96 per cent of the patients. Researchers at numerous hospitals, including the National Children's Cardiac Hospital. Miami, Fla., and the Newark City Hospital, Newark, N. J., found the preparation, which is sold without a prescription al drug stores, effective as an oral antiseptic, too.

has excellent analgesic (pain killing) properties and was very effective in relieving the pain and discomfort of sore throat from a variety of causes in 200 cases," according to Dr. Julian W. Giles, former chief of the ear, nose and throat service, Veterans' Administration Hospital, Tuskegee, Ala. "Relief from soreness came within 15 seconds and lasted 2-3 hours, after the solution was sprayed or gargled.

LONG BEFORE modern drugs had been heard of, man was doctoring sore throats and prescribing remedies that ranged from sniffing pine oil gulping hot rum spiked with gunpowder. Sore throat sufferers have daubed their

Modern Magic Has Made It Elegant

Remodeling and redecorating has provided a fresh interior, consisting of a large open living room adjoining a spacious kitchen; a step-down family room; plus the original three bedrooms and a bath. The formality of the living room is cleverly combined with the informal and comfortable (and very functional) kitchen which adjoins.

Large picture windows meet at the corner of the living room which afford a wide angle view of the streets, trees, and homes surrounding the corner lot. Carpeting and a long, curved out-sized sofa are a soft green-turquoise shade. Occasional chairs are red velvet. A matching floor pillow across the room is a resting place for a small reclining gold cherub. Occasional pillows on the sofa are red and gold. Coffee tables are marble topped, A console unit at the far end of the room backs against a colorful mural. Atop the console are two gold candieholders and an antique French clock.

Sliding doors give access from the family room to the interior patio. Glass walls give a four-sided patio view.

Latin luxury—an interior garden or patio—is one of three dramatic terrace areas in this ranch-style home. Glass walls surround this household "hub."

Its Hub Is a Patio-Garden

PRAMATIC interior garden surrounded on all four sides by glass brings the crisp outdoors right inside this versatile four-bedroom ranch home in winter or summer, spring or fall.

"This is a patin in the true sense of the word," said architect Samuel Paul, who designed House of the Week B-91.

"The Spanish word 'patio' is used to describe an open courtyard, such as this one—and if you're familiar with the 'knack Latins have for easy living, it isn't hard to see why a patio is characteristic of their architecture."

The interior garden is only one of three fine patios in this home, including a luxurious 22-foot 4-inch by 19-foot 6-inch private terrace off the master bedroom.

out suburbs where lots are large, are available in this house, which would fit comfortably on a "city" lot as narrow as 60 feet wide. This is because of the front-to-back planning of the house, rather than the customary side-to-side design. The house contains 2,105 square feet in overall diminsions of 50 feet wide and 65 feet deep including the double carport.

Access to the interior garden is through sliding glass doors in the family room; but sharing its freshness and charm are the living room, the informal family roombreakfast area, and the spacious entry which will be bathed in daylight all day long ing the master bedroom, with a broad, L-shaped vanity.

A THIRD lavatory is located off the laundry and convenient to the family roomkitchen area. Note the excellent step-saving design of the large kitchen, and its good location between the formal and informal entertaining areas.

White this is a large house with room enough for a family of as many as seven or eight, architect Paul provides an expansion plan so that a couple could start with a two-bedroom, 1,406 square foot basic house and add on from there.

The first stage would include the two front bedrooms and one bath in the sleeping wing; and the breakfast room, family room, kitchen and part of the living room, In the condensed version, however, the breakfast and family rooms would be the living and dining rooms; and the area to the left of the kitchen would be the family room. Paul's blueprints show how the two other bedrooms and bath, and the extension of the living area, could be added

ANOTHER feature which would be dictated by the de-sire of the builder would be the design of the front bedroom next to the entrance. Simply by arranging the doors and walls as you want them, the room can be a den, nursery, guest room or li-brary; the dressing room could be eliminated in favor of a walk-in closet or any other innovation.

Luxury touches abound in this house, not the least of which is a vertically jointed brick wall in the living room intercepted by a contemporary fireplace with a copper hood. The brick wall carries over to the entrance, which is further accented with a quarry tile floor.

Another luxury feature is the front terrace, or more specifically, the master bedroom terrace, Imagine stepping out there on a warm spring morning to read the Sunday paper while the dew is still on the grass. Garden walls above eye level guar-

JUGS, jugs, everywhere --and not a drop of anything in any of them! However, Wendell (Wendy) Vancil of 3585 Brayton Ave., owner of some 60-odd stoneware jugs, is not concerned about that. He is more interested in preserving a nostalgic bit of old Americanaan item that, along with Grandma's stoneware churn, butter crock, bean pot, and pickle jar, is fast disappearing from the scene. At one time a common household necessity that stored vinegar, cider, molasses, "coal oil," even "corn likker" and rumthat once familiar "little brown jug" is bowing out in favor of its modern counterpart of plastic or glass.

Vancil's collection of jugs varies from the half-gallon size to five-gallon containers. However, most of them are one-gallon in capacity. The oldest, and one which is a favorite of his, is more than 100 years old and came from bis great-aunt's home in lowa. Others were gleaned on the Vancils' travels throughout the country, many coming from Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky and Missouri, Most of the jugs were direct purchases, and not gifts, for, as Vancil says, "They don't give them away!" (One authority on antiques includes the old stoneware jugs high on her list of ". . . most sought-after collectables today."

SEVEN of the jugs are "soda fountain" jugs, one-gallon containers which held syrup used in making icecream sodas. One of these is labeled, "Hungerford Smith's Stoneware jug with corncob stopper is oldest and most valued item in a Long Beach collection of old -time jugs.

Golden Orange Concentrate," Other labels are "R. H. Macy & Co., New York," "Douglas Clay Products," and "Western Stoneware." A very old jug is a gray one with trimming in cobalt-blue lines. Several in the "hard-to-find" bracket are those in oval shape, and gray ones with brown necks,

There are at least 30 old whisky jugs in the collection.
This type of jug is among the more valuable today. The label, "Star Liquor House, Akron, Ohio, Albert Deutsch, Proprietor," is discognible on Proprietor," is discernible on

Vancil keeps his jugs in orderly arrangement on high shelves around his patio, where visitors can inspect them and ponder on their outmoded usefulness, Most of all, perhaps, do the stoneware containers bring memories of sun-drenched days in the harvest fields, when a jug of cold spring water, its gunny sack "jacket" dripping water in an improvised "cooling system," hung in the shade of a nearby tree, waiting to re-fresh the weary worker and afford a moment's rest from

Heart Ills vs. Water Studied

By Ben Zinser
Utbland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

A DOCTOR has found additional evidence that softness of water may play a role in heart disease.

Hard water was eliminated from the diet of a 37-year-old man who was being treated for food allergies, a Jacksonville, Fla., doctor reports in the Journal of the American Medical Association. Three weeks later the patient c omplained of frequent heart - fluttering on exertion. The condition cleared un when hard water was again included in his diet.

The observation, notes Dr. John B. Neal, raises a question regarding the effect of hard water on preventing abnormal heart rhythms.

Another doctor, a consultant to the Journal, remarks that medical science still doesn't know if there's a deleterious agent in soft water or an absence of a protective factor found in hard water.

Earlier studies indicate that there appears to be less death from heart disease in communities with hard water.

A PHYSICIAN who went to ranch country to do medical research involving range cattle brings back this report of the New West:

The days of cowboys' saddle-breaking horses have gone. Nowadays they just give the horses tranquilizers.

PIGEONS have been implicated in two meningitis deaths in New York. The birds, researchers say, carry a fungus organism known as Cryptococcus neoformans. And these infections can be fatal. One doctor thinks people should stop feeding pigeons and stav clear of them for health reasons.

A NEW chemical, Zinc Omadine, is proving effective as an antibacterial and antifungal agent, announces its developer, the Olin Mathicson Chemical Corp. Among its uses: to provide dandruff control, to inhibit athlete's foot, to deter spread of staph germs.

AN ARTIFICIAL leg created especially for amputees who like to swim is described in Medical Journal of Australia, Made of fiberglass, the appliance requires no waist belt or harness: it is held effectively by suction. Its special design also gives it buoy-

At one time or another, everyone suffers from mental illness, says famed psychiatrist William C. Menninger,

The person who disbelieves this, he says, is the one who forgets to consider his "tension headaches, marital discords, private worries about business, his dependency on alcohol or nicotine !

BLOODLETTING, an ancient practice for a number of disorders, may be practical in the modern-day treatment of certain patients with circulatory disorders.

A team of five doctors reports that reduction of the number of circulating blood cells, by bloodletting, improved the circulation of the legs and the heart function of patients suffering hardening of the arteries.

"MOST VICTIMS of ulcer range be-tween ages 30 and 60," says famed re-searcher Irvine 14. Page of Cleveland. "Just why you are so digestible at that period, I don't know," Dr. Page comments. "Perhaps that is what they mean when they say you are a 'tough old bird' after the age of 65."

MILK CAN cause tooth decay, says a London dentist, because it leaves a sticky coating on the teeth, a condition conducive to acid production. The dentist's recommendation, in British Medical Journal: Brush teeth after milk drinking or eat an apple. Either will remove the coating.

Savory pineapple stuffing is succulent and flavorsome inside this aristocratic entree for Christmas feasting. Rice-bread stuffing mix has pinnapple tidhits to produce a texture and a flavor that's superb. Have butcher bone leg of pork for this.

A Yule

Feast

AS TIME DRAWS NEAR for planning the annual Christmas dinner, it's also time to consider whether the centerpicces of the least will be the traditional turkey or a depart-ure into something else equally interesting. If the decision is the latter, here is a suggestion:

Jambe de Porc, Pineapple Farci

1 (6-S pound) boned leg of park weighed ofter boning cup rice

2 large onions

2 rage amons
4 cup butter or margarine
1 (13½-ounce) can pineapple tutbuts
1 (10½-ounce) can consomme
Salt

teaspoon sage

Salt

Split-boned leg of pork lengthwise almost through to bottom so it opens out and lies flat, butterfly style. Saute rice and chopped onions in butter until rice is light brown. Drain pincapple tidbits; add enough pincapple syrup to consomme to make 1½ cups. Combine liquid, rice and 1 tenspoon salt. Iteat to boiling, then reduce heat. Cover tightly and sommer 15 minutes. Add drained pincapple, spices, stuffing mix and raisins. Rub cut side of ment with salt and pepper; spread with stuffing. Rull up like jelly rull and secure firmly with string and skewers. Rub outside all over with ginger. Place on rack in shallow pan. Bake in moderately slow oven (325 degrees F.) until well done, 30 minutes per pound. Baste with remaining pineapple syrup last half hour. Let stand 20 minutes before slicing. Garnish platter with pineapple slices and spiced crabapples as desired. Makes 12 or more servings.

A Preference for Nickels

By Enola Chamberlin

T WON'T PAY to get all het up if someone calls the place you live a "two-bit" town. It might even be a compliment. For two-bits is 25 cents, and 25 cents is five times a nickel. And that, a "five cent" town, is what a lot of places are, including Long Beach. For, according to Thomas C. Payne, assist-ant head of the Los Angeles Federal Reserve Branch, the coin in the greatest demand in this vicinity is the nickel. But don't be disturbed, this area is not alone in that. According to Mrs. Audry Smith, administrative assistant to the director of the United States Mint, Louisville and Baltimore are also five-cent towns. Baltimore, leaning farthest toward the lowly coin, uses 15 tons of them a year. Mrs. Smith says they tried to talk Louisville into using dimes. But no go. The people there just used more nickels.

New York, it seems, doesn't have a preference for any special coin, just against one. The half dollar. She doesn't want it. Won't have it.

But a two-bit town, we do have one. Washington. There quarters are a going medium of exchange.

Now this doesn't mean that all cities don't use all the coins. They do. There are always parking meters to gobble up dimes, nickels, pennies. There are washing machines in laundromats to do the same for quarters. So each city has to have a few of the ostrucized coins around whether it wants them or not. Except, perhaps, New York. There the populace can get along without the halves.

Why people in certain cities prefer one coin over another is not known. It is, according to Mrs. Smith, a long-standing, unsolved mys-tery of the Treasury Department. Whether it is a mystery to the people of the cities has not been determined.

But, since Long Beach is a nickel town, we residents might try asking ourselves why we are. Who knows, if we concentrate a bit, and raise our sights, we might graduate into a two-bit town and be in competition with the nation's capital,

EAR MISS RULE: Please give brief data on BO-GARD.-B. B., Long Beach

B. B.; BOGARD is from the old Flemish-Belgian surname Boguert. The source words, "Bogen - bardt" meant "bow-strong," typifying an out-standing medieval archer whose strength in drawing the bow excelled that of his compatriots. The family shield from Rotterdam, Holland, is silver, decorated with three green, uprooted trees. These emblems refer to an alternate name - meaning, the north French "Buche-hard," "strong as a beech-tree."

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give data on SEEKAMP. -Mrs. J. A., Long Beach,

J. A.: SEEKAMP is German, with two divergent meanings, both of them from early medieval centuries. Secearly medieval centuries. See-kamp evolved from "see-kampf" denoting "sea com-batant." Another origin for this unique name was "sig-kampf" representing "victo-rious warrior or combatant."

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like your analysis of LOU-REIRO,-J. L., Long Beach,

J. I..: LOUREIRO when traced to its Portuguese source, is defined as "owner of an estate landmarked by a laurel tree." The laurel or bay tree was greatly revered in ancient times because its leaves were used by the Romans to form victor's wreaths in athletic contests.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give data on KOHLER.—J.A., Long Beach.

J. A.: KOHLER mainly retains its medieval occupational meaning "coal-miner," although alternate meanings include the Slavic-German "kolo" for "stout man," and the German word "kohl" for "cabbage-grower." The family shield is blue, emblazoned with three gold stars below a blue cross, with these emblems on a gold band asross the center of the shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the origin of QUEVEDO. -D. Q., Long Beach.

D. Q.; QUEVEDO was a 12th century Spanish nick-name applied to a one-eyed forefather. This name meant "glass-eye," or "one-eyed one.

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on VALENTINO.—
A. V., Norwalk.

Home Workshop

By Ed Fleming

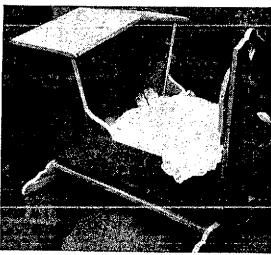

THE COLONIAL settlers didn't fuss when they made furniture for their home. They designed simple, charming and functional pieces that have withstood the test of time.

One of their more interesting designs is presented here for Sketchbook do-it-yourself readers. It is the rocking cradle, sometimes known as the New Jersey cradle. It is constructed to last, yet graclous in its lines.

The cradle is not a difficult

one to build. The two units, the cradle proper and cradle stand, are made from standard-size pine lumber. They are connected with a simple dowel stop arrangement that allows the gentle rocking motion of the cradle.

To obtain the pattern, spec-ify Sketchbook Plan S-137 and send 50 cents with name and address to Building Edi-tor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12,

Colonial rocking cradle can be built full-size for baby's lullabies, or half-size and be used as a child's doll cradle.

A Place for the Children

CHILDREN, an imaginative lot, love a playhouse of their very own as headquarters for innumerable games.

The one shown here has windows and a door just like all homes. It's small enough to be used indoors as well as out. The floor measures four feet by four feet with a five foot high roof. It's made of lightweight, quarter-inch plywood. The sides and roof are all hinged and may be folded into a neat package for easy handling and storage.

Capturing Festivities on Film

By the Shutterbug

THE LESTIVE spirit of the coming holiday season will provide a host of opportunities for some really top-notch home movies.

Children tumbling downstairs Christmas morning, reciting their first stage lines or in a school play, or creating a carrot-nosed snowman provide all of the animation and interest needed for a good movie that will become more treasured over the years,

To capture your star performers at their best, here are some general shooting and equipment tips.

AS MOST OF the shooting will be done indoors, a movie light is a necessity. Portra lenses that allow you to move near a subject for close-ups will also add more impact to your movies.

An indoor film, such as Kodachrome II Film, Type A, is ideal to use for most holiday scenes. It is color balanced for shooting with a movie light induors, It can be used without a filter to take shots of your outdoor lighted Christmas decorations, And it can be used with a filter outdoors during the day, just as you would use regular daylight color film.

TIME-TESTED techniques for better movies include:

Checking your viewfinder for the best angles and composition and shooting when the scene within the frame looks right.

Varying the angles from which you shoot — don't shoot everything from eye level.

Using plenty of close-ups. Shooting in sequence with an idea or story in mind, rather than ending up with a collection of random "snapshots." The best way to get a good flow to your movie is to make sure you start at the beginning and then film the story much as you would describe it.

FOR CHRISTMAS events, for instance, a good opening title would be to film a close-up of this year's Christmas card to set the theme immediately for the movie.

Remembering to start at the beginning, this could be

followed by a scene of mother wrapping the gaily-colored packages and hiding them in a closet, a close-up of dad helping the children hang up their Christmas stockings, a general view of mother sending the children scampering off to bed and a close-up of dad decorating the tree.

With these preliminaries taken care of, you'll be ready to shoot a variety of scenes of the hig day when the children rush down on Christmas morning, open their presents and play with their new toys.

A good ending could be a close up of the top tree ornament, with a fade-out produced by slowly moving a piece of cardboard in front of the movie light.

A Californian may copy the European custom of having a bowl of fruit on display for a healthful snack between meals. The fruit is arranged attractively in a compote. These dishes are varied and beautiful, it may be a wooden bowl in Mexico or one of crystal and silver in France.

The idea is a good substitute for the cookie jar or the bonbon dish.

California, with its fresh fruits the year around, offers opportunity for the arrangement of an enchanting compote.

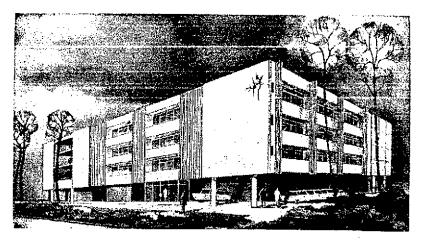

Better, most certainly, for dieters than a cookie jar or a bonbon dish is a compote of fresh California fruits.

STANLEY BURNSHAW Man's struggle over nature is the theme of Burnshaw's new book of verse, "CAGED IN AN ANIMAL'S MIND" (Holt, Rinelart & Winston, $4).

FIRST CAME the balloonists-Frenchmen like Gaston and Albert Tissandier, Englishmen like Sheldon, Glaisher and Coxwell-all got off the ground before 1800. And in 1958 our own Maj, David Simons soared to 103,000 feet in a balloon. The early birds are all in Martin Caldin's "OVERTURE TO SPACE" (Duell, Sloan and Pearce, $5.50). So are the daredevil test pilots of Edwards Air Force Base and Capt, Charles Yeager's breathtaking flights in the XSI and XIA. And of course the American astronauts are here, Shepherd, Grissom, Glenn, Carpenter, Schirra (this was before Cooper's 34-orbit flight.) So are the Russian cosmonauts.

Caidin has written more than a mere catalogue of space achievements, however, his is one of the best books yet on the significance of what has been done and the future of space technology, in its implications for peace and war, communications and diplomacy.

Books Rate High on Gift Lists

By Vera Williams

TO BOOK lovers, "Merry Christmas!" means fresh, new, exciting books.

High on the list of fine High on the list of line books, a handsome addition to any library, is "GREAT GARDENS OF THE WEST-ERN WORLD" by Peter Coats, introduction by Harold Nicolson (Promethus Press Edition, G. P. Putnam's Sons, $19.95 until Jan. 1, after that $22.95), a sumptuous pictorial treasury of the finest gardens of Europe and America. Thirty-eight gardens are described and pictured, arranged in order, showing the changing fashions from the 16th Century to the present and revealing the effect of the varying climates upon the appearance of the gardens themselves. Shown are great formal gardens of the 17th and 18th centuries in France, Italy, Spain, Germany and Russia, and several of the simpler gardens in England and Holland, where flowers and hedges predominate over the more elaborate vistas of water and statuary. In the United States, the gardens take the form of natural landscaping. For many readers these American gardens — Huntington, Cypress, Mag-nolia, Middleton, Old Westbury, and Colonial Williamsburg—will be the most re-warding in the book. There are 40 plates in full color and 350 in monochrome.

Seven momentous decades of the names, faces and writing that have held the public eye in the arts, society, literature, theater, fashion, sports and world affairs are pictured in "THE WORLD IN VOGUE" compiled by Viking Press and Vogue from 70 years of Vogue, (Viking Press, $16.) One tends to think of newspapers and magazines as ephemeral, fresh and new today, obsolete tomorrow. So it is amazing to realize how much fascinating history was recorded in the every-two-weeks magazine, winnowed and distilled in this handsome anthology, Photographs of celebritics from Sarah Bernhardt and Queen Victoria to Elizabeth Taylor and John H. Glenn Jr. are worth the price of the book,

THE AMERICAN WEST is a tremendous subject --- geographically, historically, sociologically, and it is covered in "THE BOOK OF THE AMERICAN WEST" prepared under the direction of Juy Mona-ghan, consultant to the Wyles collection of Lincolniana and Western Americana, University of California, Clarence P. Honung, art director (Mess-ner, $17.50 through Dcc. 24, after that $22.50.) From the arrival of the first conquistadors to the admission of the last territories to statehood, here is the Old West as it really was — momentous events, bitter wars, the men and women who explored, opened and won an enormous wilderness. It is illustrated with drawings, paintings, engravings, historical maps, documentary art, representing such artists of the period as Remington, Russell, Catlin, Borein, Bodmer and Bierstadt. Ten distinguished American writers wrote the chapters, each handling his own spe-cialty, Dale Morgan writing on explorers and mountain men, Oscar Lewis on treasures of the American West, Don Russell on Indians and soldiers, Robert Easton on guns, B. A. Botkin on Western folklore and song, etc.

ONE OF the most astonishing aspects of animal life is the way the millions of creatures in the seas, on the deserts, mountains, prairies and shores, and around men's cities fit into their environment. How do animals get water in the desert, keep warm in the Arctic, withstand pressures of the ocean depths? Marston Bates, brilliant naturalist, explores these questions and many more in "ANIMAL WORLDS" (Random House, $15.) He begins with the open seas, where life started, then goes to the ocean depths, to animals on the margins of the seas and to dazzling world of coral rcefs. Next he turns to lakes, streams and landscapes, ranging from tropical forests to northern talga and polar snow. Finally he deals with the human animal in relation to both invited and uninvited animal companions. The lext is supplemented by 245 superb illustrations, many in color, by some of the finest photographers in the world.

archaeological find which astounded the world and seemingly laid a curse on the members of the expedition, the vengeance of the pharaolis. What is fact and what is fancy; is the truth stranger than the legend? Christiane Desroches - Noblecourt, chief curator of the National Museum of France, and F. L. Kennett, sculpture photographer, pooled their talents to produce "TUTANKHAMEN" (New York Graphic Society, publisher, $15.) Tutankhamen first tells the story of the discovery of the tomb by Howard Carter in 1922; then Mmc. Desroches-Noblecourt sets the scene for the drama that took place in Egypt 3,300 years ago. Tutankhamen combines up-to-date text with excellent color reproduction. The artist says art objects from Tutankhamen's tomb never before were photographed out of their cases in color.

Newest book by Sigurd Olson, author of "The Singing Wilderness," "Listening Post" and "The Lonely Land," is "RUNES OF THE NORTH" (Knopf, $5), a potpourri of rones (tales of magic and mystery), legends, yarns and wilderness experiences from Canada and Alaska.

It's Desert Fun Time

By Fred Taylor Kraft

THE TIME has come to visit the desert. Southlanders are doing just that, too, and enjoying to the fullest the warm days and cool nights in California desert resort cities, such as Palm Springs, and ranging as far east as Arizona.

But it takes more than a weekend to drive into the Arizona landscape, unhurriedly, and rediscover scenery that is truly spectacular.

For instance, there's Oak Creek Canyon, between Prescott and Flagstaff, a riot of color at any time of the year and particularly so right now.

Steep red, white and gray walls of ancient stone---sometimes decorated with emerald splashes of juniper and pine, and changing colors of other trees-rise dramatically above the winding creek for miles through a national forest recreation area.

The changing color leaves at this time adds much to the beauty of the scene. THERE'S ANOTHER reason for meandering through this area, according to reports from Phoenix, The northern segment of the Black Canyon Highway between Phoenix and Flagstaff has taken away the bulk of the heavy motor travel, especially the through traffic and heavy trucking. By doing so, it has brought relative peace and calmness once again to this region where Zane Grey wrote "Call of the Canyon" and where movie-makers have been filming typically scenic western backgrounds for years.

Dude ranches, many of which are located in the Wickenburg area, are fast filling with those who spend entire vacations on the desert. And why not? Horseback rid-ing, chuckwagon dinners and music around a campfire, moonlight picnics, golf, tennis, shuffleboard, and even horseshoe pitching—all these things are offered at these colorful ranches,

Arizona deserts offer a surprise on every turn --- Indian museums, ghost towns, a hearty prospector with his pack mules, and even an opportunity to look for lost gold mines.

IN ADDITION to things to see on the desert, Arizonans constantly cooking up something special for its winter visitors. A few of these include:

Heard's Museum Hopi Exhibit, Jan. 17 Feb. 2; Parada del Sol, Jan. 31-Feb. 2; Parade of Bands beginning in February and continuing to June; Phoenix Open Golf Tournament, Feb. 6-9; Wickenburg Gold Rush Days, Feb. 7-9; Phoenix Dons Club Lost Dutchman Trek, March 1; and the Phoenix World Championship Rodeo of Rodeos, March 12-13.

If you like the desert-and who doesn't once in a while -it all means fun in the sun.

PHOENIX is a golfer's paradise. In the Arizona capital and its environs are 34 fine courses. Of these, 11 are 18hole municipal or semi-private courses open to the public, and 10 are 18 - hole private courses, some of which honor membership cards in other USGA clubs. Two of the 34 courses are lighted for night

It is on the 18-hole Phoenix Country Club course that the 29th annual $50,000 Phoenix Open will be played Feb. 6-9.

IF YOU'RE thinking about visiting Phoenix, write to the Vacation Advisor, Phoenix Chamber of Commerce, for a quick rundown of vital, up-todate information on the area contained in "Facts About Phoenix." You can also get "Where to Stay in Phoenix

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

"Do you answer letter questions directly? I would like any information on Mexico. Can you answer this if you are overseas?"

TRY TO send individual replies, Some letters I get ask enough to fill a book. Sometimes I don't know—but I try to tell you how to find out. Sometimes I forget. And I can't carry files with me.

In your case, I get a boiled down version of your letter on tape. Answer goes back to my office on tape. They have already sent you a printed sheet of travel advice from columns I've written on Mexico. If you sent a dime and a self-addressed stamped envelope, we appreciate it. If you didn't, you got it anyway. Be my guest.

"Q: You mentioned a good seafood restaurant in London, But I have forgotten what it was...."

crape ANSWER): Wheeler's Oyster House. There are three in London. But the one is a Christmas card place with leaded windows just behind Picadilly. (O'Haralook up address in London look up address in London restaurant file.) (Duke of York Street off Jarmyn at Apple Tree Yard.) About 20 ways of cooking sole,

"Q: I don't have much money but want to go to Europe more than anything. Would it be cheaper to fly from Mexico City? I could go there by bus."

I NEVER HEARD of fares being cheaper from Mexico—you must be thinking of saving the U.S. tax on air fares. However—I have heard it is cheaper from Canada. I would check rates on Canadian Pacific. Surely Montreal-London is cheaper than San Francisco-London.

Bus to Montreal or Vancouver must be cheaper than air. But you have to eat and sleep enroute. So you'd have to figure that and see if you really save

The cheapest air fare is still on Icelandic Airlines—a company that is not a member of the price-fixing airline association, IATA. Siower planes but excellent safety record. Usually booked up several months in advance. Main offices, New York City.

"Q: Is there a restaurant in the Eiffel Tower in Paris? And is it worthwhile for a place to or?"

THERE IS—I think there are two. Anyway, I wasn't greatly impressed, It seemed pretty big and I didn't get a seat near a window. Prices were moderate and all French food is gnod. Better view and more elegance at the Tour d'Argent—but this is a high-priced and Michelin three-star restaurant.

A restaurant that has a garden effect and a lot of Paris, atmosphere: Closerie des Lilas on Boulevard Montparnasse. Any Paris taxi-driver knows it.

"Q: (O'Hara to Delaplane:
Reader writing asking about British tourist office ads that you can travel in Britain on $14 a day.)"

I THINK $25 is more like it and am against pushing publicity handout dreams. You might do England on $14. But I think this is crowding it down to bare eating, sleeping and one Shakespeare show.

"Would we do better to ship our own car (which has more room than foreign cars) to Europe? We have two children..."

GASOLINE at 90 cents a gallon is going to be murder if you run an American car. And there are plenty of European cars that will hold four and luggage. Rent. (You have about $200 each way shipping and insurance charges too.)

"Q: There was a place in London where you could get toy soldiers..."

WELL, THE soldiers are authentically dressed period models—actually collector's items. There's a little shop in Shepherd's Market — right across the corner from Shepherd's. An excellent pub and restaurant by the way. Shepherd's Market is a hideaway little district behind bustling Picadilly, Supposed to be residential area for Christine Keeler types, But the area is quiet and you'll find it charming.

Break for Fido

Some hotels and motels reject dogs and others accept them but the motorist stands a good chance of getting the family pooch in for the night if he adopts a few simple rules. The AAA recommends that in case of doubt the owner take his dog by the leash and introduces him to the management with a solemn pledge as to his good behavior.

One motel chain provides separate kennels for Fido at all its establishments and one motel near Washington offers him a couple of playthings.

Bookworms for Bookmarks

By Elsa DeBra

THO IS happier in a book than a book worm? So, make a pair of book worm book marks out of felt, cut to a pattern size of 8 inches long, by 1½ inches wide. Boy and girl, they complement each other in color and trimming

Make bodies the same color, and accessories, hat and tie for the boy, skirt, bow and bra for the girl, out of contrasting material such as gingham or denim. These accessories may be glued in place or sewn invisibly. The face-features may be embroidered in colors or merely traced with black or white

For gift-giving, however, when you want these bookmarks to be extra decorative, stitch tiny rickrack in contrasting color, around the accessories. Designate facefeatures with sequins and flat beads. Simply cutting out with a pinking shears lends an attractive, fuzzy effect.

So, with this jelly pair clinging to the proper pages in the book you're reading, how can you ever lose your Solving the problem of keeping your place in a book when it is laid aside is the job of those bookmarks.

The Italian greyhound is quite rare, although the breed dates back to ancient times. It could be that a few ministure greybounds existed in the days of the Pharaohs of Egypt, for some claim that a mummy of one was found in a 10mb, possibly at Abydos. I know of no supporting evidence of this.

THE BREED really comes from Italy and there it is called Piccoli Levrieri Raliani. Relics date the breed back to the days of ancient Pompeii. Just how a large greyhound was dwarfed is not known. But royal ladies of the ancient courts fancied toy dogs, and when women want someBy Eleanor A. Price

The breed has figured in The breed has figured in art. One painting is of Mary Beatrice D'Easte, consort of James II, with her Italian greybound, It is said the dog appears coarse and does not compare to those owned by Queen Victoria.

GRADUALLY the breed found a certain amount of popularity in the United popularity in the United States, which was fortunate because, during World War I, the little dog almost disappeared from the Old World. Englishmen came knocking at our gates, an unprecedented happening, and took home good breeding stock, Although he appears ex-quisitely delicate, the Italian greybound is active and hardy, and his bones are no more brittle than any other toy dog. His short coat makes him chilly only in extremely cold weather. And he is so clean a careful rubbing with silk or chamois can usually take the place of a bath. He is normally calm and quiet and has a wonderful temperament.

Sturdy grower with long, nearly thorn-free stems and rich pink flowers, Eiffel Tower rose has a good future.

By Joe Littlefield

OSES come and roses go. but it looks like one of several exceptionally good roses, Eiffel Tower, will be around and popular for a long time. We had read about this rose having four-inch flower buds on three-foot stems. A specimen Eiffel

Tower rose that won a special award at the recent El Monte Community Garden Club show flower quite as large as that, nonetheless it was an outstanding-

Relief for Sore Throats

Few people know that Benedict Arnold, before his traitorous exploits, worked in a throat elixir factory in Connecticut and later opened up his own apothecary shop, dispensing such popular 18th century throat remedies as solutions of garlic, brown sugar and rose water. In parts of this country,

hound drops for a sore throat, and swathe their necks in flannel soaked with warm camphorated oil.

But whether your favorite sore throat remedy is ultramodern or homey and old-fashioned, throat specialists stress the importance of 48 hours of bed rest for a sore throat, plus a high-protein diet, plenty of liquids-and no smoking. If the infection is stubborn or severe, call a doctor; a sore throat can be serious business.

BE SURE to firm the soil around roots with the round end of a trowl or shovel handle, because tamping the soil with shoe heels simply doesn't firm it enough. Un-less new growth shows on newly planted bare-root roses, wrap some form of a cloth cover, even if it is an old bed sheet, around the branches right to the ground. Wet the cover thoroughly daily unless the weather is cloudy or damp, and be sure to keep the soil moist until roses have sprouted new growth. These two factors are the main keys to sprouting roses quickly.

group of three of each variety chosen. This way, they have more flowers of the same color to pick for table decoration, or more flowers to choose for flower show competition. Several roses of the same variety planted in groups in a rose bed also supmore dramatic color effects, provided the colors are wisely selected to blend with other colors, or to complement the others.

ROSES GENERALLY are smaller in ultimate growth than camellias, and naturally take up less space. Camellias actually should be spaced about twice as far apart as the roses.

Warm, windy, driving weather causes good blooming camellia flower buds to brown and glaze as they barely begin to open. They stop developing, rot, and drop off. Gardener should be conscious of the drastic and sudden weather changes. They cold, preferably moist at-mosphere to produce best flowers. During unusual mild winter weather, gardeners should shower bathe the plants, regardless of the open blossoms on the plants, lowering the drying conditions and providing some humidity.

Gardeners may have longer blooming season with their favorite varieties by planting pairs, one plant in lots of shade and the other in up to half day of sun-except. ing in hot, dry localities. We're referring to the Japonica type which is the fa-vorite type of most gardeners.

AS AN EXAMPLE, planted a Debutante camellia on the west side of the house where it gets a half day of sun. Later, we cut down a Eureka variety which is a stingy bloomer, and budded a Debutante to it. The plant in the west exposure side of the house blooms three to five weeks earlier than the one in shade on north side of house. Blossoms develop quicker and the flowers open fuller, Flowers of the one in shade open later, are not quite as large, but have a richer pink color. Between the two we have about a month and longer of Debutante blos-

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week. . . Start crabgrass control now by knocking the seeds with one of the available controls. Your nurseryman will recommend one.

Prepare new planting beds for new bare-root roses.

Start thinking about a gift for your gardening friend. Plants in bloom, a book on gardening or a special gadget are good choices.

Geraniums will bloom this winter if you bring them indoors by a sunny window and keen them watered.

Select a living Christmas tree this week, while supply is still good. Nurserymen have several varieties to Make sure newly planted trees are solidly staked against possible wind damage this winter

Mulch around shrubs with steer manure. If you fertilize this time of year, use a slow-acting plant food such as bone meal.

Plant perennials for spring bloom. Delphinium, day lily, sweet William, Canterbury bells, coral bells and many others may go in now, Major pruning should wait until winter sets in, but weak or dead growth can be removed from shrubs and trees this month.

Holly, pyracantha, cotoneaster and poinsettias are the plants that we traditionally associate with Christmas,

In colder areas the poinsettia must be enjoyed as a house plant, while in milder climates it usually survives the winter nicely. Good grooming of pyracantha should start after the blooming season by cutting back to heavy wood stock. If you want more foliage and less long defoliated stems, a good practice is to prune again in summer, leaving some of the newer growth to help thicken the foliage. Regular feeding and the use of iron will help to tone up the color in foliage and blooms,

New growth of pyracantha and cotoneaster can be pruned away to expose the brilliant berries without harm to the

Sprigs of any of these berried shrubs also can be cut and used as Christmas decorations inside the house. All of these plants are hardy and new growth returns rapidly.

Spray the cut sprigs with an insecticide containing a fatty acid emulsion before bringing them into the house. It will clean them up and put a lasting shine on the foliage.

Rooftop Treasure: Purple Glass

"glass purpler"—and she has glass as beautiful as any "purpled" by the desert sun. Tones range from lavendar to violet to amethyst to purple so deep it approaches

Mrs. Kloehn became interested in the hobby 10 years ago when she picked up some purple glass from behind Diamond Lil's home in the ghost town of Calico.

SHE HAS the most success with pressed glass, manufac-tured before World War I. That glass contains a great deal of manganese, Glass made during and immediately after World War I contains a great deal of selenium, which turns amber in prolonged sunlight. Present-day glass does not appreciably change color, Mrs. Klochn finds.

Most glass "purples" in from two to four years. After that the color usually deepens -but sometimes it fades, and she does not know why.

Mrs. Klochn has displayed "purple" glass in the annual Hobby Show and the amoual Gem and Mineral Show here.

BILL WELCH New and Surprising

RIGHT NEW menus will be introduced this week at the beauteous Tenderloin restaurant, 4363 Atlantic Ave. And they contain some sur-prises for the dining out pub-

The Tenderloin is offering a number of sumptuous new entrees priced in the popular $2 range. This new policy, effective today, means that The Tenderloin's price structure will be more in keeping with that of its nearby sister res-taurant, Welch's, also owned by Rex Welch.

The Tenderloin with its white, gold and black modern decor, is unquestionably one of the most attractive Restaurants in Southern California, Its service, by teams of highly trained waiters, is outstandingly thoughtful and ef-ficient. The staff includes the following waiters who have international training and polish: David Nelson from London: Roberto Ortiz from Mexico City; Shahine Farzad, Te-haran; Wilhelm von Poel-geest, Amsterdam, and John Perlinger, Montreal,

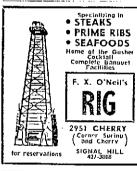

Among the new entrees of-fered by manager Bill Welch (Rex's brother) are breast of chicken in a rich wine sauce, $2.50; sauteed chicken livers with rice, $2.50; sand dabs maitre d' hotel, $1.95, and chicken fried steak, $2.25. These include marvelous salad, mixed by the waiter at the table in a huge bowl on a bed of ice; outstanding baked potato or rice, dark and light sourdough breads and beverage.

Also available are The Tenderloin's cuts of glorified eastern prime beef, including a variety of tenderloin, top sirloin and New York cut steaks, plus superb prime rib au jus, priced from $4.50, Closed Mondays, the restau-rant serves dinner daily and Sunday from 5 p.m. on, Luncheon is Tuesday through Priddy from 11:30 on, TEDD THOMEY

BERT'S EYE VIEW

Living Doll' from 'Petticoat Junction' Serious Thinker

By BERT RESNIK Ty and Radio Editor

The average man looking at beauteous red-headed Jeannine Riley could hardly respond with less of a thought than:

"What a living doll!"

It is because Jeannine is a living doll—and can act, too—that she was cast as Billie Jo in the CBS-TV's Tuesday night "Petticoat Junction."

That's why it is a little startling when such a gorgeous girl, who portrays a relatively boy-crazy teenage in the TV series, comes up with a philosophy of life such as:

"The mind is the key to inner strength."

NOW IT ISN'T that Jeannine is fighting her physical beauty. It's part of her and she's not complaining. But beauty isn't enough for her,

"I think about becoming a better person and I don't find it by trying to perfect my face in the mirror every morning," she said.

"I find it by watching, reading, listening and by doing,"

Anyone who has read any newspaper stories about beautiful girls in Hollywood should recognize this approach.

It sounds like the usual press-agentry, to wit:

"Who says that a gorgeous Hollywood star can't have brains along with beauty?" * * * *

THE USUAL press agent was sitting with Jeannine and I during the luncheon interview and his mouth gaped open at her next statements. Matter of fact, it gaped almost as wide as mine did. "Metaphysics," said Jean-

"Metaphysics," said Jeannine, "is an organized thought process. It is constructive thinking in a positive way. "I use it and it applies. The

"I use it and it applies. The only thing I haven't mastered is the time element."

There are two things a reporter can do when the person he's interviewing brings up a subject about which he knows nothing.

He can say to himself, "What a kook!" and change the subject.

Or he can listen. I listened.

JEANNINE was introduced to metaphysics by her father.

James E. Riley, a successful Fresno businessman.

He gave her a book, "The Secret of the Ages" by Robert Collier. Six months later she read it.

"It made me feel an awareness," she said. "It made me ask myself, 'What's really important? What's really beautiful? What's really good?"

In the final analysis it did something else for Jeannine. It made her decide to believe in herself

"Anyone can do that even if they don't know how to (Continued on Page 19)

GETTING IN THE RIGHT SPIRIT

BOB HOPE AND BING CROSBY appear on "The Road to Tiltsville" as they prepare for their comedy special at 8:30 p. m. Friday on channel 4. Hope's appearance will be limited to pre-taped sequences made before medical treatment was ordered for his left eye. Jack Benny will handle most of Hope's chores.

THE RABBI WAS MILLION LAUGHS

Mason Gives Up Ministry for Show-Biz

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) Rabbi Jacob Maza was a million laughs at parties and community dinners, so after six years in the ministry he his calling to become a full-time comedian.

He changed his name to Jackie Mason who is now a rapid-fire monologist with an hilarious Yiddish accent, (He guests on "The Garry More Show" at 10 p.m. Tuesday, channel 2.)

"If I had wanted to stay a rabbi I'd be the most popular rabbi in the world by now," Mason said, his speaking voice exactly the same as it is on the Ed Sullivan show and in night clubs.

MASON is a little man, pale of face, with sad blue eyes. He says furny things, but his expression is one of enduring melancholy. His monologues generally are keyed to politics and a vation. I worked a little humor into my services, but at social functions I became a real comedian.

"Pretty soon they wanted me to entertain at community clubs. So I did. I was even a regular for the Ku Klux Klan, * * * *

"WHEN I QUIT the temple my family was upset. My father was a rubbi in Russia, Wisconsin and New York, My three brothers are rabbis. And all the generations of my family going back centuries were rabbis. I was the first one to leave the ministry.

"They were broken-hearted and disowned me. Then when I became a hit as a comedian they took my picture out again and I was allowed to rejoin the family.

"It wasn't easy getting started, I played the Jewish mountains—the Catskills, It's an easy place to work. There are 500 hotels, almost all of them small with owners so cheap they'll hire almost anybody for nothing. It's a good deal for both sides,

"During the summer everything was fine, but when the hotels closed I starved. I sold shoes and worked in deparlment stores, but I wasn't very good. Finally I began working benefits and for free in night clubs. Then I began making $50 a night at dinners and Banquets, And after a while I worked the big hotels in the mountains."

REVOLUTION cannon is fired during "1776" at 6:30 p. m. Sunday (today), channel 7, COLOR.

CHESTER CONKLIN

Keystone Kop Comedy 'Play-by-Ear'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Chester Conklin, an original Keystone Kop, will be hopping all over the video screen at 9:30 p.m. Monday, channel 4, when Mack Sennett's old one-reelers unfold in "The Funny Men," the first of a two-parter.

In honor of the occasion Chester made a special trip to Hollywood,

At 77 he lives at the Motion Picture Country House, a dream-like institution in Calabasas, Calif., where old movie folk live and re-live their days of glory.

Chester is spry, garrulous and in excellent health,

"I DON'T know where they dug up all that old film of the Keystone Kops," he said. "About three years ago one of the oldtimers went back to New York to take the negatives out of storage to show on TV. But the film was so bad and storage so slipshod the negatives were all stuck together.

"They couldn't salvage a single reel from the whole collection. And you can take my word for it, we made hundreds of those comedies. I made two Kops' pictures a week for five years."

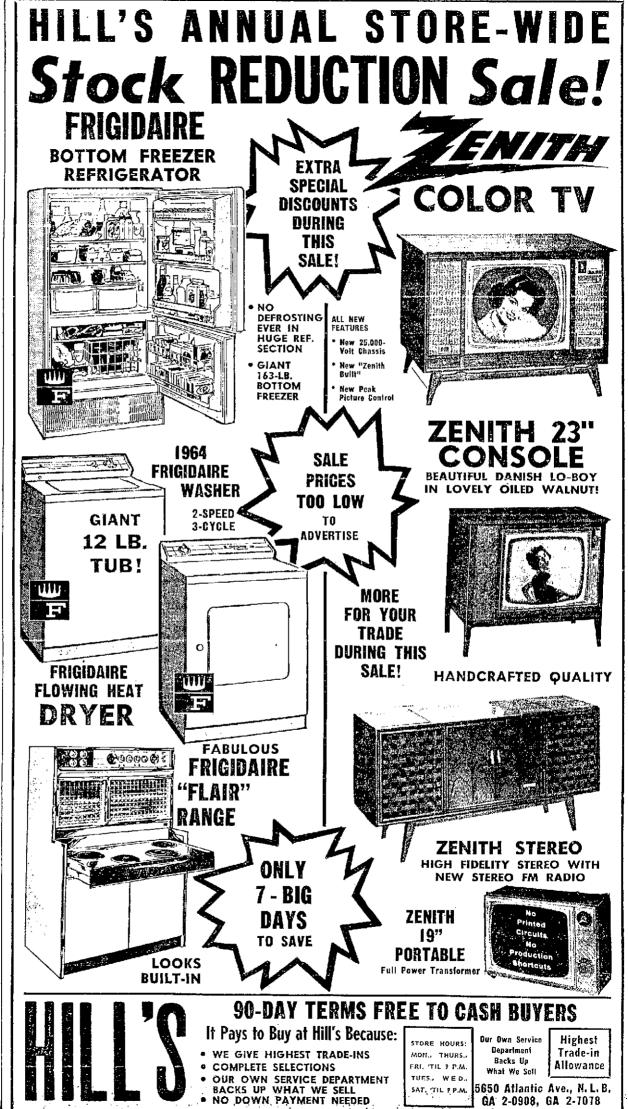

Conklin's face shows nary a trace of the thousands of cream pies that splattered against it. But there's a twinkle in his eye.

"I'd love to have been able to grab those one-reelers," he said, "They'd be worth more than a million dollars today,

"THEY CAN"T make comedies like the Keystone Kops these days, We'd set up our cameras on any street in Los Angeles and if a crowd gathered we'd hire a few cops on the spot to keep the people away from the action.

"Anyhow, producers and directors aren't around anymore to think up the stunts and gags. In the old days we'd just start with an idea—without a script—and play it by ear.

"We'd think up jokes and gags as we went along. Such a thing is unheard of these days."

RAYMOND BURR . . . A Fireplace, Book and a Man's Dreams

The house Mason built that "Perry built currently awe inspiring and eventually will represent more than a million dollars.

That's the amount of mon- principally from "fees" collected by Perry — that Raymond Burr, who portrays the TV lawyer, plans to put into the home.

It's located on a 180-foot Malibu bluff and affords an inspirational view of the Pacific Ocean.

Its two and a half acres of grounds are a botanist's dream, planted in hundreds of varieties of flowers, shrubs and trees,

Burr was delighted recently to hear an airline pilot tell him his home was a landmark for aircraft.

"The pilot said it's the only green cliff along the coastline in this area," Burr said.

AT THE MOMENT Burr's house has 12 rooms (three bedrooms, one bath). But the outsized actor is in the process of building a new wing which will eventually transform the editice into a 24room mansion.

A widower, Burr certainly does not need that much space for himself.

"Quite right," he says. "But some day I hope to turn it all over to a foundation of some kind for the promotion of better communication among people.

Each of the new rooms has a definite function - there are music rooms, offices, libraries, health rooms, laundry, gallery, study, recreation room, bedrooms and an apartment for servants, *

FIVE OR SIX nights a week he spends at a special apartment at the old Charlie Chaplin studios in Hollywood which have been converted into CBS-TV facilities. What was once a stable has been made into a suite for four offices, kitchen, bath and bedroom.

Because his schedule calls for 12 to 18 hours of work each day—Burr is in almost every scene of his hour show time his simply doesn't have time to spend an hour before and after work commuting to Malibu.

In sharp contrast to his closets at home, Burr's studio apartment is crowded with 55 suits and thousands of neckties, socks, shirts and under-

In regard to Mrs. Maynard's letter of Dec. 1, I also have children. They are aged 5 and 6 and I tried to convey to them the importance of why there were no children's shows on during that un-forgettable weekend.

Even at their young age they realized that all that was important enough to capture every adult's attention and therefore entertained them-selves quietly in other ways. I pray to God we shall never have another such tragedy.

But I gratefully acknowledge the complete news coverage on television which enabled us to watch, as it was happening, what will surely be in our children's history books.

We must remember that television is not solely for entertainment and, above all, is not THE SOLE ENTER-TAINMENT for our children.

Mrs. R. D. Gurzi, Long Beach

In this column last week Mrs. Charlotte Maynard suggested that some programming be directed to-ward younger children in the event of a future misfortune similar to the assassination of President Kennedy.

I agree with the writer of today's letter.

I would like to convey to the radio and TV networks our appreciation of their coverage of the historical though sad events, Mrs. S. J. Hagan, Long Beach Many share your feelings, Mrs. Hagan.

I think you are qualified to listen to our complaint and forward it to proper channels.

We are an average working family and enjoy early evening shows of good quality.

People in our income bracket, eight to ten thousand yearly, are the people who respond to products advertised by sponsors. But this season we find that, consistent with our normal early rising hour, we have no enter-tainment but last year's repeats.

Consequently, we are reverting to radio and the public library, but we unhappily miss good entertainment from 7:30 to 10.

Mrs. H. Dreier, Long Beach Using last Monday's TV log from 7:30 p.m. through 9:30 p.m., Mrs. Dreier, I find that original programs outnumber repeats 15 to 6. Maybe you're using last year's television set.

l never miss your "Pan and Fan" column. It's just not long enough.

Would you do me a big favor and tell me where I can write Perry Como?

Mrs. Georganne Parker. Long Beach

You bet. Perry Como, % NBC-TV, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, NY.

HAIR & SCALP TREATMENT

ONE COMPLETE 45-MINUTE

Thousands of clients have passed through our Turoff Clinics since our first office grew to many in principal cities. Through the years, one fact has become firmly established. The average man (or woman) has plenty of warning of approaching baldness, The danger signs include itchy scalp, excessive dandruff, excessive hairfall, overly dry or oily scalp, thinning or bald spots,

Many people actually refuse to face the facts that they are getting bald, or they keep "putting it off." This sort of spirit generally results in hopeless, "shiny" baldness. Turoff Specialists have been trained for JUST ONE JOB

. . helping you get rid of the conditions causing you to lose your hair, and thickening your hair where it is still possible to do so. The results? Let's put it this way, if accepted for treatment by us, the client is amazed and delighted . . . very quickly. We'll prove it . . . at no risk to you. Our guarantee is . . YOU MUST SEE RESULTS AND BE SATISFIED IN JUST FOUR TREATMENTS or these four treatments cost you nothing.

spell metaphysics," she said. "You must learn to like yourself. You would be surprised how many people don't like themselves and expect others to like them."

It also convinced her to "think in a positive way," . . . .

WHAT, exactly, does that mean?

"When you make a deci-on," said Jeannine, "don't sion," said Jeannine, have a single negative thought in relation to it. A positive decision goes out and works."

It worked for her, she attests. To begin with, she positive-ly decided after high school that she wasn't going to college for four years to look for a husband.

Her current "Petticoat

Junction" television series and a series was included in her planning-will serve as a "stepping-stone" and provide the means for getting her name known across the nation.

Next she will work in "big beautiful scripts."

Sometime during this latter period, she will meet a man who "intellectually and financially is on my levelwhy settle for less?"

She will marry him and he will understand why a career is necessary for her.

Speaking on my level as a reporter, Jeannine Riley does not come across in person as hard as cold print may seem to convey her.

She simply is a very wellorganized person who has her life mapped out.

It is a map which she readily admits may have some detours.

"If I could maintain a pos-itive attitude 24 hours a day, I would be off on an island myself," she said.

"Sometimes it's easy to say and hard to do."

But she's going to keep on trying and doing.

Q. I am confused about President Kennedy's sisters and brothers. Supposedly the President is one of 9 children. How come only 6 are usually mentioned in the press?—Olivia Farley, Greensboro, N.C.

A. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy had 9 children. Their oldest, Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., was killed during the war. A daughter, Kathleen, Lady Hartington, was later killed in a plane crash. There are currently 7 surviving Kennedy children: The President, John F. Kennedy; the U.S. Attorney General, Robert; the junior senator from Massachusetts, Edward; Patricia, wife of actor Peter Lawford; Eunice, wife of Peace Corps head Sargent Shriver; Jean, the wife of Stephen Smith; and Rosemary Kennedy, 45, mentally retarded and currently living in a Catholic institution in Wisconsin.

Q. How much money does Elvis Presley get per motion picture?—Jiggs Hanley, Memphis, Tenn.

A. Presley gets $500,000 a film, is asking $750,000 each for future commitments.

Q. Does the name Haile Selassic have a special meaning? — Lena Hampton, Norfolk, Va.

A. Haile Selassie is emperor of Ethiopia. The name itself means "power of Holy Trinity."

Q. Child star Margaret O'Brien — is it true she's broke and is now reduced to working in burlesque? — F. T. Morehouse, Seattle, Wash.

A. Former child star O'Brien does not work in burlesque. She is far from broke. Her mother invested her daughter's earnings in Los Angeles real estate, and the investments have been most profitable. Margaret now works on the road in legitimate theater.

Q. I would like to know how old actress Pola Negri is. I understand she's now making a comeback in films.—Dee Heimer, New York, N.Y.

A. Pola Negri is 64.

Q. Who said: "There is no index of character so sure as the voice"?—Elaine Boucher, Baltimore, Md.
A. Benjamin Disraeli, English statesman and writer (1804-1881).

Q. Is it true that Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor will next star in the film version of Lady Chatterley's Lover?—Vincent Lucchese, Newark, N.J. A. There is some talk about it at MGM.

Q. How much does Willie Mays earn per year in salary from the San Francisco Giants as opposed to the Giants' president, Horace Stoneham?—J. P. L., Oakland, Calif.

A. Stoneham was paid $70,000 in 1963; Mays was paid $105,000.

Q. What is wrong with the Jerry Lewis TV show?--B. T., Passaic, N.J.

A. Jerry Lewis.

Q. Please tell me what has become of Ramon Mercador, the man who killed Leon Trotsky.—Roy Tyrrell, Peoria, Ill.

A. In 1940, Jacques Mornard, alias Ramon Mercador, a 26-year-old Spanish Communist agent, on orders from Stalin, inveigled his way into Trotsky's house in Mexico by seducing one of Trotsky's female disciples. He then smashed in Trotsky's head with an ice hammer. He was sentenced to 20 years in jail and released in 1960. Supposedly, he headed for Prague or Moscow. No one knows for sure. It may well be, however, that Mercador was murdered by Communist agents because he knew too much. His present whereabouts are unknown.

Q. Will former British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan be offered an earldom by the Queen?
Isn't that the usual reward?
—G. T., Washington, D.C.
A. Yes, it is, but Macmillan, like Churchill, may decline the carldom, prefer to remain in the House of Commons.

to remain in the rionse of Commons.

Q. Adolf Hitler had a well-known interpreter, Otto Schmidt. What's happened to him?—Robert Hayworth, San Bernardino, Calif.

A. Dr. Paul Otto Schmidt today runs one of the largest schools for interpreters in Europe, lives in Munich.

Q. The daddy of Secretary of State Dean Rusk—was he really a mailman?—Ruth Marshburn, Kinston, N.C.

A. Yes, in Atlanta, Ga.

Q. Can you reveal how much money Pablo Picasso has contributed to the Castro cause in Cuba?—Fiorita Coronado, Miami, Fla. A. No money, although he recently sent a portrait of his wife, Jacqueline, to the Cuban embassy in Paris to be auctioned off. The funds from the painting are to be sent to victims of Hurricane Flora, which struck Cuba in October.

Q. Is it true that the French run their buses on wine not fit for human consumption?—B. Reisch, Indianapolis, Ind.

A. From time to time, they do. For example, from 1945 to 1955, motor fuel alcohol derived in part from grape wine was used to move French buses equipped with engines capable of running on such alcohol.

WHY WOMEN DRINK. An estimated one out of every six alcoholics in this country is a female. Why do these girls drink? Generally, men are to blame. A woman drinks because:
(1) She wants a husband and doesn't have one; (2) to accompany her drinking husband; (3) to get even with her husband; (4) to bolster her courage to revolt or to tell her husband or boy friend off. There are other explanations for serious alcoholism, of course, but the above reasons are the major ones.

KHRUSHCHEV & CASTRO. Soviet bloc aid to Cuba has been severely cut. and the Soviet may withdraw from Havana practically all of its technicians. Reason: Castro has been wooing the Chinese Reds, much to the irritation of the Russian Reds. Red China contributed $1,000,000 to the Cuban victims of Hurricane Flora. Russia contributed $75.000. Because the hurricane destroyed much of the Cuban sugar crop, it looks as if the Russians will now have to buy sugar, as well as wheat, in the open market. In short, other than for tobacco and cigars -- which most East Europeans don't want -- Cuba has become an economic millstone around Khrushchev's neck.

PAY-OFF. How accurately does the Bobby Baker scandal mirror the materialism of young America? Robert Baker, 36, former secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority, began his Washington career as a Senate page 22 years'ago. The major part of his young life was spent in government. Did this imbue him with a desire for further service to his country or with a greed to feather his own financial nest? In his case, the answer is obvious: a law partnership, a travel agency, a club for lobbyists, two homes, an ocean resort, a vending company, a restaurant, seemingly anything for a buck. Is Bobby Baker atypical? Or is this why many men enter government? Look at Congress. It insists that cabinet officers and others in the executive branch divest themselves of private financial interests which might conflict with their government service. But congressmen themselves refuse even to divulge their own financial holdings. Are we becoming a nation of wheelers and dealers interested only in the personal pay-off? This is a good time to ask why men enter politics. Is it to serve or self-serve?

TRUE STORY. Before she took her own life a few weeks ago. Diana Spencer Churchill, 54, eldest daughter of Sir Winston Churchill. had a secret voluntary job--talking people out of suicide. On the job she used her middle name, Mrs. Spencer "Mrs. Spencer" answered the phone. Mansion House 9000. That's the number at St. Stephen's Church in London people ring up when they are lonely, distressed, on the verge of suicide. Her task was to listen to these unhappy souls, to pep them up with an inspiring, lifesaving message. How unfortunate that she could not use the same therapy on herself.

AGGRESSION. Man has more aggression than wild animals, the scientists declare. Dr. Harrison Matthews. Scientific Director of the London Zoo, reveals, for example: "The weapons of wild animals are potentially so dangerous that fighting is ritualized into display, threat, submission and appeasement, so that fights are generally no more than trials of strength followed by disengagement and rapid withdrawal by the weaker. " In man. however, aggression is so uncontrolled that it leads to wholesale killings within a species. Why is human aggression more intense and deep-seated than animal aggression? Man, apparently, is meaner and less morally inhibited in fighting for positions of power.

AUSTRALIA AND THE U.S. The decision to equip the Royal Australian Air Force with American TFX planes in preference to British aircraft means that Australia plans to link more closely with U.S. defense strategy in the Far East. In all probability, Australian air crews will come to the U.S. for training, and we will base a bomber force somewhere on Australian soil.

TO BE REPLACED. The Cunard Line, having been loaned close to $50,000,000 by the British government, will build a new luxury liner to replace the Queen Mary, at 81,000 tons the second-largest liner in the world. The Queen Elizabeth at 83,670 tons is first.

ABORTION IN JAPAN. According to Mrs. Shizue Kato, a member of the Upper House of the Japanese diet, about 1,000 foreign women annually combine abortions with sight-seeing in Japan. In her country abortion is cheap, legal and easy. An estimated 1,500,000 to 1,900,000 Japanese women each year visit neighborhood clinics for that purpose. The standard fee is now $11. In fact, abortion is so easy in Japan that the government is afraid the abortion rate may soon exceed the country's birth rate.

FACT OF FINANCE. Approximately 1% of U.S. taxpayers own almost half of all the stocks held by individuals in this country. So reports the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School in a study, Characteristics of Stock Ownership.

CHICAGO CLIPPING. Minimum haircut rates for men in Chicago are now $2.25 on weekdays, $2.50 on Saturdays, making haircut prices there the highest in the nation. In Hollywood there are a few barber stylists who trim movie colony heads at $7.50 per haircut and up. But only the stars can afford them.

NEW DISEASE. To "tennis elbow" and "housemaid's knee," you can now add a new disease: "bowler's finger." It's a condition characterized by joint-swelling of the middle finger and comes from too much bowling, particularly with a too-heavy ball.

DO YOU HAVE TO BE A MILLIONAIRE TO BECOME PRESIDENT?

by Lloyd Shearer

ohn F. Kennedy, President of the United States is a millionaire 10 times over. Richest man ever to sit in the White House, he does not accept his yearly salary of $100,000.

As of this writing, his leading potential

As of this writing, his leading potential rivals in the 1964 Presidential race are Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania and Gov. George Romney of Michigan. All are millionaires.

The wealthiest of this foursome is, of course, Gov. Rockefeller. He has an estimated $200,000,000 fortune, the major portion in stock of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Sen. Barry Goldwater sold his three department and men's wear stores in Arizona in September, last year, to Associated Dry Goods for 57,052 shares of Associated stock at approximately $39 a share, worth roughly $2,250,000. Reportedly this sum was divided three ways among the senator, his brother Bob, still president of the Goldwater Stores, and a sister. Sen. Goldwater remains chairman of the board of the Goldwater Stores at approximately $7,500 a year. The senator's wife, Peg, the former Peggy Johnson of Muncie, Ind., is the wealthy-in-her-own-right daughter of R. P. Johnson and niece of C. S. Davis, founders of the highly successful Borg-Warner Corporation.

Another inheritor of great wealth is Gov. William Warren Scranton of Pennsylvania, who inherited an estimated $10,000,000 from his mother, the late Mrs. E. Worthington Scranton, a Republican National Committeewoman for 23 years, known in political circles as The Duchess. The governor's ancestors started a foundry in 1840 in Northeastern Pennsylvania and gave their name to the town which bears it.

Michigan's Gov. George Romney, prophet of the compact car and former president and chairman of American Motors, is a millionaire by virtue of exercising a stock option on 102,305 shares, accorded him while he was an automotive executive at salaries plus bonuses ranging from $100,000 to $149,~000 per year. Of the four possible Republican Presidential candidates, Romney is the only one who began life as a poor boy, inherited nothing of substantial material value and carned his own millions.

How come these four men, despite their repeated denials, have been jockeying for position on the road to the White House? How come the 1964 Presidential race has been pre-empted by millionaire-starters?

WHAT BECAME OF THE LOG CABIN?

What's happened to the traditional American belief that the candidate horn of poor but honest parents in a log cabin is blessed with a political advantage? Has the log cabin image become passé in America? Have we passed from the era of the common man to the century of the common millionaire? Is it possible that the so-called poor man will never again be elected to the Presidency?

Several weeks ago PARADE polled the members of the U.S. Senate for their thinking on the following question: "Do you think it probable that in the future a nonmillionaire can be elected to the U.S. Presidency, campaign expenses being what they are?"

Half of these brave men refused to answer, one explaining his reluctance by pointing out: "This whole question of campaign funds is a tricky one. The object is to get elected and re-elected without selling your soul. It calls for a good deal of tightrope-walking, and if you don't mind, I'd rather chicken out on the discussion." Other senators, however, spoke their minds. Said Sen. George Smathers of Florida: "Possible but extremely difficult.

"From my experience in my own campaign," Smathers went on, "plus serving as chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee for six years and having participated actively in the recent Presidential campaign, it becomes ever clearer to me that until we broaden the base of campaign contributions through a tax credit program such as the President has recommended and I have introduced, it is going to be difficult for a man to run for President unless he is a millionaire or is financed by well-to-do interests to the point where he really is not a free man."

Here is a representative group of other senatorial answers:

Sen. Vance Hartke (Ind.): "A nonmillionaire probably will be elected President of the United States in the future. But unless a better way to finance campaigns is found, the likelihood lessens with each passing election. This, of course, is because campaigning costs so much...."

Sen. Jack Miller (Iowa): "Yes. But it will be helpful if his wife has a million."

Sen. Hiram Fong (Hawaii): "Very unlikely."

Sen. Edward Kennedy (Mass.): "I would certainly be hopeful that nonmillionaires can and will be elected to the U.S. Presidency in the future."

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (Minn.): "The answer is 'Yes,' provided the nonmillionaire has friends who are dedicated to politics and are willing to be generous in assistance, and if he has the enthusiastic support of the political party he represents."

Sen. Wayne Morse (Ore.): "In my view, since campaign expenditures are raised from a wide variety of sources, I do not think that the personal bank account of a candidate will act either as a hindrance or help...."

Sen. Stephen Young (Ohio): "Yes, indeed, 1 do. Also, I hope I'm right."

. Several senators who declined to be named answered the question with these statements: "Highly improbable, at least in the foreseeable future." "Unless there is a significant change in our present methods of financing Presidential campaigns and preconvention campaigns, the millionaire candidate will continue to have a decided advantage over the nonmillionaire." "I don't like to think that a man's personal wealth or lack of it would be a determining factor in getting him to the White House, but wealth, either carned or acquired, is certainly no handicap. If anything, it's an asset. Eventually it may become a prerequisite." "I think Harry Truman will go down in history as the last poor man elected U.S. President."

When a politician becomes the chosen Presidential candidate of his party, he does not finance his own campaign. His party picks up the tab for campaign expenses and usually goes into debt to do it.

But where a potential candidate needs his own million and that of his friends is during the hard, hopeful days of the preconvention campaign. This is the period we are now in. Sen. Goldwater and Gov. Rockfeller and other aspirants are currently spending their own funds and those of their supporters, flying around the country with their wives, making speeches, TV appearances, taking advertisements, handing out stickers, running for the nomination. All this costs money. Exactly how much, no one knows.

PRENOMINATION EXPENSES: $1,000,000

There is no federal law which requires the disclosure of prenomination campaign expenses, but it's a fair estimate that the man who obtains the Republican Presidential nomination next year will have spent a minimum of $1,000,000.

After Sen. John F. Kennedy received the Democratic nomination in 1960, he did a rare thing. He allowed a reporter from the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Ed Woods, to inspect his campaign finance records. These showed that Kennedy had spent a total of $912,500 in 1959 and 1960 to obtain the nomination, and this figure included no local spending by his supporters.

What we do know is that Sen. Kennedy received $543,939 from 5 Kennedy-for-President state committees. He also contributed $60,000 of his own money to the preconvention campaign. His family contributed another $90,000, plus forming a family corporation, Ken-Air Corporation, to purchase a $385,000 airplane which was leased to the senator at $1.75 a mile. Members of the Kennedy family worked without salary and paid their own expenses in getting the senator the Democratic Presidential nomination, and it is difficult to evaluate monetarily their dedicated services.

The Kennedy records list such expenditures as the following: $176,500 for the maintenance of national headquarters; $475,000 in primaries ($25,000 in New Hampshire; $100,000 in Wisconsin; $100,000 in West Virginia; $70,000 in Indiana; $55,000 in Oregon; $120,000 in other primaries), $37,500 at the Los Angeles convention and a deficit of $217,000, which possibly accounts for what it cost the Kennedys to fly around the country in their private plane.

Of the four Republican possibilities, only one, Gov. Rockefeller, has a private plane, a Convair, which he owns jointly with his brothers. But the character of hit-and-run campaigning has changed so radically nowadays that this prop-driven Convair is not fast enough for the governor. On a recent speaking tour, Rockefeller, in order to speak in New Hampshire, Utah and California on the same day, was compelled to use commercial jets. Such transportation costs a pretty penny, especially when the governor takes his wife, his press secretary and the secretary of his press secretary on these tours and in addition pays for the transportation and hotel accommodations of two advancemen.

Gov. Rockefeller has established his own New York headquarters in a five-story brownstone at 22 West 55th Street in Manhattan. He owns the building, and of the 25 people working there, a third are on his personal pay roll. Rockefeller also employs a brain trust of speech-writers, researchers and political advisors—a personnel setup that costs him half a million a year.

Where Rockefeller's money comes from is no secret. A grandson of famed John D. Rockefeller, the governor inherited fabulous holdings in oil, real estate and banking. In financial circles it's heen rumored that he receives $5,000,000 a year in dividends and interest payments. Although this figure may be exaggerated, the fact is that Nelson Rockefeller is one of the world's richest men. He can afford the race to the White House. So, too, can multimillionaire Gov. Scranton of Pennsylvania.

SETUP IS COMPLEX AND COSTLY

Sen. Goldwater, on the other hand, is only a "small" millionaire and must rely on the financial contributions of his supporters; reportedly they have promised him a $3,000,000 campaign kitty. Goldwater has set up campaign headquarters in a suite of offices in the Carroll Arms Hotel, across from the Senate Office Building in Washington, D.C. He has hired a new speech-writer, ex-reporter William Flythe, His campaign manager, Denison Kitchel, plans to microfilm all the senator's speeches, past and present. In downtown Phoenix, in a converted two-story drugstore, Goldwater supporters with a paid staff of 10 and an unpaid group of 190 volunteers are busy compiling, via IBM machines, lengthy mailing lists. The people on these lists are solicited for contributions. The executive director of the Phoenix headquarters is a professional fund-raiser, Frederic Chesnut, long known in the New York area as an astute promoter of funds for hospitals, churches and community projects. Chesnut has equipped his Goldwater-for-President headquarters with the latest automation aids and campaign paraphernalia, which includes colorful bumper signs,

To run an effective campaign, today's Presidency-seeker needs airplanes, automation, television and poll-takers—all expensive. Lou Harris, until recently President Kennedy's private pollster, is said to have earned more than $100,000 from the Kennedys for his preconvention guidance. Supposedly he told Kennedy which subjects to stress, which to avoid, where rival Nixon was strong, where he was vulnerable. Such advice is invaluable to the prospective candidate.

WEST VIRGINIA CAMPAIGN

So, too, is television. When Sen. Kennedy entered the Presidential primary in West Virginia opposite Hubert Humphrey in 1960, a nipand-tuck battle was expected. Kennedy, a Catholic, was marching into a predominantly Protestant state. In West Virginia, the Kennedys, Jack and Bobby, went all out, money no object. They spent $34,000 on television. They flew from one end of the state to the other, campaigning intensely. Kennedy swamped Humphrey. When it was all over, the senator from Minnesota complained, "It's tough being ganged up on by wealth. I campaigned in West Virginia on a shoestring cut in half."

In the early years of our republic, many of our Presidents were rich men. George Washington, a case in point, was one of the wealthiest of his time. But as the republic grew older and the Industrial Revolution expanded, the millionaire businessman in America, owing to his predatory nature, came to be regarded with suspicion; his millions were frequently described as "tainted money," and no successful businessman, until Herbert Hoover, reached the White House.

Of late, however, rich men have become more acceptable to the American public as Presidential possibilities. There are several reasons for this: (1) A rich candidate is considered not "on the take." He has all the money he wants. He doesn't need the Presidency to feather his financial nest. The poor candidate, it is felt, is inevitably corrupted by polities and more frequently succumbs to "The Deal." (2) With increased prosperity, anti-Wall Street and antihig business feeling has diminished in this country. (3) Wealthy candidates frequently give the impression that they are dedicated men of service and sacrifice. Like others of their economic echelon, they might have deteriorated into worthless playboys. Instead, as Presidential candidates they seem devoted to the public service. (4) Millionaire candidates are generally liberal, compensating frequently for the piratical tactics and unethical conduct of their monopolistic forebears. The President of inherited wealth is always more open handed with government money than the President who came up the hard way. As such, he attracts the large liberal segment of the nation. (5) Finally, the man born to money is regarded by many Americans as a patrician of superior background, a gentleman of breeding, a man of trust and social superiority who fits comfortably and naturally into the nation's highest office.

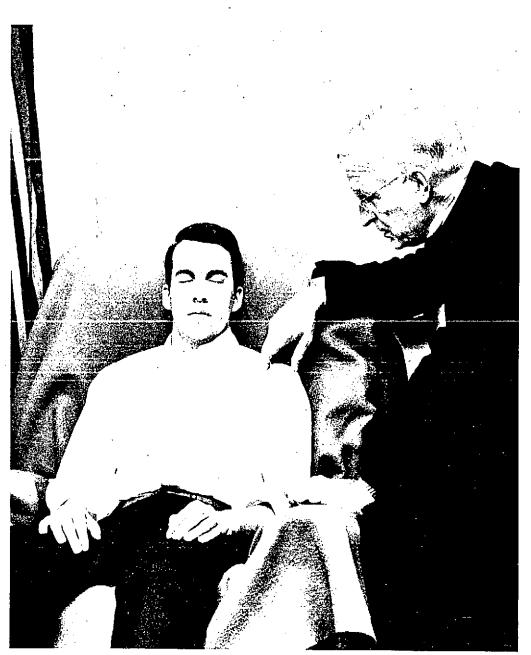

In America the word "millionaire" is no longer equated with the wages of sin, corruption and exploitation. Nowadays, the possibility exists that a millionaire can even be a nice guy, can even make a good President. Under the circumstances, that's a good development, because unless the present system of financing campaigns is radically revised in this country, it may be that only millionaires or friends of that breed can aspire successfully to the Presidency in the future.

High-cost handshake is given out by John F. Kennedy on visit to Allis-Chalmers plant, Milwaukee, in '60 primary. Kennedy spent $100,000 on Wisconsin campaign.

ZAP! A NEW WAY TO PASS EXAMS

by SID ROSS

Helping exam-panicked student, Father J. Higgins of St. Louis University places him under hypnosis. Technique helps students relax and concentrate on exam questions. Tap on shoulder (see photo) is favorite posthypnotic gimmick.

tudents at Parks College of Aeronautical Technology here have a new technique for passing examinations. They go to "Higgie" and get "zapned."

"Higgie" is the Rev. John J. Higgins, 58, a kindly, white-haired Jesuit priest who is student counselor at this East St. Louis branch of St. Louis University. And "zap" is the students' word for the simple, southing technique he uses to help them relax and concentrate before examinations. According to Father Higgins, a better word would be "suggestion." But actually the popular priest practices hypnosis.

Father Higgins has been hypnotizing students out of their pre-exam jitters here for the past 17 years. Each exam period, about one-sixth of the college's 600 students come for the half-hour treatment, which lasts them through the exam period. In fact, the treatment is in such demand that it has been put on a two-sided long-playing record for use by students in college, grade and high schools. And in the process Father Higgins has managed to achieve some spectacular results.

Not long ago, for instance, one student at Parks became so upset about pending examinations that he developed cramps in his stomach and legs, and on the day before exams developed functional blindness. Friends took him to the local hospital, where Father Higgins visited him. The priest hypnotized him into believing that he would make an A or B on all his exams. The boy regained his sight within an hour—and ran up an excellent record on all tests. He topped it off by getting an A on Father Higgins' own philosophy exam.

In another instance, one boy became what Father Higgins describes as "a gibbering idiot" just before exams. He was taken to the closed ward of a psychiatric hospital, where Father Higgins interviewed and gradually brought him back to normal. Since then, each exam time, he has come to Father Higgins to get zapped. He has rolled up an enviable school record and hasn't had any trouble since.

Actually, Father Higgins got his start as a hypnotist almost without knowing it, when he was hospitalized back in 1927. One day, on the hospital grounds he noticed a middle-aged man walking to and fro, sobbing, Father Higgins walked over and asked him what the matter was. "I'm going to hell," said the man. The priest began to talk to him soothingly. And he noticed that his calm, almost sleepy voice seemed to help the man relax, and virtually put him into a trance. "It wasn't exactly hypnosis, but it was something like it," the priest says in retrospect.

After watching vaudeville performers, studying books on the subject and professional training, Father Higgins began to perfect his techniques. Other priests began to send for him when confronted by hysterical or panicky persons. In 1946, as dean of Rockhurst College, Kansas City, he began to use hypnosis to help veterans with stuttering problems. When he came to St. Louis as counselor, he realized that hypnosis would be helpful for everyday exam stress.

Actually, Father Higgins' technique, which has the blessing of his Jesuit superiors, is a simple one. He brings a student to his office, has him lie or sit in a relaxed state and focus his attention on some monotonous sound, such as the ticking of a clock. This puts the boy into a light trance.

"Then all you have to do," says Father Higgins, "is suggest self-relaxation by a posthypnotic suggestion or signal. You suggest to them that when they wake up they'll be able to help themselves overcome the fear and panic by some device such as taking a deep breath.

"If you don't get the desired results with this technique," Father Higgins says, "you use what we call revivification. You take them back, via a deeper trance, to the time when the examination panic first began. Sometimes these memories go back to the second or third grade. With one boy, who was failing English, the panic went back to a day in second grade when he got back a spelling paper with every word marked wrong. After you've found the source of the trouble, you plant a posthypnotic suggestion that when they panic, they're just to recall that they're no longer the little second-grader who flunked the spelling exam. It usually works."

WEE-HOURS SESSIONS

Just in case it doesn't work, however, Father Higgins keeps himself available at all times. He lives in his cluttered, two-room office right on the campus, and students often drop in at 2:30 or even 3A.M. for a chat, a counseling session or to get zapped. In an average day, he is likely to zap 10 students.

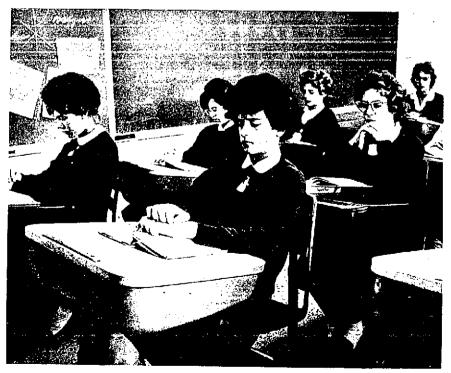

Father Higgins regards pre-exam jitters as a serious problem. He estimates that 20 to 25 per cent of all high school and college students experience "severe temporary emotional disturbances" at exam time. The rate is higher in college, because so much more is at stake. Exam panic, he says, often leads to suicide and breakdowns, as well as failures.

The priest has great faith in hypnosis, or autosuggestion, as a means of therapy. It may have an unlimited potential, he feels, through the use of such records as his "The Professor's Secret of Study," one side of which relaxes the student and the other of which places anti-panic suggestions in his mind. Use of the record has been the core of his experiments in the lower grades at Holy Family School, East St. Louis. According to school officials, a number of students have since raised their grades.

And curing exam jitters is not the only use for his technique, Father Higgins says. He has treated people sent to him by physicians for stuttering, headaches and nervous tension and skin rashes. And he foresees the day when hypnosis will be standard procedure, not only for exam panic, but for juvenile delinquency, alcoholism and other problems as well.

Working with youngsters, Father Higgins gives relaxation treatment to 8th graders at Holy Family School. Father Higgins also helps doctors, parish priests. He once hypnotized auditorium full of 300 students.

Entranced students listen to recording of Father Higgins' voice.

NEW PARTY LINE FOR JUNIORS

By VIRGINIA POPE PARADE FASHION EDITOR

ow's the time to buy a dress for the party season ahead. Juniors who want to look like seniors will be stepping out in clothes that are provocative yet subtle, sophisticated yet romantic, elegant yet inexpensive.

Holiday fashions are especially grownup for juniors this year. The long skirt. revealing torso and variations on the low neckline are a unique departure for junior styles. The little-girl dress is out. and in its stead is an exciting new look.

Talking about necklines, there's plenty of room at the top this season. Low necklines come in three different styles (see photos). One style features a peekaboo yoke of transparent material that turns a high-neckline dress into a provocative ensemble. A draped cowl on another dress adds a soft note to an otherwise daring dip, and a third is low-scooped front and back.

Since every girl dresses to please a man. we party-tested these new fashions on Joey Forman, comedian-about-town who is featured on the Sid Caesar TV show. Joey loved them all-particularly the swirling skirts, pastel colors and evecatching blacks and whites. But whatever style she chooses, the junior miss will get the appreciation she's looking forand have the time of her life.

Sophisticates in black silk shantung and white crepe flank comic Joey Forman. Black dress has a peekaboo yoke, lifted waist, streamer bow with sparkling pin. Noel, $25. The white crepe is two-piece. Separate jacket has deep cowl drape; dress is slender sheath. By Noel, $25.

Bavarian Creme Yellow Torte, that's what.

One for the Bavarian Creme Yellow Cake

One for the Bavarian Creme Fluffy Frosting

Together, they give you this Bavarian Creme-inspired torte. The cake bakes up into two tall and moist layers. So moist, it's easy to slice across for the four layers. The filling is fluffy and full of creamy Continental flavor with plenty to go between the four layers. Beautiful. Different. Yet, Pillsbury makes it all so simple with just two mixes. Bake up one soon. It's a party on a plate.

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by Morty Gunty

EDITOR'S NOTE: Morty Gunty is one of the most educated comedians in show business. He received his master's degree in 1953 from Brooklyn College and became a teacher in the New York City school system. His first love, however, was always the stage, and in addition to teaching, Gunty used to play the saxophone in Ned Harvey's band and do comedy bits. One night at a club date he was spotted by Nat Dunn, a well-known agent, who booked him into a Madison Square Garden benefit with Lena Horne, Tony Martin and Eddie Fisher. Gunty made such an overwhelming impression on the audience that he was signed to appear at the Celebrity Club in New York, where he stayed for six weeks. After that, bookings were no trouble. He worked the Mocambo in Hollywood, the Chez Parce in Chicago, the Copa in New York, appeared on TV with Perry Como and established himself as one of the most promising young comedians in the country. Here are some jokes from his routine:

A world traveler was seeking new excitement, so he entered a travel agency and asked to have passage booked to the moon. The ticket-seller went along with the gag and said, "I can't help you. All flights have been canceled."

"How come?" asked the astonished man. "Bad weather?"
"No," replied the agent, "it's just that the moon is full tonight."

An apartment-dweller entered the elevator of his building on his way to work one morning and met his next-door neighbor. "Say," he said angrily, "didn't you hear me pounding on your wall last night?"

"Oh, sure," answered the neighbor, "but I didn't want to complain. After all, we were making quite a bit of noise our-selves."

My idea of a rich man is one who has a son in college and doesn't even know about it!

A tightwad once decided to take a cab instead of a bus. And—just his luck—halfway to his destination the brakes of the cab failed. The cab went racing down a hill and the passenger shouted, "Stop the cab! Stop the cab!"

"I can't," yelled the driver. "The brakes have gone out."

"Well, then," the miser shouted back, "if you can't stop the cab, at least turn off the meter!"

Two men were hard at work on a construction job when a passer-by stopped to question them about what they were doing. "I'm making 25 dollars a day," mumbled the first worker. The second man, when asked the same question, answered: "I am building a cathedral!"

An hour later the second man was fired. He was supposed to be building a delicatessen.

When I taught school, I often suspected that parents helped their children with homework but I never realized the extent to which this help was given. Once I finished marking some papers and had them returned to the pupils. One youngster got a failing mark. He looked at his paper in astonishment, jumped up and hollered: "Holy Moses! Teacher just flunked my father."

For a mid-holiday treat, serve this West Indian curry dish with a fresh green salad and your favorite dessert. It's deliciously different.

YOUR FEET

DON'T LET THEM GET YOU DOWN

by Jack Anderson

Her feet hurt: the ancient Egyptian queen, Cleopatra, always kept specially trained slaves on hand to take care of her feet.

ot long ago, Vice-President Lyndon Johnson and his vivacious wife, "Lady Bird," placed an over-the-ocean phone call from Iceland to their podiatrist here. The first thing they wanted upon their return from overseas was an appointment. "Our feet are killing us!" they wailed.

Every day 100,000 Americans join the chorus as they limp into podiatrists' offices on corns, calluses, bunions, overlapping toes, ingrown toenails, warts and spurs.

President Kennedy's famous back ailment, according to his physician, may be related to a foot problem. Indeed, 20 per cent of all low back pain is traceable to feet. Ex-President Eisenhower is treated regularly by a podiatrist at Washington's Walter Reed Hospital for a bothersome callus which hampers his golf game. His wife, Mamie, receives treatment for toenail trouble.

Even Abraham Lincoln had a podiatrist. The Great Emancipator's pedal extremities bothered him so much that Dr. Isacher Zacharie became one of his most frequent callers and confidants, often carrying presidential messages to Union generals.

The human foot is an engineering marvel. Its 26 bones, bound together by 33 joints, 100 ligaments, 20 muscles and millions of muscle libers and blood vessels, take fantastic amounts of stress and strain. In an average lifetime, the feet walk 70,000 miles—nearly three times around the world.

Foot health affects all the rest of the body. Bad feet can cause bad posture, which in turn constricts body organs, causing indigestion, breathing difficulty and poor circulation. Sometimes conditions diagnosed as rheumatism, osteoarthritis or gout turn out to be the repercussions of foot trouble. And last but not least, sore feet can be the source of irritability and depression.

Although most people are aware of the importance of foot health, the majority limit foot care to a concern for appearance. They concentrate on foot glamour and neglect the very important bones, ligaments, tendons and muscles which determine to such a great extent their total well-being.

Foot beauty is easily achieved. In an hour, an ugly hammer toe or chronic corn can be surgically corrected. The podiatrist uses a local anesthetic, filing away a section of deformed bone, sometimes altering a ligament. Rarely will there be a scar. Cost: from $50 to $200.

Removal of disfiguring bunions costs more ($125 to $400), because the great toe affects the entire body's balance, and special post-operative care may be required. Surgery can also solve other foot defects, from overlapping toes to tailor's bunions (on the small toe).

Another technique for foot correction is prosthetics. A few years ago, a lady rumba band leader lost the front half of her foot in an accident. Dr. Abe Rubin, a Washington podiatrist, took an impression of her healthy foot and made a prosthetic of skin-tinted foam latex to duplicate her missing foot front. She now rumbas happily in cut-out dancing slippers.

But podiatrists caution their patients: "Foot health first, beauty later." Spike-heeled shoes, for instance, should be worn only for limited periods. Women who persist in wearing toohigh heels should get their shoes braced and taped to insure proper foot and back balance.

HOW TO AVOID FOOT TROUBLE

- KEEP YOUR FEET CLEAN. USE WARM, NOT HOT, WATER AND MILD SOAP.
- · DRY SKIN CAREFULLY, DON'T RUB HARD.
- APPLY LANGLIN, COCOA BUTTER OR OLIVE OIL TO LUBRICATE DRY SKIN.
- TRY TO AVOID INFECTIONS LIKE ATHLETE'S FOOT BY WEARING SLIPPERS AT SWIMMING POOLS, BATHHOUSES AND PUBLIC SHOWERS.
- DON'T TAKE IT UPON YOURSELF TO CUT CORNS OR INGROWN TOENAILS. HAVE A PODIATRIST DO IT.
- IN CASE OF BRUISES, BURNS, CUTS, CRACKS OR FROSTBITE, SEE A DOCTOR AT ONCE.
- DON'T "DOCTOR" YOUR FEET WITH STRONG MEDICATIONS. HAVE A PHYSICIAN PRESCRIBE FOR ANY ULCER OR SORE ON THE FOOT OR LEG.

Men's shoes should be comfortably roomy.

In general, the 75 known foot ailments are caused by improper shoes and lack of proper exercise. By walking only on flat surfaces—such as paved streets and sidewalks—the foot lacks the upportunity for exercise.

Much foot trouble can be avoided if a few basic rules are followed. (See box.) Children's feet should be checked regularly, because neglected foot troubles can prove disabling later.

A few years ago, a pigeon-toed, 4-year-old girl was brought to the podiatrist by her frantic mother. The child had difficulty in walking, tripped constantly. The podiatrist fitted specially designed elongated steel plates into the child's shoes. Her still-pliable feet were forced in the proper direction and the situation corrected in two years. More important, a scrious personality problem was avoided.

Nor should adults neglect persistent foot trouble. Serious body disease often is revealed through foot symptoms. Anemia, heart disease, diabetes, kidney ailments and gout may flash their lirst danger signals in the feet.

The science of foot care has come a long way since the days of the itinerant corn-cutters of 50 years ago. But there still is a need for greater awareness of just how important it is to keep feet in good walking—and good working—order.

Tippi Hedren: Alfred Hitchcock's answer to the need for mystery, grace and high style.

Tippi Hedren: CAN HOLLYWOOD STILL MAKE A STAR?

VER since Grace Kelly left Hollywood to marry Prince Rainier of Monaco, director Alfred Hitchcock, veteran master of the suspense film, has been searching for her successor.

For a while, Hitch, who goes for cool, thin, ladylike blondes—"I like subtle sex in my women" -thought he had found another Grace Kelly in an actress named Vera Miles. "But Vera went and got pregnant," he plaintively recalls, "just when I was ready to star her opposite Jimmy Stewart in Vertigo, so I had to replace her with Kim Novak. Then I thought I had Grace Kelly for my new film, Marnie, the story of a girl who's a compulsive thief, and Grace wanted very much to play it, but the conservative element in Monaco—they didn't want their princess working in Hollywood, so Grace bowed out."

To take her place in Marnie, Hitchcock is now starting production with a relatively inexperienced unknown—"Tippi" Hedren, a well-turned, green-eyed Minnesota blonde of 28 who made her film debut in his last picture. The Birds, and before that carned her living by acting in

In his long and lucrative directional career, multimillionaire Hitchcock—he made Psycho for $800,000, and to date it's earned $14,000,000, half of which goes to him—has boomed many an actress (Madeleine Carroll, Ingrid Bergman, Grace Kelly) to the top rung of screen stardom. He now believes he can do the same with Tippi (real name—Nathalie) Hedren.

He readily admits that Hollywood has been unable to make any new stars for the past 7 or 8 years, ever since TV became the primary entertainment medium of the nation, but he feels "reasonably sure" he can reverse the trend with his lovely novice.

WORD-OF-MOUTH PUBLICITY

"It's going to be tough," he concedes, "because I can't give her repeated exposure the way we did with young players years ago when studios were making 50 and 60 films a year. But what I plan to do is to promote Tippi in hig pictures, films of quality that compel attention.

"If I can get this girl to give outstanding performances in two or three films, so that we start a favorable word-of-mouth campaign, if I can build her up as a young actress of beauty, dignity and mystery, a gracious, high-style lady—someone like a young Grace Kelly, Myrna Loy, Irene Dunne, Greer Garson, Claudette Colbert, then I think we've got a chance of making a new star, hecause I think that's the type of star a hungry public wants, not the girl with the hig, bold, brazen, top-heavy front.

"The thing to do is to cleak Tippi with a veil of mystery, keep her out of the gossip columns. I don't want phony items planted about her such as 'Troy Donahue's new love is Tippi Hedren,' or 'Cary Grant's latest heartthrob is Tippi Hedren'—that's rot, and it's worthless. I want Tippi to get a publicity build-up away from the movie pages, and I want it to be gradual and dignified.

"We're getting her a new wardrobe. Alexandre, the hair stylist from Paris, has flown his assistant over here to re-da her hair. I'm trying to teach her a new taste in art and literature, because she's going to play a great variety of roles for me. I honestly think she's got what the public wants—subtle and wholesome sex. She's a female volcano whose lava is about to erupt."

Hitchcock says the first time he saw Tippi Hedren, she was advertising a breakfast commercial on Tv. The next day he saw her in the same commercial, phoned his agent and told him to sign the girl. "I was that sure," he says, "she had what it takes. I didn't even bother to interview her." Hitch's agent signed the girl to a 7-year contract, starting salary $500 a week.

PREFERS HITCH'S COMPANY

A well-bred, thin-faced young woman of 5-feet 4, 107 pounds, mature and perceptive, endowed with an extremely photogenic bone structure, she lives sedately in a three bedroom Sherman Oaks house with her child, scrupulously avoids the dating company of actors - she married one, Peter Griffith, in New York, and after seven years the marriage failed seemingly prefers the society of mentor Hitchcock. A patient, diplomatic task master. Hitch spends much of his time teaching her how to fill the demands of the exacting Marnie role, explaining and interpreting the script, bolstering her ego. constantly assuring her that in stardom she will find gold, goodness and glory.

If she doesn't quite believe that, Tippi Hedren is too tactful to say so. What she does say is, "I'm working for money. If Mr. Hitchcock can make me a star, more power to him. At this period in my life, I couldn't ask for a better accident."

Honest and forthright, this Tippi Hedren-also a ladv.

ore than 3 billion Christmas cards will jam the U. S. mails this month. The average family will send about 60, chosen from a whopping variety of 50,000.

Yuletide cards are designed for every relative imaginable—and for your boss, neighbor, clergyman, doctor, milkman and newsboy. One card says: MERRY CHRISTMAS FROM OUR DOG TO YOUR DOG!

The father of the American Christmas card industry was Louis Prang, a German immigrant lithographer who began producing holiday cards in Roxbury, Mass., in 1875. A woman employee suggested to Prang: Why not add the words "Merry Christmas" to the small floral cards? He did, and his business flourished.

Today, however, instead of being a pleasure, sending holiday cards is apt to be just one more time-consuming chore in an already overcrowded season. Because the burden is in danger of replacing the joy of card-sending, PARADE interviewed leading etiquette experts to find out their answers to the most commonly asked questions about Christmas cards:

Q. Must I send a Christmas card to everybody who sends one to me?

A. No. A Christmas card doesn't need a reply. It should be a spontaneous, friendly greeting.

Q. Should I send Christmas cards to my Jewish friends?

A. Do not send Christmas eards to Orthodox Jews. It is all right to send them to the overwhelming majority of American Jews. However, it is more thoughtful not to send cards which portray religious themes such as the Nativity, Holy Family and Christ Child.

Q. Whose name is written first—a husband's or a wife's?

A. It is courteous for the person who signs the card to write his or her name last. If a wife signs the card for herself and her husband, it should read, "Ed and Peggy" or "Ed and Peggy Smith."

Q. Whose name comes first when the names of husband and wife are printed or engrayed?

A. The wife's, generally.

Q. Should "Mr. and Mrs." or "Miss" be used in signatures?

A. No. Presumably you're sending Christmas cards to friends and don't need to refer to yourself as "Mr. and Mrs."; the abbreviation should also be omitted with formal or business acquaintances.

Q. When children's names are included, what is the correct form?

A. Family signatures always begin with the father's name: e.g., "Ed, Peggy and Jeff." If you have more than one child, you may sign your card: "Ed, Peggy, Jeff, Sue and Debbie (Smith)." Or "The Five Smiths—Ed, Peggy, Jeff, Sue and Debbie." Don't use the lazy term "and family."

CARDS? by JACK HARRISON POLLACK

- O. It is proper to write on Christmas cards? A. Yes-more and more people are doing so. Even if it is only a line, a simple, handwritten message always warms up your card.
- O. How shall I address a card if I know only the husband (or the wife)?
- A. Address it to both the husband and wife. Q. How should I address a card to a widow or divorcee?
- A. Use the first and last name she prefers.
- O. Are family photographs proper to send as Christmas cards?
- A. Yes, to close friends. Some will keep them as a record of your children's year-toyear development. But don't send your "family gallery" to casual acquaintances.
- O. Should Christmas eards be set sealed or unsealed?
- A. Sealed. First-class postage is especially important. Use the colorful new five-cent Christmas tree stamp. By spending five cents on postage, you may include written messages, and your cards are delivered quicker, will be forwarded or returned to you, if undelivered, without additional postage.
- O. Should I put my full name and address on the envelope, or does it look like a bid for a return card?
- A. It is both proper and practical to do so. This year the Post Office Department is especially anxious for you to include your ZIP Code number in your return address on your envelopes. Printed stickers of your name and address can also be used. Your return address not only ensures that your eards arrive but enables your friends to update their address book,

- O. Should I send a Christmas card to a friend with a recent death in the family?
- A. Yes. People don't shut off contacts with their friends during periods of mourning. Actually, there are special Christmas cards with messages of sympathy just for this purpose.
- O. Should a wife's name be included in her husband's business Christmas cards?
- A. Absolutely not! Keep business and personal lists separate! When business Christmas cards are sent, the company should send them, not a wife who isn't a member of the firm,
- Q, is there anything useful we can do with our Christmas cards after the holidays instead of throwing them away?
- A. For many years I have sent mine to the children's ward of my local Connecticut hospital. It gives the children pleasure to look at them and provides a plentiful, free supply of material for cutouts and paste-ups. So check with your local hospital before you throw yours away this year.

If you follow these suggestions, a Merry Christmas should be "in the cards" for you!

Latest wrinkle in Christmas cards are UNICEF cards, designed by artists from all over the world and printed in UN's five languages. These cards were started 13 years ago, now sell more than 30 million a year. Proceeds go to buy milk, medicine and health services for children in 116 nations.

ANECDOTE OF THE WEEK

■ Comedian Alan King was told that after a Command Performance in London he would meet Queen Elizabeth. For two days King very carefully practiced his greeting. "How do you do, Your Majesty. How do you do, Your Majesty. How do you do, Your Majesty." Hour after hour, he articulated the words in anticipation of meeting the Queen.

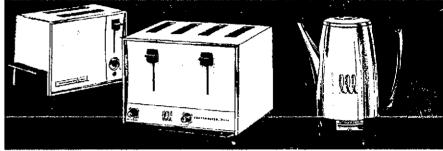

Came the big night and Her Majesty was introduced to the comedian. "How do you do, Mr. King," she said.

THE MOST ECONOMICAL LIBRARY-BUILDING SYSTEM EVER DEVISED: BOOK-DIVIDENDS

gested here will not only prove, by your own actual experience, how effectually membership in the Book-of the-Month Club can keep you from missing, through oversight or overbusyness, books you fully intend to read; it will also demonstrate another equally important advantage enjoyed by members: Book-Dividends. Through this unique profit-sharing system Book of the Month Club members can regularly receive valuable library volumes -at a small fraction of their price-simply by buying books they would buy anyway.

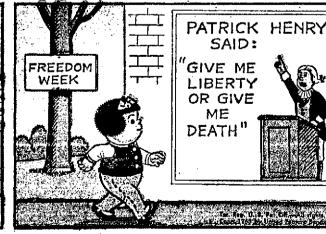

During this experimental membership and thereafter, if you continue, you will receive, with every Club choice you buy, a Book-Dividend Certificate. Each certificate together with a nominal sum, usually $1.00, can be redeemed for a valuable Book-Dividend which you may choose from a catalog of over a hundred fine library volumes whose publishers' retail prices now average $7. Since the inauguration of the Book-Dividend system, more than $280,000,000 worth of books (retail value) has been earned and received by Club members through this unique plan.

4 YANKS KIDNAPED BOLIVIAN REDS

I.A PAZ, Bolivia (A)-Antigovernment tin miners seized four Americans, a Dutchman and 16 Bolivian technicians Saturday and held them as hostages for the release of three Communist labor leaders accused of subversion.

Three of the Americans are U.S. government officials and the fourth is a Peace Corps volunteer.

State Department Press Officer Richard L Phillips in Washington identified the Americans as: Thomas M. Martin of New York, and Michael A. Kirstula, of Cadillac, Mich., both assistant information officers of the U.S. Information Agency; Bernard Rifkin, labor adviser from the U.S. Agency for International Development, and Robert Fergerstrom, Peace Corps volun-

In New York, Martin's father, Thomas M. Martin

Sr., said he received a letter from his son last week telling of his planned trip to the Catavi mine.

The father said Martin had been "in the mines before and he speaks very well with the miners."

The elder Martin said his son expected to return to the United States early next year. The father expressed confidence he would be reunited with his son in New York

MARTIN'S WIFE, Mariella, 27, and their 15-month-old daughter are in La Paz.

Rifkin's son, Erik, said at New Brunswick, N.J., that his father had been educational director for the United Auto Workers union in the northeastern United States before entering government service about two years ago.

Erik Riskin, a student at Rutgers University, said his mother also was in La Paz, the Bolivian capital.

Bolivian Foreign Affairs Minister Jose Fellman discussed the kidnaping with U.S. Ambassador Douglas Henderson, who just took his post in La Paz.

The Bolivian government assured Henderson that it would protect the Americans. But it was not clear immediately what steps the government would take.

The district attorney's office in La Paz demanded that those responsible for the kidnaping be prosecuted.

A formal charge would open the way for police action. But it was believed the government was reluctant to use force against the miners, headed by Bolivia's leftist vice president, Juan Lechin.

The tin mines have a history of bloody violence. Outbursts have occurred against foreign technicians at another mine that now is under government control. As the kidnaping became known, the Catavi miners'

DEATH ALLEY

Barrier Saves Lives

Death Alley is no more.

Chain link and cable between lanes on the infamous stretch of the Long Beach Freeway between the San Diego Freeway and Ninth Street is the barrier to death

No one has died on the former expressway of death since the fence was erected last summer.

Nine cars since have smashed into the barrier. And were halted from the lethal flight into the path of oncoming traffic.

FBI GATHERS SHELLS

Oswald Rifle Practice Told by Three Men

DALLAS, Tex. (4)-The owner of a public gun range said Saturday thre FBI had taken pounds of empty shells in an attempt to confirm that Lee Harvey Oswald had practiced shooting there as recently as five days before the assassination of President Kennedy.

Floyd Davis, owner of the Sportsdrome Gun Range near Grand Prairie, said neither he nor his wife, Virginia, ever had seen

Oswald at the range.

Eut there were three different people here at three different times who told us about seeing Os-wald," Davis said.

Asked how anyone could use the range without Davis knowledge, the owner led a reporter to the fenced-in area of shooting stands and indicated the end of a fence which permitted entry.

"ALSO, WE just opened Oct. 26 and things were fairly disorganized. One of the days a witness said he saw Oswald, I was conducting a turkey shoot and we had more than 200 people around here," Davis said. Davis said he received information from three different persons: a doctor's son, whose name he did not know; a man named Slack, and a man named Howard

Price, a machinist and gun expert, said, "I cannot tell you a thing. If the FBI says it is okay for me to talk, why then I'd be glad to tell you what I know. But up to then it is strictly classified."

DAVIS GAVE this rundown on the stories relating to Oswald being at the gun range:

On Nov. 9 or 10, he was noticed by the doctor's son who remarked upon the weapon and its sight. The doctor's son recalled after the Nov. 22 assassination that he had seen such a weapon as that found in the Texas School Book Depository, from where the fatal shots were fired.

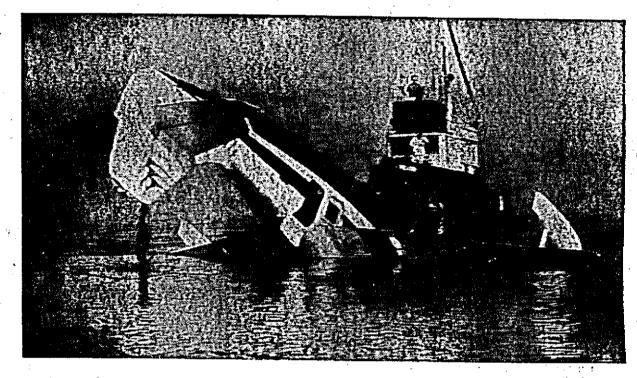

Price, Davis said, was at the range either Nov. 9 or 10, and remembers helping a fellow fix the sight on a 6.5-mm weapon of the same type which authorities later said was used in the assassination. Price says he was fascinated by the gun. According to Davis, Price said the man who had it was

Slack reportedly was at the range Nov. 17 and told Davis about a fellow who was shooting rapid fire at a target 100 yards distant. This was interesting to Slack, because on civilian ranges marksmen rarely practice rapid fire.

WATER BOOSTS OIL

Upland Wells Reap Benefits

The big water-injection program in the harbor section of the Wilmington oil field has sharply increased oil production from wells in the upland portion of the district.

Output rose by 759,019 Railroad Co., the upland barrels in 1962 from the unit operator in Faults previous year's figure, reaching a total of 7,118,810 barrels, City Auditor Murray T. Courson has reported.

The area covered by the auditor's summary consists of upland segments Fault Blocks-II, III and IV, all within the harbor district and north of Seaside Boule-

"ALL INCREASES in production are chiefly attributed to effects of waterflood stimulation," said the Courson report.

A comparable trend for secondary recovery in the tideland portion of the developed field has been revealed in earlier reports from the auditor.

In the upland section as well as the tidelands, the City of Long Beach benefited substantially through greater oil royalties. The city's participating interest in the uplands amounts to 10 percent in Block II 19 percent in Block III and 42.9 percent in Block IV.

Courson disclosed the production gain in a lengthy audit report on the accounts of the Union Pacific

NEW ORLEANS LAD-A Kennedy diplomat led the race for Democratic nomination as governor Satur-day night with a former governor and a freshman congressman jostling for the other spot in a probable runoff election.

delessens S. Morrison, 51, who resigned as ambassador to the Organization of American States (OAS) to make the race, was far out front by virtue of a big south Louisiana vote.

Robert F. Kennon, a former governor whose bitter anti-Kennedy campaign strategy was dropped after the President was assassinated, moved up to second place.

HOWEVER, Kennon and Rep. Gillis W. Long, 40, Lead of one faction of the politically potent Long family, were running almost neck and neck in early returns.

With 1,463 of 2,219 precincts reporting Morrison had 186,452 votes, McKeithen had 90,075 and Kennon had 90,001. Long was in fourth place with 79,728.

While Morrison domi-nated in South Louisiana, which has two-thirds of the state's vote, Kennon and arch-segregationist Shelby M. Jackson were the leaders in the north.

L.a.C. Says: Trained for Job

Author John Steinbeck, who undertook a tour of Communist countries at the personal request of the late President, told reporters that "no man has been so thoroughly trained for the presidency as Lyndon B. Johnson." We cannot agree with this assumption although we would in no way question the ability of President Johnson to handle the great responsibilities of his office.

If we are to accept experience as a criterion there is one man who has had a much greater training for that office. That man is Richard Nixon. There may be a question as to the comparative abilities of the two men. But for actual experience in the office-or problems surrounding it - Nixon was forced into acquiring that in 1955.

It will be recalled that in 1955 President Eisenhower was stricken with a severe heart attack. It was then Vice President Nixon quietly assumed responsibility for the President's office. He presided over cabinet meetings and the general executive responsibilities of the office. He was given great credit for the way he handled these many months of crisis. In particular, it was acknowledged he did so without attempting to take political advantage of the crisis.

* ** Both Vice President Johnson and Nixon were given great consideration and responsibilities by their presidents. Both men had served in both houses of Congress-and both men had received strong support for re-elections by the people of their respective states. In this respect the founders of our government showed their wisdom in the provision for succession in the office. But only Nixon and Johnson were given the opportunity of true experience in that executive office while vice presidents.

It will be assumed by some that this is written as an endorsement of Richard Nixon for the Republican nomination. It is not intended as such because it is too soon to decide which of the candidates should be nominated. But it is written to evaluate the situation as it appears at this time. A national poll, taken during the tragic week following the death of President Kennedy, indicated the following as voter attitudes at that time:

It showed the following in percentages: Johnson 55 percent, Nixon 45; Johnson 58, Goldwater 42, and Johnson 62, Rockefeller 38. It showed Johnson below the Kennedy poll of a month before in the East, about the same in the Midwest, much higher in the South and slightly lower in the Far West. The poll was taken at a time when emotionalism was very high. Support for the new President was believed to be higher than it may be when the many issues again become predominant.

Many Californians discount the Nixon national strength because of his defeat for governor in 1962. But it has long been apparent to the rest of the country that this was caused by a fight within the state's Republican Party. That split first came during the 1958 election when the party divided over the Knowland-Knight factions. In 1962 it was caused by the attitude of the Shell supporters who failed to join in all-out support of Nixon who defeated Shell in the primaries. California Republicans have defeated their own candidates by stupid factional fights and will continue to do so unless they grow up to political realities and party loyalty.

In the East and Midwest the memory is of the 1960 campaign when Nixon came within 118,500 votes out of 68 million cast-of being elected. This was a difference of only one fifth of one percent. These are reasons why there are questions raised as to Nixon's possibilities. But the important factor is that as to experience and training for the job, Steinbeck overlooked the fact that Nixon was the most experienced man in available for that office

Crooks' Jolliest Time Soon Here

By CHUCK CHEATHAM

Jolly old Saint Nick isn't the only big wheeler and dealer in December.

A host of less savory characters-embezzlers, shoplifters, burglars, robbers and con men-are apt, during this month, to visit the unwary and reverse

Santa's role by taking rather than giving.

Where the average person looks forward to relaxing during the holidays, police departments brace for the annual December crime wave.

They never are disappointed.

While all criminals are more active than usual, embezzlers really work overtime.

Embezzlers, according to Detective Inspectors C. C. Sullans, C. O. Bennett and W. D. Leslie of the Long Beach Police epartment bunco detail, are

Divert to their own use money or property en-trusted to them for a particular purpose by another

EMBEZZLERS RANGE from the sales clerk who pockets a few items or dollars to the trusted bookkeeper or cashier who steals thousands.

Not more than half the embezzlers are reported to the police department, the bunco detail estimates. "In many instances the victim is glad to recover all or part of his loss from the thief and doesn't report the theft to police," they said.

"However, the return of the stolen money or articles does not or should not prevent the successful prosecution and punishment of the embezzler," they point out.

In other instances, the detail said, the thief works on the sympathy of the victim and keeps him from reporting his loss to police or the victim doesn't want the publicity that would result from the filing of a crime report.

Every year the number of embezzlers and the amount taken increases, the bunco detail's figures

In 1962 in Long Beach $84,901 was embezzied in the 59 incidents reported to the bunco detail. So far in 1963 in 67 reported instances the vic-tims lost $176,627.

The penalty for embezzlement is severe. When the amount stolen is over $200 the embezzlers face up to 10 years in prison when they are convicted of grand theft embezzlement.

IF CONVICTED OF TAKING under $200, petty theft embezzlement, they can be sentenced to a fine of $500 and or six months in jal.

The bunco detail does not believe that embezzlements can be completely prevented.

But they hold the amounts exclusive.

But, they hold, the amounts stolen can be sharply reduced. They suggest that dual signatures be required on all business checks.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Legislative Day

WASHINGTON (UPI)-The House met for only two minutes Saturday but the session was long enough for the purposes of those trying to pry the civil-rights bill from the House Rules Committee.

. The legislation would seek to eliminate racial discrimination in the areas of employment, public accommodations, education, voting and federal financial assistance to the states.

The Senate is not expected to take up the measure until after the House completes action on it, probably after

Train Kills II in Auto

MIDLAND CITY, Ala. CP-A grinding car-train smash killed 11 members of a Midland City family Saturday, in one of the state's worst traffic tragedies in years. A 1-yearold girl was the only survivor.

The child, Margaret Ann Langford, suffered head injuries and was in serious condition at a nearby Dothan, Ala. hospital

Those found dead at the scene were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Henry Langford; their children, Ray Allen, 10, and Jeannie, 6; their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Kenneth Langford and three of her children, Henry Allen, 3, Vernelle and Judy Carol, and a second daughter-in-law, Mrs. Thomas Langford, Margaret Ann's mother.

Another of their sons, Donald, 18, and Mrs. Kenneth Langford's daughter, Shirley Ann, 7, died about three hours after the wreck in a Dothan hospital.

Did K Call Mao a Wornout Galosh?

LONDON (UPI)-A Communist Chinese magazine said Saturday that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev once called Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung a "wornout galosh" that should be discarded.

The disclosure, in the official English-language Peking Review, underscored the strong personal animosity be-tween the two Communist leaders stemming from the Moscow-Peking political and idealogical quarrel.

The Peking Review said Khrushchev attacked Mao at the banquet of the Political Consultative Conference of the Warsaw Treaty signatories on Feb. 4, 1960, nearly four years before the party dispute burst into the open.

Nixon's Bar Essay Called 'Finest'

NEW YORK (P)—An essay written by former Vice President Richard M. Nixon for admission to the New York bar is described by a veteran court official as the finest he has read in 28 years.

Nixon, who moved here from California last June, was required like other applicants to write on "What do you believe the principles underlying the form of government of the United States to be?"

Lowell C. Wadmond, chairman of the Appellate Division's Committee on Character and Fitness, described the essay as the finest he had seen in his 23 years on the committee.

GIANT CARD, about the size of a large briefcase, was mailed to Santa Claus by first graders at Jane Addams Elementary School. Card is among hundreds of letters received by Long Beach Post Office for delivery to North Pole. All will be answered, postal authorities quote Santa as saving.

North Pole 99701

But even that request hasn't stopped Santa's letters at the local post office. Some have arrived without any postage. Some have arrived with mom's trading stamps plastered on the envelope. All have been handled.

One confused tyke addressed his letter: "Santa Clause, North Pole, U.S.A.," and then pen-ciled, "I guess."

In a peek at the let-ters with Santa's permission of course, The Independent, Press-Telegram found that the little men and little women stressed their good behaviour before launching into lengthy lists of what they wanted.

"I've been a very, very good girl," one tot wrote in a typical example,

Another scribbled: "I have been a good girl. I don't wet my bed. I don't wet my pants."

One child was certainly a model. "I have been a good boy," he told St. Nick. "I help my mommy—eat my food — say my prayers — sleep good and listen to my mommy and daddu." and daddy."

L.B. Hospitals Try to Tighten Reins, but Babies Still Saddled With Horsey Names

No wonder babies cry at birth, especially those who are saddled with names more suitable for race track mags.

A Norwalk mother admitted to The Independent, Press-Telegram she fished the comic strips for names of her children.

A Mr. and Mrs. Bear of San Diego tagged their son Teddy. Another couple — Lier is the last name — labeled their daughter Chanda, Fortunately, the child has the prospect of a name transfusion with marriage.

Colorful Redondo Beach public relations man Day V. Jones has had to put up with a lot of jokes.

A LONG Beach doctor, reports Community Hospital makes it a practice to check the name first with the expectant parents and attempting to dissuade them if it is of the race horse variety. Nevertheless, a Texas

couple named Hogg did name their unfortunate daughter Ima

At Long Beach Memorial Hospital, where the roster of an average 230 new babies is drawn up each month, nurse Ola Seitz reported that religion helps keep the oddball names in the starting gate. For example, Catholics generally name their children after saints and orthodox Jews after deceased relatives.

NURSE Mildred Mc-Gonzgle in Community Hospital said historic events light up the idea bulbs langing over parents-to-be.

Movie stars also light up the bulb as many present day Shirleys (not dimpled like Temple) and Lanas (from the Turner haydays) can confirm.

However, Liz Taylor drawn a blank in local hospitals. And, for that matter, no Castro has passed out cigars for naming his heir Fidel

Both nurses said that one common problem is for parents to heave out a pre-selected name once they've looked up its meaning in the hospital same-suggestion pamph-

 FEW KNOW that Cecil means dim-sighted and Claude is lame.

Then, they change to names that mean the Lord's Anointed or some-thing like that," a hospital spokesman dryly

At Community, where more than 100 babies are born a month, Nurse Mc-Gonagle said in-laws frequently battle with parents over a name.

"And when it comes down to a verbal tug-ofwar between the new father and mother, mom tries to please pop," she

One difficulty at Menorial, according to Mrs. Seitz, is the mother whose serviceman husband is overseas and no name has been selected.

"In many cases," she said, "the mother tells me. 'I know he won't like it, but I'm going to name my baby after my husband anyway." The same hospital reports that many parents methodically stamp their kids with first names starting with the same letters of the alphabet such as Andy, Anne, and Arnold, A trio of children

you have the ABC's.
IN TWINS, one trend is sound-alike like Robert and Robin, However, some "rebels" go for complete contrast like John and George.

It is not uncommon for new parent to run a tinger - eyes closed down a name list, say the hospital aids. But that still doesn't stop them from rejecting the first name, and going on with the name game.

For those with a particular name-giving problem at Community Hospital, the nurse first offers a pamphlet listing 799 names.

if that doesn't work, mom and dad are given a paperback book with 2,500 names

Should that lead to a crisis, the nurses then lugs out a huge handcover book. Number of names:

The city had asked "pretty girls with a sense of civic responsibility" to show up at Municipal Auditorium Saturday to volunteer their charms.

A judging panel of newsmen, headed by Chairman Ralph Hinman Jr., assistant city editor of The Independent, selected shapely Pam Randolph as queen of the unique "patriotic" contest_

Pam is 21, has blue eyes and red hair and measures 36-25-36. She will be the cover girl of the January edition of Holiday by the Sea, a magazine devoted to vacation and recreation on the West Coast

But all of the girls are winners said Bob Lichtenham, manager of the Convention and Visitors Bureau, explaining that the others will appear in publicity pictures for the city later.

Among the other girls who caught the eyes of the idges were Doris Morgan, 20; Donna Nell Ewing, 22; and Penny Pemberton

HE GOES OUT OF HIS WAY TO SAVE AT COMMUNITY

(because we go out of our way for him)

Like the rest of our South American customers, this Brazilian rancher is going out of his way to save at Community. Seven thousand miles, to be exact! First he rides 14 miles to his village post office. then mails his savings 6986 miles to Compton, California. Why? Because he knows that Community has been paying higher earnings for 35 years, that it has never missed an interest payment and that his money is insured by an instrumentality of the U.S. Government. He also knows that his interest checks will arrive promptly four times a year and that he will earn dally Interest. His savings earn from the day they are mailed if they remain thru the end of the quarter. Savers in 37 other countries feel the same way...that it's worth their while to send their money over long distances to Community Savings. If you're within driving distance of any of our offices, even greater service is yours ...the personal kind. Drive in and see!

End of the 'Grey Ghost'

Demolition of the "Grey Ghost" - the old Wise Building at Broadway and Pine Ave. - will begin Monday and its reconstruction into a new United California Bank Bldg. is scheduled for completion by mid-1965,

Frank L. King, chairman of the board of UCB, announced plans for the structure at a meeting of bank representatives, city officials and Long Beach businessmen at a meeting at the Long Beach Yacht

Currently, the Long Beach main office of UCB is located at 129 E. Broadway, When the new structure is completed offices will be moved to the first floor and basement of the reconstructed building and upper floors will be available for general office tenancy.

THE OLD Wise Building, a long-vacant fivestory department store building actually is two separate structures. Plans call for complete demolition and removal of the eastern half of the twin building. On this half, the bank will erect a five-level parking garage.

The corner buildingthe western half-will be skinned down to columns. beams and slab and this skeleton will be reconstructed from the basement up.

The exterior, as reconstructed, will have duranodic aluminum window! walls and will be of mod-; ern design. All new interior ceilings will have recessed lighting fixtures. Three electronically controled automatic elevators will be installed and the entire building will be air conditioned, according to Kenneth S. Wing, F.A.LA. architect for the project.

THE UCB purchased the building with a frontage of 150 feet on Pine Avenue and 150 feet on Broadway for a reported $650,-000, in September,

According to King, the bank's confidence in the future of downtown Long Beach is evidenced by its plan to spend approxi-mately $2.5 million in reconstruction of the building long an eyesore in the downtown business The UCB has a second

ROBINSON REID, vice president and manager of the Long Beach Main Office of UCB, who opened the office of the bank in Long Beach 16 years ago, seconded King's comments on the prospects for downtown Long Beach.

"I have tremendous confidence in the area," he said, "and am very gratified that we could take this step."

Reid is vice president of the Board of Harbor Commissioners, on the Board of Memorial Hospital and has held numerous other civic posts, including chairmanship of the Community Chest

THE OLD WISE BUILDING (left) will stop haunting downtown Long Beach starting Monday when demolition begins. The eyesore will be replaced by the modern United California Bank Building (sketch above). Completion of the new structure is scheduled for the middle of 1965.

She redeemed her pledge this fall, and the other day received a letter from Constable Prichard. He explained that he had handed the Flag over to the Betwsy-Coed Urban District Council, and that it will be displayed at various functions as a token of friendship for the United States.

His letter concluded:

"On behalf of myself and he residents of Betws-y-Coed, we wish to express our deepest sympathy at the tragic death of your President Kennedy. We were all deeply shocked, and feel very strongly for the American people, especially the wife and children."

This is one of many such expressions from foreign Asia, that have been relayed to this dept. by local people. They add up to a heartening demonstration of friendship for the U.S. peo-ple and of admiration for the late President.

EDITORIAL Questions About Slaying of JFK

AMERICANS WANT to know everything they can about how their President was slain and why. A special commission headed by the chief fustice of the United States is now at work, trying to fit the pieces of the puzzle together. Here are some of the questions which mag at the mind and which the commission no doubt will try to answer:

Was the killing of the President the act of an Individual, or was it the work of organized conspirators?

Was it just a horrible coincidence that the building in which Oswald got a job offered an excellent vantage point over a route later to be used by the President?

Did Oswald's employers in the building know his background?

Why wasn't a person with a record such as Oswald's kept under surveillance during the visit of the President to Dallas-especially since the presidential parade route ran right past the building where Oswald was employed?

Following the shooting, why was Oswald permitted to leave the building merely because it was confirmed that he worked there?

Is the report true that Oswald also shot at Gen. Edwin Walker, one of the country's most prominent right-wing leaders?

What would be Oswald's possible motives in selecting the President and a prominent right-wing leader as targets for his rifle fire? What, in detail, did Oswald do during his trips to Mexico? Mere did he get the money to sponsor those DREW PEARSON

What were Oswald's relationships with Russia and Cuba? If the Russians considered Oswald a spy, as they now charge, why did they permit him to move freely in their country and to leave Russia with a minimum of red tape?

out of the Soviet Union so easily, when others have had so much trouble?

The Secret Service has been praised highly for its conduct in Dallas, but is there any evidence to suggest that the Secret Service was in any way Why wasn't the famous "bubble top" in place the presidential car?

Was it the President's own idea to ride without the bubble in place?

Did Oswald live near his own slayer, Ruby, and was Oswald once seen in Ruby's night club, and if were these things merely coincidences? Was there any possible link between Oswald and Ruby?

Some are probably impossible to the operator interrupted for answer and can merely be the subject of intelligent speculation. Our readers no doubt can think of many other questions deserving investigation. The act of posing the questions shows how much there is, despite everything that has been written, yet to be told about the strange slayings of John F. Kennedy and Lee Harvey Oswald.

The public tooks to the special commission for a thorough and comprehensive report.

If happens to be a fairly difficult question to an L happen to have seen the new President on numerous occasions, some of them formal, some of them informal, but I'd hesitate to say I knew what he is really like. I sometimes wonder whether Lady Bird knows.

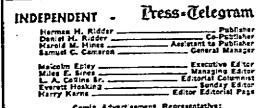

JOHNSON IS NOT AN EASY MAN to characterize. There are certain facets of his character which lie brightly on the surface - he is intelligent, shrewd, an operator rather than a thinker, a man of compulsive action, vain, generous, tough, a horse-trader, self-centered, kind, demanding, unsophisticated and homey.

He lacks the sparkle, the wit and the all-embracing curiosity possessed by his predecessor. Johnson has a kind of eloquence, but it is of an entirely different nature from that of Kennedy. Where Kennedy was interested in an idea for the sake of an idea, Johnson would be interested only if he saw some practical use for the idea.

Kennedy always managed to give the impression that he came by his convictions through the rational processes of the mind. Johnson on the other hand gives the impression that his convictions were born in the heart. Let no one mistake, for instance, the depth and the sincerity of his beliefs in civil rights.

Johnson is a mature (in many ways he seems older than he is) man of good judgment. His judgment sometimes seems to fall apart when it comes to people for he has not always associated himself with persons whose interests were solely for the public weal.

Long Beach Congressman Craig Hosmer, at home this weekend, says he is considering introduction of legislation which will improve the succession situation.

"McCORMACK and Hayden appear to be somewhat resentful of the concern expressed over the present arrangement," Hosmer said. "They seem to be taking it as personal attack. At the next election the interim vice president could resume his seat or, at his option, could run for election on his own before the nation's voters for the presidency or vice presidency.

San Diego Freeway Strip Due to Open in January SOUTHLAND PROGRESS

OVEMBER RAINS delayed scheduled December opening of a 1.6-mile strip of the San Diego Freeway from the Long Beach Freeway to California Avenue; and plans now call for official opening of the eight-lane stretch in late January. This aerial photo, looking southeast, shows San Diego Freeway crossing over north and south Long Beach Freeway just west of Los Angeles River Flood Control Channel. Cost of the new freeway strip is $7,- 819,858. Milton C. Stark, district information officer, Division of Highways, Los Angeles, said ribbon-cutting ceremonies were being arranged in cooperation with the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce. Although the contract included paving to California Avenue, traffic at the Long Beach end of the San Diego Freeway completed to date will enter or leave it at Atlantic Avenue. Work is under way on extensions into Orange County.

ment, the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York has

In its bimonthly report, the bank noted these and other findings from responses to a questionnaire sent to 460 conomists teaching in colleges and universities throughout the United States.

GENERAL CONCLUSIONS were these:

"(I) College and university economists worry primarily about inadequate growth and unemployment, and to a lesser degree about the continuing U.S. international payments deficits;

"(2) They give overwhelm-ing support to a federal tax

"(3) They favor letting free market forces, coupled with appropriate monetary and fiscal policies, play a greater role in running the economy.

In answer to the question about the most pressing economic problem now facing the U. S., 36% said inade-quate growth; 32% said unemployment, and 19% mentioned the balance of payments deficit.

"MANY of the respondents also commented that in their epinion slow growth and unemployment are simply dif-ferent, though thoroughly angled, aspects of the same knotty problem," the report said. 'Thus, they think steps taken toward straightening out one difficulty will go a long way toward easing the

To counteract inadequate growth, almost 65% advocated a tax cut, or changes in the tax structure, or some combination of the two.

"Only 9% subscribe to the notion that increased federal spending is the best possible way of promoting the growth objective," the report added.

Showcase Homes Ready by Holiday

Holiday occupancy of Showcase Home in Westminster is offered by builder William Krueger. These one and two-story homes feature an oversize firepiace which lends itself to imaginative holiday decorating.

A growing room is the most popular feature of split-level plans at Showcase Homes. This enables homebuyers to have as many as six bedrooms and three baths with an oversize two-car garage, Krueger also offers three plans for finishing the growing room by the homebuyer or a builderfinished option. This spacious area can also be used as a large family activity center.

PRICED FROM $19,995 and requiring $395 down, the dwellings come in 18 elevations. All electric kitchens have deluxe built-in range, oven, automatic dishwasher and garbage disposer. Ceramic tile is installed here and a convenient breakfast bar for serving into the spacious family room.

Wali-to-wall carpeting is used throughout the home and marble pullman and ceramic tile baths are featured. Slate or stone entry halls are an added nicety.

The only electrically modern homes... in eyery price range

The Medalion Home Award is a cornersfone for modern living-a solid basis for a home's lasting value, today and In the future. Compare the detailed electrical construction requirements for the Medaillon Home Award with those for any other type of new home symbol.

You'll discover the Medallion Home Award Is the one award that requires a new home to conform to specific and rigid standards, giving important value to the buyer. Here are just some of the qualifications:

- 1. A flameless electric kitchen equipped with major appliances, including range and oven.
- 2. Full "Housepower" Wiring provides capacity for at least twenty circuits, considered a minimum for modern living; large enough wires; 240 volt service for the electrical capacity every home needs.
- 3. Abundant lighting planned for comfort, conven-Tence and beauty. A total-electric Gold Medallion Home gives you all these benefits plus:
- 4. Flameless electric home and water heating.

The second he touches his toe to the accelerator, his amazement will begin. For no previous Cadillac ever mored like this one! At 10 miles an hour, the most powerful engine in Cadillac history will already be working its unmistakable magic.

By 20 that great Cadillac transmissionthe newly improved Hydra-Matie or the completely new Turbo Hydra-Matic-will reveal a smooth, flawless kind of action has never felt in any motor car before.

And by 30 the whole splendor of this new Cadillac performance will begin to unfold. New response. New quietness. New balance and poise. New alertness.

At 40 or 50, the car will have so much added acceleration that passing will be incredibly easy-with an extra margin of safety he's never known before.

And even at the full legal limit, this new Cadillan car will be so incredibly steady and quiet that the only sensation of motion and sound will come from the passing scenery. And then, he will take restful note of the other great new Cadillac virtues-the extraordinary huxury of Comfort Control ... the magnificent comfort of the new contoured seats...the marvelous roominess and convenkence that come only with the "car of cars".

The blow went under the face mask and split Adder-ley's knuckles. But it was square on target.

Adderley revealed that he had been feuding with Phil-lips for a long time. "Every time he runs down field, he gives me an elbow."

Phillips was reluciant to comment, but denied kicking Adderley. "He was cursing at me on the sideline. I couldn't understand exactly what he said. Then he swung at me. I couldn't believe it when the referee kicked me out."

WHILE THE silver belt went to Adderley, game laurels for the Packers were divided among Starr, McGee and Jim Taylor.

Starr shredded the Ram secondary for 14-of-26 completions for 205 yards. McGee caught 7 including the 3 payoff pitches. Taylor rumbled for 113 yards in 17 carries and looked as shifty as Dee Andrews on a 40-yard touchdown jaunt.

Bill Forester, subbing for Ray Nitschke at middle linebacker, and end Willie Davis were stars of a hard-charging Packer defense which threw Gabriel six times for 59 backward yards. Bill Munson, the Rams new quarterback aspirant, watched the game from the press box and must have thought, "Utah State never was like this?"

For one half, at least, Gabtiel and his Rams clearly outplayed the world champions.

GREEN BAY opened the scoring at 10:37 of the first quarter on a 25-yard pass from Starr to McGee. The gangling receiver hooked away from Bobby Smith for the catch on the Ram 4 and dragged Smith over the goal. The Packers had moved from their own 42 in five plays aided by a 20-yard run by Starr.

2. There are no mightier rams than the Rocky Mountain Bighorns which live on the rugged slopes of Utah. A peaceful animal, it can fight with fury when aroused over a lover or enemy. In pursuit, it propels its large body gracefully down nearly vertical inclines in 20-foot bounds. Its horns are massive and borne proudly.

For a man who majored in high finance in college, Merlin, isn't there an easier way to make a living than playing de-fensive tackle in professional football?

"Yes there probably is. I usually feel this way every Monday morning when I roll out of bed and count my toes and inspect my body for broken bones. But I enjoy the game and it is a stepping stone for other things."

What other things?

"I hope to go into business. The reputation you can make from being successful in athletics and the persons you are able to meet are healthy advantages to that kind of career."

Now that you are at the close of your second season, has pro football lived up to your expectations?

"Yes. The only disappointment was that we couldn't do better as a team last year. There are lots of disappointments to a losing season. It is very difficult to adjust to losing. This year, we're greatly improved and consequently I am enjoying the game a great deal more."

What do you think about when you wait at the line of scrimmage for a play to begin?

... Before or as you prepare to line up. you try to analyze the situation, the down and distance, the territory, do they have a drive going. You learn to feel these things instinctively. Once you are down on the line, the situation is one of actual perception rather than thought. If you have to think, you aren't going to do well. Everything is geared to reaction."

In the positive thinking course the Rams received, you were told always to have warm regard for your opponent. Do

"I've never felt any malice or direct anger toward an opponent. Sometimes when you run into a fist, it's not easy not to get angry. But I've never come off the field hating anyone or thinking about getting even with someone."

Have you been surprised at the success of your road roommate, Roman Gabriel?

"Not really surprised, just pleased. I always had great regard for Gabe. I always knew that all he needed was only a chance to prove he could be a great quar-terback. He is going to be the greatest."

You played at Utah State with Bill Munson, the Rams' No. I draft choice. What are his chances?

"When I was there, he was only a sophomore. He was good then and I heard he had a tremendous season this year. He's a fine passer, a good field general and a fine young man. I think he'll do a good job for the Rams."

Why do you prefer living in Logan, Utah, to living in Southern California?

"That's a hard question. My wife, Shirley, stays here with me during the season, but we go home after the season. I am going to finish work for a master's degree in economics at Utah State. Then it is always hard to leave home and friends. But each year, we are meeting more fine people here and things are becoming more like home."

Are the Rams really on the rise? "I've felt all along and kept saying and telling myself that we have the nucleus of a good team and would jell some day. It was a lonely vigil for a long time. Now I'm sticking to my guns. We've finally arrived. We're not a great team. That will take a long time. But we are be-coming a sound team. We're developing and improving with each game we win. Maybe some day we're going to win every

NFL Not 'Scared'—Just Cautious

As late as a week ago, it would have been difficult to imagine the all-powerful National Football League "running scared" of the rival AFL.

However, several top observers insist that this is the implication to be drawn from the NFL's marathon draft session which tasted almost 22 hours.

The NFL teams were afraid to risk a high draft choice without first getting reasonable assurance from the players that they would consider all offers before signing with the AFL clubs that had drafted them two days earlier.

It was more than "running scared," however. As one NFL source points out, "it was just good business."

One of the slimmest talent pools in a decade was the reason why the NFL clubs were so careful with their top selections. As it has been pointed out, it took 8 hours and 8 minutes to complete the first

Because of the slim pickings, the NFL switched tactics in competing for talent. In past years, the tendency was to draft normally, bid up to a certain

PETE BEATHARD 'Exhorbitant' Contract ' figure and then, if unsuccessful, let the AFL pick up the tab for fat contracts. The NFL has lost several players it would liked to have had, but allegedly figured this strategy would pay off in the long run because it would hurt the upstart new league where it always hurts the most-in the pocket-

The AFL dropped $10 million in its first three years of operation and despite "better business" than ever Casinelli of Memphis State. The Falcons immediately actotal around another $1 million.

THE LENGTH OF THE DRAFT—particularly the first round-will be discussed at the annual NFL meeting in Miami next month. New ground rules undoubtedly will be set up to prevent taking so long in the future. After the first round, the NFL draft moved rather quickly. The other 266 players were chosen in 12 hours and 17 minutes.

The American League, meanwhile, didn't set any speed records. It took the younger circuit 10 hours to pick only 160 players.

So, the NFL wasn't exactly running scared-just

The one NFL club that "gambled" on the first round promptly got burned. That team, of course, was the Detroit Lions, who selected USC's Pete Beathard despite the fact it was common knowledge that the Kansas City Chiefs of the AFL had the inside track on his services because of "old family ties" with Don Klosterman, the Chiefs' talent scout.

THE LIONS, NEVERTHELESS, made every effort to sign Beathard. Detroit general manager Edwin J. Anderson already was on his way by plane to Los Angeles to meet with Beathard before the first round was conciuded.

In an unprecedented move, Norm Van Brocklin, coach of the Minnesota Vikings, even talked by long-distance telephone to Beathard on behalf of the Lions as Anderson was winging his way to Southern California.

William Clay Ford, owner of the Lions, admitted it was strictly a gamble in choosing Beathard . . . but blasted Kansas City's bid as "exhorbitant and unrealistic. As far as we're concerned, it's good riddance at those

According to Ford, Kansas City owner, Texas oil millionaire Lamar Hunt, beat out the Lions with a fantastic contract that will give Beathard (1) a bonus in excess of $15,000 for signing. (2) a new car, (3) a no-cut contract calling for more than $20,000 a year, (4) a paidup life insurance policy for his wife and child, (5) option on shares of stock in a pay-IV corporation, cost of which reportedly will be financed by Hunt, and (6) free rent in Kansas City for him and his family for an unspecified

THE 49ERS ARE THE ONES who threw the first monkey wrench into the NFL draft machinery with a surprise move that caught everyone unprepared. They used their No. I pick to select Dave Parks, Texas Tech

He is the first end drafted No. 1 in the NFL since Leon Hart was taken by Detroit in 1950.

Parks was rated highly by everyone because of his great speed. He has been clocked in 4.5 seconds for 40 yards in football gear. His coach at Texas Tech says see him in a game and he's all over the field, but you don't fully realize his true greatness until you check the movies and see all the things he does." The selection was unexpected because the 49ers (1) already had picked Oregon State's great end, Vern Burke, as a "future" a year ago, and (2) everyone figured they would take quarterback George Mira of Miami U.

THE DALLAS COWBOYS already had committments from Parks as well as from Charles Taylor, Arizona State back who was picked third by Washington. That's why it took them 2 hours and 39 minutes to come up with another choice-Scott Appleton, Texas tackle.

The only real long delay after the first round came on the 49ers' selection that led off the second round. San Francisco officials talked with Mira by telephone in Miami before choosing him. Mira later indicated he would sign with the 49ers but admitted that he "was disappointed about not being No. I after being told that I would be the first pick. I guess things changed. Anyway, before the 49ers drafted me. I had a long talk with them and we got things worked out between us. However, I won't be able to come to any terms until after my last game."

RELATIONS PROGRAM

The other day, a customer who had purchased a new 1962 Mercury from Duffield's almost two years ago came in and skeptically told us about seeing our Customer Relations ad in the Sunday L. P.T. We had taken care of several small incidentals at the time of purchase and the customer had been in two or three times. One item on the complaint list at the time of sale had never been fixed. The frunk leaked and stained the frunk mat causing a stale adar. We re-placed the mat at no cost to the customer. This customer had not been in for a year and a half, but now will probably buy from Duffield again. If you , have a problem, see or call Al Shaw.

Great Improvement for Temple Bar

Here's the best news Lake Mead fishermen have had for months: The physical properties and lease at Temple Bar have been bought by a dozen Long Beach men and the rehabilitation of that landing will be started immediately with new docks, slips, launching ramp, motel and trailer park.

It will be known as Temple Bar Marina, Inc. This Is no idle gesture on the part of the Long Beach men, ail prominent in various businesses. They have had the plan in mind for sometime, but the government was unable to break the lease with the former owners.

A court in Phoenix ordered the sale on Dec. 2 and the Long Beach men immediately started on plans that had been drawn up.

Those plans call for the construction of a marina with 120 slips, a wide concrete launching ramp, a trailer park that will take care of 100 units, 30 new motel units, all air-conditioned, enlargement and improvement of the restaurant, new fuel docks and new aluminum boats and new outboards.

Oddly enough, 10 of the 12 men are members of the Southern California Tuna Club, yet the corporation has nothing to do with the SCTC. The Tuna Club each Year has a campout 20 miles from Temple Bar. As many as 80 men have attended the five-day camp. Numbers of the club have not liked what they saw at Temple Bar. Ten decided that something should be done and this is the start.

WALTER (WALT) HOFFMAN is president of the corporation; Herbert Murphy, first vice president; Arthur N. (Art) Macrate, second vice president; J. S. (Jim) Kuster, secretary, and J. W. (Jim) Wood, treasurer. Other members of the corporation are William F. (Bill) Macrate. Ansol Murphy, Carter Livingston, Harvey Kuster, Carter Boswell, Dick Browning and Harrison Moore. Temple Bar is not the closest launching place on Lake Mead, but it certainly does have the best fishing. Water-skiers prefer those marinas closer to Hoover Dam and that is good for both themselves and the fishermen. I have watched the dilapidation of Temple Bar for several seasons as it became worse and worse, but for obvious reasons I could not accuse any individual in public print. I know that it will be a herculean task to put Temple Bar in top-notch shape. I know each of the corporation directors personally and they'll get an excellent job done as quickly as possible.

The reconditioning of the marina and the surround-ing property does not mean that the average fishermen. or camper, will not be just as welcome as the owner of a large yacht.

It will be a fisherman's landing primarily, with better accommodations, better service, better food. Mac Miller, a veteran of the Lake Mead country and a man with much energy and drive, is the acting manager.

TWO GREAT HORNED OWLS supplied by the Ohio Division of Wildlife have a job to do for the Air Force. They are being employed to keep flocks of pigeons and sparrows from roosting in the B47 jet bomber maintenance hangers at the Air Force's Lockbourne Base near

The Air Force officials hope that it will save thousands of man hours in cleaning hanger floors and air-craft each month. The owls had to be caged in the roof until they became acclimatized.

Gosh, one of those owls might be the answer to several hundred sparrows that use the magnolia trees in front of our house!

A sailing photography contest will be held in conjunction with the second annual International Sailboat and Yacht Show Jan. 3-12 in the Long Beach Arena. A $50 top prize will be awarded and the competing photos will be exhibited in the rotunds of the Arens.

Pictures must be of sailboats or related sailing activities and will be judged for beauty, composition and interest. Pictures become the property of the show.

All entries should be 8x10 inches or larger, and should be mailed to International Sailboat and Yacht Show, 3363 Lime Ave., Long Beach 7. For further information call GArfield 4-0336.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS — There's a major change in archery—a square target instead of the conventional round one used for many years. There are eight different sizes of the Precision-Pak backstop and the targets are being manufactured at Pico Rivera by Western Wood. The targets are made with wood fiber mats, compressed, bound with twine and then covered with burlap and the target material. Famed archer Howard Hill calls the target the toughest ever manufactured. More than one million arrows were shot into the targets by professional archers at Enchanted Forest in July and all the targets held up well.

The Southern Council of Conservation Clubs likes John Lowery and the way he gets things done. He has been elected for the second two-year term as president. Other officers are M. W. Doornbos, vice president; Del Schell, executive secretary, and Leroy Nichols, treasurer. They and the directors will be installed at a meeting

Tommy Jacobs, defending tourney champion, shot into the lead with a 66 Saturday in the second round of the $8,000 Montebello Open golf tournament.

Jacobs, pro for the Bermuda Dunes Country Club in Palm Desert, bogeyed the second hole of the Montebello golf course, but then came up with seven birdies for his six-under par score.

Jacobs enters the final round of the 54-hole tourney today with a two-stroke lead over four golfers.

GIVE WITH CONFIDENCE!

When You Give a Gift From Sears You Also Give Sears Promise of "Satisfaction Guaranteed or Your Money Back" Honored in Any of These 50 United States.

PACKAGES, PANDEMONIUM . . . crowds and confusion. That's the plight of busy housewife-clubwoman Mrs. Marz vin Garvin, who—along with a hundred thousand other shoppers. shoppers-is currently caught up in the biggest Christmas gift-buying spree in Long Beach history.

WHILE SANTA holds his sides chuckling ho, ho, ho . . thousands of local shoppers are rubbing their feet mosning oh, o-h, O-H!

With the Thanksgiving turkey just a few gobbles away, they realize suddenly it's too late to do their Christmas shopping early. And so ... with only 14 shopping days left ...

the big rush is on!

As one local merchant pointed out: "We try to get people to shop before the last minute. But they just WILL wait until after Thanksgiving.

1963 Christmas

Rush

Merchandise Is Great -Only the Customers Are Shopworn

Staff Photos

MEANWHILE, Santa sends words from the North Pole that it'll be the biggest gift spending spree in history, with each snopper doling out an average $165 for Christmas goodies.

* And he notes that shoppers, early or late, never had it so good in the nifty-gifty department.

There's more variety, higher quality, more excit-ing gifts—both zany and practical—than Santa ever twinkled an eye over.

He predicts, further, that there'll be lots of "trad-ing up"—the tendency of shoppers to buy more costly stuff for friends and relatives.

It will be a good year for color TV, high-priced fashions, expensive appliances (big and small), hi-fi sets, cameras, "second set" TVs, jewelry, Paris perfumes, high-grade furniture.

Powered toys, too, are on the increase-everything from miniature home appliances to tiny cars. New educational toys are designed to teach small fry basic optics, linear measurements and simple counting.

There are dolls that cry and drool and blow up balloons . . . dolls whose hair grows and dolls that squirm with pleasure as they are fed from bottles.

There are dolls that cry when spanked and laugh when tickled. One is equipped for a conversation in six languages, another coughs and sneezes between conversational gambits. Her young owner is supposed to nurse her back to health.

A RECONNAISSANCE flight through local stores proves that for the man who has everything, you haven't seen ANYTHING yet.

For the executive who's in more than out, there's a handsome double-duty desk lamp ($50), handsomely brass-based. One light is for working, the other is for

And, shades of Las Vegas, Mr. Big can make momentous decisions between coffee breaks with the whirl of a silver dollar desk ornament mounted on decorative walnut base ($5).

When taking off for outer places, Mr. Exec canwithout bending-slip on his shoes with a long-handled shoe horn ($2), polish them with a stand-up shoe polisher and whisk his suit with an electric-powered clothes brush ($3). When he's on the road, there's a new battery powered blinker ($7.95) that can be placed on the highway to flash danger when the car breaks

BOXES AND BUNIONS . . . the shopper's lament. On gift-buying binge, Mrs. Garvin finds merchandise of high-quality . . . but SHE'S shopworn.

ZANY GIFTS ALWAYS crop up at Christmas, but there appear to be more than ever this year. Among other things, stores are offering yard of ale glasses, tweeter sweaters (one sweater built for two), $1,000 chinchilla sweaters, jars of gourmet stones, vermouth-flavored, for "stone dry martinis," and Santa Claus bars of soap that grow beards.

Such items often serve mainly as attention getters and stir up lots of interest among shoppers. For instance, the yard of ale glasses ($65), mounted on handsome brass bases, make beautiful decorator pieces. Conversation pieces, too. It's an old English custom: drink all 36 inches of ale, become a member of the club.

The tweeter sweaters, just the thing for com panionable couples, are the latest gimmick for cold stadiums. Retailing at $25, they have two necks, one sleeve for each wearer and a single slit in the middle for hot dog eating or hand holding.

On the more practical side are new-this-year Ronson gas candles ($25 pair) that look and burn like regular candles, electric carving knives that cut into the budget $23 worth and new bow-matic machines ($12) that turn out a half dozen different styles of real pro gift-wrapping bows.

NEW FOR the ladies are stretch costume rings, beautifully jeweled . . . electric manicure sets in aitractive plastic cases . . . yummy fur-trimmed suede coats . . and watches that come in lockets, pendants, rings, cuff links—even earnings.

For the woman who wants everything: a $400 mink vest.

By Iola Masterson I, P-T Women's Editor

II'S A BIG job and it takes a big pot of coffee to keep the cheerful workers warm, happy and at it. The Lemon Avenue Gang is up to its good works againand drinking coffee, as witness, below, Marie Sechrest accepting seconds (or is that thirds, or fourths?) from Alice Patterson while Marge Simcox waits her turn,

Lemon Avenue Gang gangs up for yule charity.

Ten years ago it all started and it's a heart-warming (as well as coffee warming type story). It was while Wes Rollo was on the board of the Salvation Army that he and Betty adopted a needy family to care for at Christmas.

Neighbors of their Lemon Avenue Gang between Marshal Place and Roosvelt Road pitched in and it was so successful it became a yearly project.

The help-each-other effort has grown in effort and enthusiasm until this year three families, representing 17 people, will be taken care of-food, clothing and

After all the chores are done in garage work shops, the gang treats themselves to a tea party in one of the homes. This year Marge and Dr. Tom Simcox will host the affair.

A few of the others who participate in this worth while cause, through the Salvation Army, are Cleo and Earl Beauchamp, Emma and Arden Charrlin, Virginia and Dr. John Faris, Norma and Frazer Merritt, Marie and Earl Sechrest and Alice and Ken Patterson.

WHILE SOME dream of skimming over the snow, others dream of skin diving in the warm waters off Mexico. Such is the way of people.

Bea and Gene Cuthbertson (he is prexy of Equity Securities) left for Mexico City Wednesday for a brief visit, then will head on to Acapulco and Puerto Vallarta for about three weeks of purely pleasure skin diving. They're avid fans of underwater picture snapping and took their special cameras along with them—with more loving care than the rest of their luggage, Bea and Gene both love to water ski as well as dive and Gene is a positive push-over for a marlin fishing search. This he plans definitely to do.

- Wild Waves Say ...

All I can guess, package wrapping will be a hectic affair on their return because Bea plans, somehow or another, in all this marvelous melee of merriment, to complete her shopping.

SPEAKING OF shopping, Sue and Ron Brunner BOTH have their Christmas shopping all done. It isn't wrapped yet—just hidden, said Sue sorrowfully.

What makes this so miraculous is that they've been in the middle of re-modeling. They're doubling the size of their living room, adding to the family room and planning some sturdy shifting around in the kitchen department, too. While they can sing a song of sixpence spent (or charged) regarding shopping done they, moan a mite because the remodeling will NOT be finished by Christmas. Where the tree and the wrapped (if ever) gifts will go are still a mysteryor should I say, plans are still up a tree.

MARSHALLING forces, St. Mary's Hospital Guild is, anent former plans, continuing daily operation of its Christmas gift show and sale through Dec. 15th.

Volunteers must man posts from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily (including Sunday) which is quite a stint for hours' keepers, workers and telephoners to keep the show on the road.

Big daily stint is in the doctors dining room and where the doctors dine these days I knowest not-but not there. Marie De Noyelles is chairman. Some of her right handers are Helen Hamer, Mary Hodge, Prez Voorhees and Peggy Fisher, naming a minimum handful.

Guild, incidentally, will have double duty both pleasure and work, Thursday. They'll entertain new members at annual coffee hour at Ferrel Shug's home and give out first concrete word of Day at the Races, slated for April 29th.

Committee members assisting include Lorraine Schultz, Virginia Brennen, Pat Guiver, Katie Harper, Edith Part and Betty Munholland.

HAPPY HUNTING grounds during the holidays won't be Long Beach for Janle and Gil Brown. They'll go first to Denver to visit her parents then head on for Yule in St. Paul to be with daughter and son-in-law, Sally and Hunt McCauley, and the two little ones, Stevie and Mary Beth.

TO PROMULGATE good food on the table-and keep their professional interest alive in their chosen field-L.B. Home Economists in Homemaking (in the home, now, generally for reasons of marriage) had a great progressive dinner party Saturday night. Can't you just imagine what kind of fare husbands fared

Dinner began at Margaret and George Foor's, 366 Orlena; next stop was Edna and Sigurd Nelsons, 408 Santiago, and dessert, tummies full and guests asighing in total contentment, was at Mildred and Harold Frerks, 393 Los Altos—all homes within walking distance in Alamitos Heights. Not such a bad idea, considering who was cooking, what was being cooked and that exercise was needed between courses.

BRINGING DOWN the house-no new experience to any of them-were the "tired Jeannette McDonalds" (MC Marvin Cloyd's term—not mine!) who performed an hilarious vocalized skit at Civic Light Opera's awards night dinner Tuesday at the Lafayette.

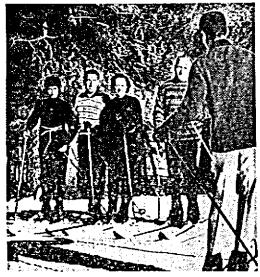

Matador Marvin (he's plenty brave; wait'll you hear what he said in introducing CLO's five prima donnas -Laura Killingworth, Jackle Waggoner, Betty Kimber, Patty Zeig and Betty Arntzen) began "We have five leading ladies . . . who have competed for parts since the beginning of time—whoops!—I mean beginning of Civic Light Opera.

All good friends, the songstresses then put on a vocal free-for-all in shrill tones, each proclaiming why SHE should be THE star of the group. The socalled "wornout prima donnas" proved themselves anything but that. Certainly, they're among the most humorous of gals, who at one time "intuned," in words written by Betty Kimber, skit authoress: "Our rocking chairs are ready, but before we go, we want you all to know: we'll all be there auditioning for 'Molly tanning in the snow at June Mountain.

When there's snow on the hill tops there's joy in their hearts and no shushing up the urge for schussing. Pictured below among the 20 or so members from here who went are Vicki Vick, Will Martin, Velma Georges, Don Smith, and, with back to camera, Toby Von Euw, director of the ski school at June but, other than snow season, a resident of LB and member of local skit unit.

Crowded up there? Schuss, yes. First night some of the men had to sleep on the floor but the slip to the slopes was worth the sleep on the slats.

Women Golfers Score

By CURTYNE DRISCOLL

Twenty-three years as starter at Recreation Park Golf Course has turned his hair gray, Gene Combs claims. And lady golfers may have helped.

Like: "What is my starting time?"

"Two forty-five," was the answer.

"You mean in the afternoon?" she asks.

And then there was the woman who called him and asked what time the fog would lift, And the one who wanted to know if he gave "wind checks."

Women's Auxiliary to the Recreation Park Golf Club, now the Recreation Park Women's Golf Club, had its first meeting at the Naples home of charter member Mrs. Leonard A. Jones in October. 1928, Mrs. Edward M. Miller was elected president by the 10 women who comprised the membership.

The group has recently had to close the membership at 135 members and now has a waiting list of applicants. Membership is still open in the women's groups at Recreation Park South Course, Skylinks and El Dorado, however.

Mrs. R. L. Burke, a charter member, says, "The big difference is that in those days a score of 100 was really good for a woman player. Now you've got to shoot under 80 to be good."

Better equipment, moré regular play and more uniform teaching is responsible for the new lower scores, according to Mrs. Burke.

father-in-law would say. And Early members used to play once or twice a week, she remembers. Now a great number belong to two or three clubs and play daily. Metal shafts have replaced wooden ones and shorts and shirts have taken the place of skirts and sweaters.

Mrs. Burke has a full day on Tuesday, Ladies Day at the Recreation Park Golf Course, Following tournament play she and three fellow golfers adjourn for an afternoon of bridge.

Among the woman golfers interviewed, there was just one regret-that they had not started playing golf sooner.

South Course President Mrs. Don Haines said. "I'm sorry I didn't start before. It's a wonderful sport for every age, however. We have one member who is 78."

Requirements for membership differ at each course. A 26 handicap—five scores, one with 104 or better—is required at Recreation Park. Hembers must play once a month to be eligible for tourna-, ment play.

A less experienced feminine golfer called Combs recently and asked for a starting time for a party of 10.

After explaining that the game was usually played by foursomes, Combs inquired if she and her friends had played golf before.

"Oh, yes," said she, "we all played at Shady Acres last night and had so much fun we decided that we'd like to play a larger course."

It's Never a Lost Weekend

two-headed citizens can be seen any weekend at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station.

And, in this case, two heads are much better than one.

Because they, and about 60,000 others like them in the Long Beach-Orange County area, are members of the U. S. Naval Reserve.

One head deals with the ordinary details of life—business, family and home.

THE OTHER HEAD is in a constant state of alert—dealing with the multiple problems of the military and constantly working on the age-old problem of the Reservists, how to be combat ready yesterday, not tomorrow.

Los Alamitos Naval Alr Station, commanded by Capt. William P. Tanner Jr., a native of San Pedro, is the largest installation of its kind in the nation. About 3,500 Reservists receive weekend training in the 30 squadrons assigned there.

In addition, Los Alamitos NAS houses the Long Beach Naval Reserve Training Center. More than 1,000 Reservests from the Long Beach area train there in four units under the command of Cmdr. John E. Kennedy Jr.

MIX THEM together, pour the boiling waters of international trouble over them, and you have an instant Navy.

The Weekend Warriors are a breed of their own,

They come from all walks of life and are bound together only by their common desire to serve their country.

Most are paid for their attendance at unit training sessions, but, in the opinion of Captains Tanner and Kennedy, this amounts to only a minute percentage of the time all devote to the Reserve.

and a lot of their time is spent maintaining good community relations with the citizens of nearby communities.

AS AN EXAMPLE, they recently dedicated a children's ball park at the Air Station. Equipped with everything from sprinkler systems to special parking areas, the deluxe ball park was a joint project with the residents of the City of Los Alamitos.

They have their problems, too. One of which is aircraft noise.

"We keep our aircraft operating noise to an absolute minimum," says Capt. Tanner. "And we just hope that all of the people will remember that the sound of our own aircraft will be the most comforting sound in the world if they are ever needed in an international crisis."

While they get a powerful assist from Capt, Tanner and Cmdr, Kennedy and their staff of regulars, the Reserves basically run their own program.

All of them are crack Weekend Warriors. They know it, and they are proud of it.

Seal of Salvation

By Frank L. Remington

APIDLY stamping a batch of envelopes carrying Christmas greetings, the Copenhagen postal clerk glanced up from his work. A smile curved the corners of his lips. "Why not?" he thought. "It'll work. At least, it's worth trying."

"Good morning, Einar." The postmaster's voice

"Yes," agreed Einar, His grin faded. Not because he minded the extra work—far from it. But he knew why industrious Knute would be absent. Sick and emaciated little Hans, the youngest of Knute's five children, was bedridden again. To care for the tubercular child, widower Knute had missed work several times of late. Loving children as he did, Einar often wished he could bring the rosy hue back to the youngster's cheeks.

IT WAS 1904, just a few weeks before Christmas, the busiest season of the year at the post office. From dawn to dusk, Einar sorted and stamped the thousands of envelopes carrying the season's greetings from the people of Copenhagen to their friends. But only the thoughts of the thousands of sick and needy children, and especially little Hansmarred Einar's spirits. "If only I could do something to help those poor kids," he often mused. And now he had an idea—a plan that might work. Eagerly he poured his idea into the ready ears the his fellow employes. Most of them agreed with

Eagerly he poured his idea into the ready ears of his fellow employes. Most of them agreed with Einar, "It's worth trying," one mail carrier said. "And if the plan succeeds, it'll be a million times worth the effort we put into it."

The employes told the customers who came to the post office. They liked the idea, too, and passed it along to their friends and neighbors. The plan spread by word of mouth through the streets and into the homes of Copenhagen with epidemic rapidity. Within a few days it became the chief topic of conversation over all Denmark. Even King Christian IX caught the fever.

EINAR'S IDEA was so simple that he wondered why no one had thought of it before. Couldn't all those letters and greetings going through the mails during the Christmas season carry a special stamp? If such a stamp sold for a penny and enough folks bought them, there would be sufficient money to help Copenhagen's needy children and perhaps even start the construction of a tubertulosis hospital.

To test the possibilities of the plan a printer set his press with a plate bearing the picture of Queen Louise of Denmark and rolled out two million stamps. Newspaper editors and magazine writters urged their readers to dig in their pockets and buy the stickers. The readers needed little coaxing, however, and in a short time the supply had been exhausted; two million more had to be printed. Everyone, it seemed, supported the plan not only in spirit but financially as well. Some ardent supporters even refused to accept a letter unless it carried a seal.

Einar Holboell had not expected such an overwhelming response to his idea, and of course he was overjoyed. Now little Hans could be properly cared for and land bought for the construction of a tuberculosis hospital. The success of the Christmas Seal drive sparked the enthusiasm of many doctors and scientists. They took a new interest in researching for the cause of the disease and in stamping it out. A great crusade had begun.

ENTHUSIASTIC about the crusade, an American, Jacob Riis, whose six brothers had died from the dread disease, published an article to persuade the people of the United States to adopt a Christmas Seal program. But Americans were slow to rally behind the cause. The response to the plea was almost negative.

Fortunately, Miss Emily Bissell championed the cause, or Christmas Seals might never have come to the United States. As secretary of the Delaware Red Cross, Miss Bissell and a few others were struggling to keep an open-air tuberculosis sanitarium on the historic Brandywine River going with almost no money. Now, unless she succeeded in raising $300 in a hurry, the institution would have to close its doors permanently. But no one seemed interested; everyone turned a deaf ear to her pleas for financial sid with almost no money. Now, unless she succeeded in raising $300 in a hurry, the institution would have to close its doors permanently. But no one seemed interested; everyone turned a deaf ear to her pleas for financial aid.

"We'll keep the sanitarium open if we have to raise the money penny by penny," Miss Bissell declared. About that time she happened to read Jacob Riis' article on Christmas Seals. The idea appealed to her. "We'll sell tuberculosis seals and get the money we need," she told the directors of the sanitarium.

BUT THE PROBLEM wasn't quite that easy to solve. Low on funds, the Red Cross could not sponsor the printing of the seals, but it did agree to permit the use of the familiar crimson cross. A charity-minded printer, Charles Story, agreed to print the desired stamps on credit. In a short time 50,000 Christmas Seals designed by Miss Bissell were ready for the public. The stamp design consisted of a green holly garland centered with a red cross and a cheerful "Merry Christmas."

Now another obstacle loomed. Although the Danish seals had been sold at post office windows, the postmaster general of the United States refused to permit the sales at government stamp windows in this country. Early in December, however, Miss Bissell set up a booth in the lobby of Wilmington's main post office and displayed the stamps packaged in small envelopes. But few persons bought them. Post office patrons practically ignored the little booth. The first day's sales brought only $25.

A lesser person might have been vanquished by this indifference, but not Emily Bissell. If one method failed, there were others to try. And so she boarded a train to Philadelphia, determined to stir up public enthusiasm for her cause.

WITH THE COURAGE of a crusader, she invaded the offices of the City of Brotherly Love's greatest newspaper. "We can beat tuberculesis," she told the editor, and then enthusiastically cutlined her plan. The editor, however, was adamant. He could see no connection between the ravaging disease and the Christmas season. And Miss Bissell's hope of saving the Brandywine Sanitarium becan to fade.

Luckily, one of the paper's editorial writers,
Leigh Mitchell Hodges, who listened to the conversation, sensed the value of the idea. His eagerness convinced the editor, "Fighting tuberculosis is a worthy cause," the newspaperman admitted. "This paper will do everything it can to help." And suiting his actions to his words, he not only gave space for publicity in the paper but also crdered 50,000 stamps. That marked a turning point in Miss Bissell's crusade.

At the opening of the first Philadelphia sale of Christmas Seals on Dec. 16, 1907, a ragged little newsboy reached up with a penny—he was too small to see over the counter—and said, "Gimme one. Me sister's got it!" He got the message of the seals and so did the Philadelphians, who wholeheartedly backed the program.

IN TWO DAYS Miss Bissell had more than enough money to save the sanitarium. But it didn't stop there. Many persons wanted to help sell the stamps; civic leaders, newspapers and government officials endorsed the idea. Even President Theodore Roosevelt eagerly backed the plan. Miss Bissell's goal of $300 was passed and soared to $3,000.

Encouraged by these results, the American Red Cross sponsored the first nationwide Christmas Seal campaign the following year. The first year brought in $135,000. In 1910, the National Tuberculosis Association joined the campaign. A few years later this organization took over the entire campaign, which, of course, is now an annual event.

As its official symbol, the National Tuberculosis Association adopted the double-barred cross, sign of the ancient crusaders, Every Christmas Seal bears this imprint.

TODAY, THERE ARE 3,000 tuberculosis associations across the nation. From each dollar they collect from the sale of seals, all but 6 cents remains in the community and state in which it was raised to fight the battle against the disease which still causes many deaths. The seals have become as much a part of Christmas as Santa and his reindeer.

Now the Christmas Seal is sold the world over during December. As testimony to the good the seals do, only one person dies from tuberculosis today for every six in 1904. Einar Holboell, the jovial postal clerk, and was the atomic bomb of the Stone Age. Much later, the flying arrow cut its way through history in 1066 at the Battle of Hastings, when Norman conquerors crossed the channel to England. And, in 1415, English archers chalked up a win in the Hundred Years' War against the French at Agincourt.

Einar Holboell, the jovial postal clerk, and Emily Bissell, the woman who wouldn't accept defeat, proved that unselfish persons who give of themselves in the true Christmas spirit can achieve far-reaching results.

Automation Comes to Archery

By Robert Hazelleaf

For centuries, men served their appointed hours at the archery range to gain certain benefits in taxes or military service, as an organized reserve.

Now, in a more genteel atmosphere, archery is a sport that is rapidly becoming big business with some 7,500,000 participants who target-shoot at ranges, in the field, and who trade the hunting rifle and shotgun for the bow and arrow.

Although only 28,000 men and women constitute the membership of major archery associations, the 7,500,000 is an educated estimate of the part-time enthusiasts—those who occasionally spend an hour or two at a range,

THOSE MILLIONS will seem insignificant, now that fresh ideas are being injected into the ancient sport. The number is expected to double and even treble before many years pass.

These days, the accent is on convenience. It means automated ranges-with archers sitting out rounds in fancy plastic chairs on deep-pile carpet. Instead of spending most of their time walking to targets and pulling arrows, the louch of a button does the work for them.

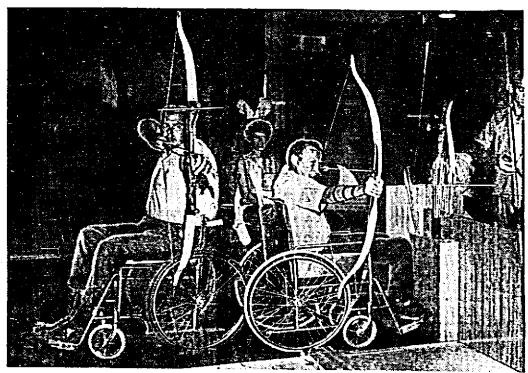

The idea of automated archery is only about two years old, but it's already gone through a generation of refinement as operators and patrons alike spawn innovations,

Some of the freshest ideas are coming from a new firm in Orange with a fresh, new name—Arrow Dynamics—which sounds as though it belongs to the aerospace industry.

Partners in the firm include James C. Kern, long an archery enthusiast, instructor, and former manager of Robin Hood Lanes in Garden Grove, who oversees manufacture and installation; Dean Parsons, instrumental in bringing Robin Hood into being and now working as leasing agent and management man for the new company, and Barry Miller, versed in league coordination, who will form and schedule teams and activities.

"WHAT WE WANT to do," says Parsons, "is set up complete indoor ranges that include everything from targets to scoring tables. We'll even provide management, either permanently or just long enough for an owner to get started."

The partners have a lane in action at their Orange office, just to confound the skeptics. Everything in view is furnished in the setup. The target, reversible with the pressure of a hand, is backed with special excelsior material that absorbs arrows with a minimum of damage to the backing.

When an archer has shot his round, a push on one of seven buttons brings the target up to the foul line from a distance as great as 90 feet, maximum for tournament play. One of the other six buttons sends the target gliding smoothly back to any preset footage. Two-inch accuracy assures association acceptance of the movable assembly.

A safety mat placed an inch or two inside the foul line immediately stops the target at any point. It is almost impossible for a small child or careless adult to reach the target or overstep the line without treading on the mat.

LEAGUE RECORD books, quality bows and arrows, seating, even the ash trays come with the new lanes. Each is set off by a modernistically designed divider.

"Before automated lanes," says Jim Kern,

Automated target takes the drudgery out of archery, brings arrows back to the line.

"archers either had to find an outdoor range, usually some distance from home, or shoot at a gallery affair that didn't meet their needs or archery rules. The new lanes change all that."

They'll change something else, too, in the equipment line. Too often, a neophyte is saddled with improper gear because he has no way to learn his real needs.

New facilities will include a pro shop, where an accomplished archer will guide the beginner and where equipment will be sold. The shop will accommodate the novice who wants to spend no more than $30 or so, as well as the expert who seeks the best in the $150 class.

"We can place an archery lane in position in less than five hours," says Dean Parsons, "If a bowling lane operator has alleys that aren't paying their way, it's no problem. We simply spot the archery target and track on top, and he's ready for a business boost. The new equipment doesn't disturb the wood in the least."

SO FAR, three archery ranges serve the Southland in Garden Grove, Downey and Covina. Nationwide, automation has come to Tacoma and Seattle, Wash., and Carrington, N. D. There will be more.

"With the convenience," says Barry Miller, "we visualize regular league play with handicaps. There's no reason why Scouts, boys' clubs, high school and college groups can't participate."

The partners foresee installations in hospitals, too, not only as a recreation activity, but as a supplement to therapy departments. Proper shooting requires a steady pull, coordination and a good eye with a few grains of patience added.

Larry Eaks, a war veteran and long-term wheelchair patient, shoots with the Sidewinders in the Garden Grove area. He's enthusiastic about automated archery. Admittedly, there's exercise in wheeling up to a target and back, but it can get tiresome in meet play. Electrified lanes eliminate the drudgery.

SAYS MRS. EAKS, also a member of the Sidewinders: "The team was going to be an all-wheelchair group, but now it's mixed. And don't let Larry fool you. He and his chairborne teammates are tough competitors."

"Some time in the next five or 10 years," say the company's partners, "automated archery is going to come to physical education classes and school teams. Cities are going to support recreation centers every bit as plush as the newer bowling operations. We see an expansion to as many as 40 million participants at centers catering to archery, billiards and bowling. Snack bars, cocktail lounges and fine restaurants will be included. We hope to be on hand when the boom really gets under way."

California Yule Spirit in 1846

By Betty Hardesty

AN 1846 DIARY account of Christmas in Southern California, written 117 years ago by the doctor who became the first president of Los Angeles County Medical Association, shows that the Christmas spirit is unquench-

John G. Griffin, M.D., was assistant surgeon with the U.S. Army under General Kearny when he wrote his notes about the last Christmas in California under Spanish-Mexican rule.

That Christmas was an emotional and dramatic period in California history. The worst tragedy of the Mexican war here was keenly felt by the many injured U.S. soldiers laid up under Dr. Griffin's care. They had suffered three times as many casualties as the Californians who had attacked them in the Battle of Pasqual fought near the present towns of Escondide and Romona.

Dr. John G. Griffin, an wrote of Christmas, 1846.

THE CABALLEROS knew best how to fight on their own home ground. The Mexican reatas and lances were skillfully wielded against muskets with wet powder and the swords of travel-weary cavalrymen in Army blue who had made their way over the long trail from New Mexico. The California horsemen wore wide leather chaps with cowboy outfits and typical Mexican hats, as au-thentically depicted in diar-ama in the Early California History Room of the Los Angeles County Museum.

Reinforcements from San Diego arrived in time to turn defeat into victory as the Californians with drew and Dr. Griffin, with the help of Kit Carson, managed to transport the wounded to Old Town then held by American troops. The battle took place

As Christmas approached, there was pain, loneliness and worry among the wounded, who could not know how well I.t. Col. John C. Fremont was progressing on his march to capture Santa Barbara. They could not guess that two weeks later, on Jan. 13, 1847, he would reach San Fernando and sign the Cahuenga Treaty to end war in California and make it a part of the United States. (A photo copy of the "Articles of Capitulation" hangs opposite the Pasqual Battle scene at the museum.)

DR. GRIFFIN'S words make it understood that the sick and dying men did "try to put aside their grievances and concentrate on Christmas in the spirit of the towns-folk." Little ones planned for pinatas and tried to mould small animals for their trees of life while adults prepared for feasting and parties. "Odors of warm pepper and garlic mingled with those of roasting pigs, ducks and chickens," huts were hung with color and all donned their Sunday clothes.

The doctor had been too busy to write Dec. 24 and 25 when one man died in spite of all he could do to save him, but he added to his historical diary on the evening of Dec. 26. His last words that day are significant of the Christmas spirit:

"We had a fine formal ball last night and quite a few beautiful women turned out." They had put aside animosity in the spirit of peace on earth, good will toward men.

Lt. Ccl. John C. Fremont signed the treaty of Cahvenga, which made California part of the United States in 1847.

From hat rum spiked with gunpayder to modern mouth wash, man has devised many remedies for sore throat.

By Joseph Policano

ALMOST everyone has had a sore throat at one time or another, but most people are not familiar with what brings them on, what aggravates and what soothes them and why they should not be dismissed with a polite or even an impolite cough.

No other irritation or Infection is more common than the sore throat - except the common cold, which it frequently accompanies. This familiatity leads many to regard a sore throat as a painful but trivial nuisance when the truth is that it is among the body's important alarm signals.

A mild sore throat can be the first symptom of many diseases, ranging from the simplest and harmless to the most virulent and life-threatening. Among the ailments it signals are influenza (including Asian flu), bronchitis, polio, rheumatic fever, rheumatic heart disease, meningitis, neuritis, scarlet fever, whooping cough and measles. Blood disturbances often accompanied by sore throat in the early stages include mononucleosis and even leukemia.

ACTUALLY, the wonder is not that there are so many sore throats in the population on any given day but that there are so few of them.

Within hours of birth, the human throat becomes the headquarters of millions of invisible germs which inhabit the air we breathe and the food we eat. By breeding these micro-organisms, the throat becomes the path of invasion for many infections within the body. Skirmishes fought in the mouth and throat may determine whether disease germs are defeated or fan out to establish beachheads in other parts of the

The throat protects itself against these onslaughts with two main lines of defense. One, encircling the entrance to the throat, consists of islands of spongy tissue designed to attract germs and then to overwhelm them with disease - fighting antibodies and white corpuscles supplied by the blood stream,

The other main defense mechanism: a lining of delicate membranes which se-cretes mucus to lubricate the throat and shields its tissues from bacteria.

EXHAUST FUMES and factory smog, tobacco smoke and heavy alcohol intake all Irritate the membrane, constricting the blood vessels and slowing up mucus flow, Due to the efficiency of air con-ditioning and central heating, the air we breathe is often too dry for our nose and throat passages. Faulty diet, chronic faligue, constant mental stress also help to weaken the mem-

A day arrives when the temperature shifts, or we get drenched or chilled. Blood rushes to other parts of the body and the throat's blood vessels constrict. The temperature of the mucus membrane drops and the familiar tickle or scratch in the throat appears, followed all too often and all too soon by the catalogue of aches and pains well known to anyone who has ever suffered a sore throat.

Through the ages there have been many remedies to soothe the pain and discomfort of a sore throat. A recent discovery, an antiseptic and anesthetic mouthwash, was found effective in relieving soreness in 96 per cent of the patients. Researchers at numerous hospitals, including the National Children's Cardiac . Hospital, Miami, Fla, and the Newark City Hospital, Newark, N. J. found the preparation, which is sold without a prescription at drug stores, effective as an oral antiseptic, too.

"The solution, Chloraseptic,

has excellent analgesic (pain killing) properties and was very effective in relieving the pain and discomfort of sore throat from a variety of causes in 200 cases," accord-ing to Dr. Julian W. Giles, former chief of the ear, nose and throat service, Veterans' Administration Hospital, Tus-kegee, Ala. "Relief from soreness came within 15 seconds and lasted 2-3 hours, after the solution was sprayed or gargled."

LONG BEFORE modern drugs had been heard of, man was doctoring sore throats and prescribing remedies that ranged from sniffing pine oil to gulping hot rum spiked with gunpowder. Sore throat sufferers have daubed their (Continued on Page 32)

Modern Magic Has Made It Elegant

By Stella George

THROUGH THE MODERN magic of hammer and saw and paint, the formerly modest tract home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kane, 3743 Fairman Ave., Lakewood, has assumed a new elegant look ... and it is pure coincidence that the style of the furnishings is called "Elegant."

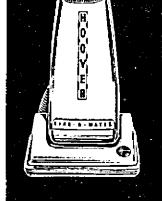

Remodeling and redecorating has provided a fresh interior, consisting of a large open living room adjoining a spacious kitchen; a step-down family room; plus the original three bedrooms and a bath. The formality of the living room is cleverly combined with the informal and comfortable (and very functional) kitchen which adjoins.

Its Hub Is a Patio-Garden

RAMATIC interior garden surrounded on all four sides by glass brings the crisp outdoors right inside this versatile four-bedroom ranch home in winter or summer, spring or fall.

'This is a patio in the true sense of the word," said architect Samuel Paul, who designed House of the Week B-91.

"The Spanish word 'patio' is used to describe an open courtyard, such as this oneand if you're familiar with the knack Latins have for easy living, it isn't hard to see why a patio is characteristic of their architecture."

MOREOVER, all these outdoor facilities, usually re-served for homes in the farBy Jules Loh out suburbs where lots are large, are available in this house, which would fit comfortably on a "city" lot as narrow as 60 feet wide. This is because of the front-to-back planning of the house, rather than the customary side-to-side design. The house contains 2,105 square feet in overall diminsions of 50 feet wide and 65 feet deep including the double carport.

Access to the interior garden is through sliding glass doors in the family room; but sharing its freshness and charm are the living room, the informal family roombreakfast area, and the spacious entry which will be bathed in daylight all day long.

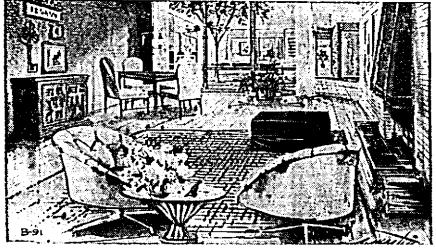

The sleeping area (which is well zoned for privacy, in-cidentally has two large bathrooms, one with a double lavatory and the other, adjoining the master bedroom with a broad, L-shaped vanity.

A THIRD lavatory is located off the laundry and convenient to the family roomkitchen area. Note the excellent step-saving design of the large kitchen, and its good lo-cation between the formal and informal entertaining

While this is a large house with room enough for a fam-ily of as many as seven cr eight, architect Paul provides an expansion plan so that a couple could start with a two-bedroom, 1,406 square foot basic house and add on from

The first stage would include the two front bedrooms and one bath in the sleeping wing; and the breakfast room. family room, kitchen and part of the living room, In the condensed version, however, the breakfast and family rooms would be the living and dining rooms; and the area to the left of the kitchen would be the family room. Paul's blueprints show how the two other bedrooms and bath, and the extension of the living area, could be added later

ANOTHER feature which would be dictated by the desire of the builder would be the design of the front bedroom next to the entrance. Simply by arranging the doors and walls as you want them, the room can be a den, nursery, guest room or library; the dressing room could be eliminated in favor of a walk-in closet or any other innovation.

Luxury touches abound in this house, not the least of which is a vertically jointed brick wall in the living room intercepted by a contemporary fireplace with a copper hood. The brick wall carries over to the entrance, which is further accented with a quarry tile floor.

Another luxury feature is the front terrace, or more specifically, the master bedroom terrace. Imagine stepping out there on a warm spring morning to read the Sunday paper while the dew is still on the grass, Garden walls above eye level guarantee the privacy of the terrace.

There are 12 closets in this house, all oversized, and these are in addition to four large storage bins in the carport. More storage is available in the basement, of course. If no basement is built, the space occupied by the stair well would become a heater room.

To order, send name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., enclose 50 cents and request House of the Week Study Plan, Design B-91.

JUGS, jugs, everywhere and not a drop of anything in any of them! However, Wendell (Wendy) Vancil of 3585 Brayton Ave., owner of some 60 odd stoneware jugs, is not concerned about that. He is more interested in preserving a nostalgic bit of old Americanaan item that, along with Grandma's stoneware churn, butter crock, bean pot, and pickle jar, is fast disappearing from the scene, At one time a common household necessity that stored vinegar, cider, molasses, "coal oil," - yes, even "corn likker" and rumthat once familiar "little brown jug" is bowing out in favor of its modern counterpart of plastic or glass.

Vancil's collection of jugs varies from the half-gallon size to five-gallon containers. However, most of them are one-gallon in capacity. The oldest, and one which is a favorite of his, is more than 100 years old and came from his great-aunt's home in Iowa. Others were gleaned on the Vancils' travels throughout the country, many coming from Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky and Missouri, Most of the jugs were direct purchases, and not gifts, for, as Vancil says, "They don't give them away!" (One authority on antiques includes the old stoneware jugs high on her list of "... most sought-after collectables today."

SEVEN of the jugs are "soda fountain" jugs, one-gallon containers which held syrup used in making ice-cream sodas. One of these is labeled, "Hungerford Smith's Stoneware jug with cornceb stopper is oldest and most valued ifem in a Long Beach collection of old-time jugs.

Golden Orange Concentrate.* Other labels are "R. H. Macy & Co., New York," "Douglas Clay Products," and "Western Stoneware." A very old jug is a gray one with trimming in cobalt-blue lines. Several in the "hard-to-find" bracket are those in oval shape, and gray ones with brown necks.

There are at least 30 old whisky jugs in the collection. This type of jug is among the more valuable today. The label, "Star Liquor House, Akron, Ohio, Albert Deutsch, Proprietor," is discernible on Vancil keeps his jugs in orderly arrangement on high shelves around his patio, where visitors can inspect them and ponder on their out-moded usefulness. Most of all, perhaps, do the stoneware containers bring memories of sun-drenched days in the harvest fields, when a jug of cold spring water, its gunny-sack "jacket" dripping water in an improvised "cooling system," hung in the shade of a nearby tree, waiting to refresh the weary worker and afford a moment's rest from

Heart Ills vs. Water Studied

By Ben Zinser

DOCTOR has found additional evidence that softness of water may play a role in heart disease.

Hard water was eliminated from the diet of a 37-year-old man who was being treated for food allergies, a Jacksonville, Fla., doctor reports in the Journal of the American Medical Associstion. Three weeks later the patient complained of frequent heart - fluttering on exertion. The condition cleared up when hard water was again included in his diet.

The observation, notes Dr. John B. Neal, raises a question regarding the effect of hard water on preventing abnormal heart rhythms.

Another doctor, a consultant to the Journal, remarks that medical science still doesn't know if there's a deleterious agent in soft water or an absence of a protective factor found in hard water.

Earlier studies indicate that there appears to be less death from heart disease in communities with hard water.

A PHYSICIAN who went to ranch country to do medical research involving range cattle brings back this report of the New West:

The days of cowboys' saddle-breaking horses have gone. Nowadays they just give the horses tranquilizers.

PIGLONS have been implicated in two moningitis deaths in New York. The birds, researchers say, carry a fungus organism known as Cryptococcus neoformans. And these infections can be fatal. One doctor thinks people should stop feeding pigeons and stay clear of them for health reasons.

A NEW chemical, Zinc Omadine, is proving effective as an antibacterial and antifungal agent, announces its developer, the Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. Among its uses: to provide dandruff control, to inhibit athlete's foot, to deter spread of staph germs.

AN ARTIFICIAL leg created especially for amputees who like to swim is described in Medical Journal of Australia. Made of fiberglass, the appliance requires no waist belt or harness; it is held effectively by suction. Its special design also gives it buoyancy.

WYOMEN ARE more subject to dreaming and talking in their sleep than are men, according to a study of the sleep habits of 1,122 healthy young adults. Source: Dr. Caroline Bedell Thomas of Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine in a report in Journal of Chronic Diseases.

At one time or another, everyone suffers from mental illness, says famed psychiatrist William C. Menninger.

The person who disbelieves this, he says, is the one who forgets to consider his "tension headaches, marital discords, private worries about business, his dependency on alcohol or nicotine."

BLOODLETTING, an ancient practice for a number of disorders, may be practical in the modern-day treatment of certain patients with circulatory disorders.

A team of five doctors reports that reduction of the number of circulating blood cells, by bloodletting, improved the circulation of the legs and the heart function of patients suffering hardening of the arteries.

"MOST VICTIMS of ulcer range between ages 30 and 60," says famed researcher Irvine H. Page of Cleveland. "Just why you are so digestible at that period, I don't know," Dr. Page comments. "Perhaps that is what they mean when they say you are a "tough old bird" after the age of 65."

MILK CAN cause tooth decay, says a London dentist, because it leaves a sticky coating on the teeth, a condition conductive to acid production. The dentist's recommendation, in British Medical Journal: Brush teeth after milk drinking or eat an apple. Either will remove the coating.

A Yule

Feast

S TIME DRAWS NEAR for planning the annual Christmas dinner, it's also time to consider whether the centerpieces of the feast will be the traditional turkey or a departure into something else equally interesting. If the decision is the latter, here is a suggestion:

Jambe de Porc, Pineapple Farci,

- 1 (6.8 round) boned leg of pork weighed after boning
- p rice

- 2 large onions
  14 cup butter or margarine
  1 (13)4-ounce) can pineapple tidbats
  1 (10)4-ounce) can consomme
- 💈 teaspoon ulispice
- 2 cups chopped cetery
- cup dark seedless raisins Pepper cups packaged stuffing mix

Split-boned leg of pork lengthwise almost through to bottom so it opens out and lies flat, butterfly style. Saute rice and chopped onions in butter until rice is light brown. Drain pineapple tidbits; add enough pineapple syrup to consomme to make 1½ cups. Combine liquid, rice and I teaspoon salt. Heat to boiling, then reduce heat. Cover tightly and simmer 15 minutes. Add drained pineapple, spices, stuffing mix and raisins. Rub cut side of meat with salt and pepper; spread with stuffing. Roll up like jelly roll and secure firmly with string and skewers. Rub outside all over with ginger. Place on rack in shallow pan. Bake in moderately slow oven (325 degrees F.) until well dore, 30 minutes per pound. Baste with remaining pineapple syrup last half hour. Let stand 20 minutes before slicing. Garnish 'Alatter with remarked sites and spiced crabardies as degreed. Makes 17 or more services. platter with pineapple slices and spiced crabapples as desired. Makes 12 ce more servings.

A Preference for Nickels

SOMETHING THE PROPERTY OF THE

By Enola Chamberlin

IT WON'T PAY to get all het up if someone calls the place you live a "two-bit" town. It might even be a compliment. For two-bits is 25 cents, and 25 cents is five times a nickel. And that, a "five cent" town, is what a lot of places are, including Long Beach. For, according to Thomas C. Payne, assist-ant head of the Los Angeles Federal Reserve Branch, the coin in the greatest demand in this vicinity is the nickel. But don't be disturbed, this area is not alone in that. According to Mrs. Audry Smith, administrative assistant to the director of the United States Mint, Louisville and Baltimore are also fivecent towns. Baltimore, leaning farthest toward the lowly coin, uses 15 tons of them a year, Mrs. Smith says they tried to talk Louisville into using dimes. But no go. The people there just used more nickels.

New York, it seems, doesn't have a preference for any special coin, just against one. The half dollar. She doesn't want it. Won't have it.

But a two-bit town, we do have one. Washington. There quarters are a going medium of exchange.

Now this doesn't mean that all cities don't use all the coins. They do. There are always parking meters to gobble up dimes, nickels, pennies. There are washing machines in laundromats to do the same for quarters. So each city has to have a few of the ostracized coins around whether it wants them or not. Except. perhaps, New York. There the populace can get along without the halves.

Why people in certain cities prefer one coin over another is not known. It is, according to Mrs. Smith, a Recipe of the Week long-standing, unsolved mystery of the Treasury Department. Whether it is a mystery to the people of the cities has not been determined.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give brief data on EO-GARD.—B, B, Long Beach

B. B.: EOGARD is from the old Flemish-Belgian surname Bogaert. The source words, "Bogen - hardt" meant "bow-strong." typifying an out-standing medieval archer whose strength in drawing the bow excelled that of his compatriots. The family shield from Rotterdam, Holland, is silver, decorated with three green, uproofed trees. These emblems refer to an alternate name-meaning, the north French "Buche-hard," "strong as a beech-tree."

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give data on SEEKAMP. Mrs. J. A., Long Beach.

J. A.: SEEKAMP is German, with two divergent meanings, both of them from early medieval centuries. Seeearly medieval centuries. See-kamp evolved from "see-kampf" denoting "sea com-batant." Another origin for this unique name was "sig-kampf" representing "victo-rious warrior or combatant."

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like your analysis of LOU-REIRO.-J. L., Long Beach,

J. L.: LOUREIRO when traced to its Portuguese source, is defined as "owner of an estate landmarked by a laurel tree." The laurel or bay tree was greatly revered in ancient times because its leaves were used by the Romans to form victor's wreaths in athletic contests.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give data on KOHLER.-J.A., Long Beach.

J. A.: KOHLER mainly retains its medieval occupa-tional meaning "coal-miner," although alternate meanings include the Slavic-German "kolo" for "stout man," and the German word "kohl" for "cabbage-grower." The family shield is blue, emblazoned with three gold stars below a blue cross, with these emblems on a gold band asross the center of the shield.

THE COLONIAL settlers didn't fuss when they made furniture for their home. They designed simple, charming and functional pieces that have withstood the test of time.

One of their more interesting designs is presented here for Sketchbook do-it-yourself readers. It is the rocking cradle, sometimes known as the New Jersey cradle. It is constructed to last, yet gracious in its lines.

The cradle is not a difficult

one to build. The two units, the cradle proper and cradle stand are made from standard-size pine lumber. They are connected with a simple dowel stop arrangement that allows the gentle rocking motion of the cradle.

To obtain the pattern, specify Sketchbook Plan S-137 and send 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12,

Colonial rocking cradle can be built full-size for baby's Mabies, or half-size and be used as a child's doll cradle.

A Place for the Children

CHILDREN, an imaginative lot, love a playhouse of their very own as headquarters for innumerable games.

The one shown here has windows and a door just like all homes. It's small enough to be used indoors as well as out. The floor measures four feet by four feet with a five foot high roof. It's made of lightweight, quarter-inch plywood. The sides and roof are all hinged and may be folded into a neat package for easy handling and storage.

The cost is slight and construction is simple when you use the easy-to-follow pat-

DUESTION: Do students learn more in classes that use TV rather than in conventional classrooms?

ANSWER: Herman L. Shibler, a director in the Midwest Program on Airborne Telévision, has reviewed 400 studies comparing educational TV, and classroom teaching.

He reports:

Twenty-one per cent of the students studied learned more by educational television; 14 per cent learned somewhat less: 65 per cent showed no significant difference.

Educational television, Shibler reports, appears to be more effective in elementary school than in high school or college.

Educational television is considered important enough as a teaching tool, however, to be used in three our of five American colleges having enrollments between 10,000 and 20,000.

QUESTION: Should a student do his homework with another student?

ANSWER: Usually not.

What may start as a serious study session often ends up as a social hour.

Also, a student working with somebody else may fall into the habit of leaning heavily on others and subordinating his own judgment.

Part of education is learning to be self-reliant. A student should seek the help of others only when he has gone as far as he can by his own effort and resources.

QUESTION: What's the most important thing for a student to know on entering college?

ANSWER: How to study. The National Education Association reports that University of Rochester freshmen, asked what they wished they'd known before going to college, answered overwhelmingly; More about how to study and how to organize time.

Capturing Festivities on Film

By the Shutterbug

THE FESTIVE spirit of the coming holiday season will provide a host of opportunities for some really

T. A. GREGORY, Chairman of the Board

Free Customer Parking at 345 ELM ST,

top-notch home movies.

Children tumbling downstairs Christmas morning, reciting their first stage lines or in a school play, or creating a carrot-nosed snowman provide all of the animation and interest needed for a good movie that will become more treasured over the years

To capture your star performers at their best, here are some general shooting and equipment tips.

AS MOST OF the shooting will be done indoors, a movie light is a necessity. Portra lenses that allow you to move near a subject for close-ups will also add more impact to your movies.

An indoor film, such as Kodachrome II Film, Type A, is ideal to use for most holiday scenes. It is color balanced for shooting with a movie light indoors. It can be used without a filter to take shots of your outdoor lighted Christmas decorations. And it can be used with a filter outdoors during the day, just as you would use regular daylight color film.

TIME-TESTED techniques for better movies include:

Checking your viewfinder for the best angles and composition and shooting when the scene within the frame looks right.

Varying the angles from which you shoot — don't shoot everything from eye level.

Using plenty of close-ups. Shooting in sequence with an idea or story in mind, rather than ending up with a collection of random "snapshots." The best way to get a good flow to your movie is to make sure you start at the beginning and then film the story much as you would describe it.

FOR CHRISTMAS events, for instance, a good opening title would be to film a close-up of this year's Christmas card to set the theme immediately for the movie.

Remembering to start at the beginning, this could be

Red and white striped pajamas and caps, plus a couple of candles, give a feeling of the holiday without props.

followed by a scene of mother wrapping the gaily-colored packages and hiding them in a closet, a close-up of dad helping the children hang up their Christmas stockings, a general view of mother sending the children scampering off to bed and a close-up of dad decorating the tree.

With these preliminaries taken care of, you'll be ready to shoot a variety of scenes of the big day when the children rush down on Christmas morning, open their presents and play with their new toys.

Happy in Sun

Durable and highly serviceable is English Lavender. Knowing gardeners use it Invishly in sunny borders where it always looks presentable, though never spectacular. Its spikes of lavender are delightfully scented, as nurserymen know, and the grayish foliage is a feature in itself.

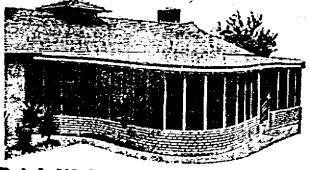

Use it in conjunction with any of the above, and you won't be disappointed.

A TITLED nost in a sometimes left a bowl of TITLED host in Spain money in the hall that de-parting guests might dip into if they wished or needed to.

A Californian may copy the European custom of having a bowl of fruit on display for a healthful snack between meals. The fruit is arranged attractively in a compote. These dishes are varied and beautiful. It may be a wooden bowl in Mexico or one of crystal and silver in France.

The idea is a good substi-tute for the cookie jar or the boaboa dish.

California, with its fresh fruits the year around, offers opportunity for the arrange-ment of an enchanting compote.

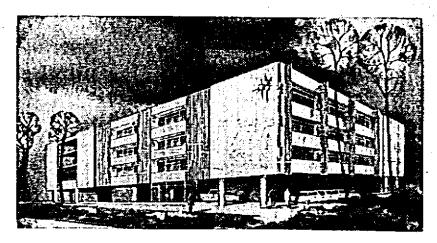

Better, most certainly, for dieters than a cookin jar or a bonbon dish is a compote of fresh California fruits.

Books Rate High on Gift Lists

By Vera Williams

O BOOK lovers, "Merry Christmas!" means fresh, new, exciting books.

High on the list of fine books, a handsome addition to any library, is "GREAT GARDENS OF THE WEST-ERN WORLD" by Peter Coats, introduction by Harold Nicolson. (Permathus Peres.) Nicolson (Promethus Press Edition, G. P. Putnam's Sons. $19.95 until Jan. 1, after that $22.95), a sumptuous pictorial treasury of the finest gardens of Europe and America. Thirty-eight gardens are described and pictured, arranged in order, showing the changing fashions from the 16th Century to the present and revealing the effect of the varying climates upon the appearance of the gardens themselves. Shown are great formal gardens of the 17th and 18th centuries in France, Italy, Spain, Germany and Russia, and several of the simpler gardens in England and Holland, where flowers and hedges predominate over the more elaborate vistas of water and statuary. In the United States, the gardens take the form of natural landscaping. For many readers these American gardens — Huntington, Cypress, Mag-nolia, Middleton, Old Westbury, and Colonial Williams--will be the most rewarding in the book. There are 40 plates in full color and 350 in monochrome.

Seven momentous decades of the names, faces and writing that have held the public eye in the arts, society, lit-erature, theater, fashion, sports and world affairs are pictured in "THE WORLD IN VOGUE" compiled by Viking Press and Vogue from 70 years of Vogue, (Viking Press, $16.) One tends to think of newspapers and magazines as ephemeral, fresh and new today, obsolete tomorrow. So it is amazing to realize how much fascinating history was recorded in the every-twoweeks magazine, winnowed and distilled in this handsome anthology. Photographs of celebrities from Sarah Bernhardt and Queen Victoria to Elizabeth Taylor and John H. Glenn Jr. are worth the price of the book.

THE AMERICAN WEST is a tremendous subject - geographically, historically, sociologically, and it is covered in THE BOOK OF THE AMER-ICAN WEST" prepared under the direction of Jay Monaghan, consultant to the Wyles collection of Lincolniana and Western Americana, Univer-sity of California, Clarence P. Honung, art director (Mess-ner, $17.50 through Dec. 24, after that $22.50.) From the arrival of the first conquistadors to the admission of the last territories to statehood, here is the Old West as it really was -- momentous events, bitter wars, the men and women who explored, opened and won an enormous wilderness. It is illustrated with drawings, paintings, en-gravings, historical maps, documentary art, representing such artists of the period as Remington, Russell, Catlin, Borein, Bodmer and Bierstadt. Ten distinguished American writers wrote the chapters, each handling his own specialty, Dale Morgan writing on explorers and mountain men, Oscar Lewis on treasures of the American West. Don Russell on Indians and soldiers, Robert Easton on guns, B. A. Botkin on Western folklore and song, etc.

ONE OF the most astonishing aspects of animal life is the way the millions of creatures in the seas, on the deserts, mountains, prairies and shores, and around men's cities fit into their environment. How do animals get in the desert, keep warm in the Arctic, withstand pressures of the ocean depths? Marston Bates, brilliant naturalist, explores these questions and many more in "ANIMAL WORLDS" (Random House, $15.) He begins with the open seas, where life started, then goes to the ocean depths, to animals on the margins of the seas and to the dazzling world of coral reefs. Next he turns to lakes, streams and landscapes, ranging from tropical forests to northern taiga and polar snow. Finally he deals with the human animal in relation to both invited and uninvited animal companions. The text supplemented by 245 superb illustrations, many in color, by some of the finest photographers in the world.

archaeological find which astounded the world and seemingly laid a curse on the members of the expedition, the vengeance of the pharaohs. What is fact and what is fancy; is the truth stranger than the legend? Christiane Desroches - Noblecourt, chief curator of the National Museum of France, and F. L. Kennett, sculpture photogra-pher, pooled their talents to produce "TUTANKHAMEN" (New York Graphic Society, publisher, $15.) Tutankhamen first tells the story of the dis-covery of the tomb by Howard Carter in 1922; then Mme. Desroches-Noblecourt sets the scene for the drama that took place in Egypt 3,300 years ago. Tutankhamen combines up-to-date text with excellent color reproduction. The artist says art objects from Tutankhamen's tomb never before were photographed out of their cases in color, Newest book by Sigurd Olson, author of "The Singing Wil-tess," "Listening Post" and "The Lonely Land," is "RUNES OF THE NORTH" (Knopl, $5), a potpourri of runes (tales of magic and mystery), legends, yarns and wilderness experiences from Canada and Alaska.

It's Desert Fun Time

By Fred Taylor Kraft

THE TIME has come to visit the desert. South-tanders are doing just that, too, and enjoying to the fullest the warm days and cool nights in California desert resort cities, such as Palm Springs, and ranging as far east as Arizona.

But it takes more than a weekend to drive into the Arizona landscape, unhurriedly, and rediscover scenery that is truly spectacular,

For instance, there's Oak Creek Canyon, between Prescott and Flagstaff, a riot of color at any time of the year and particularly so right now.

Steep red, white and gray walls of ancient stone—sometimes decorated with emerald splashes of juniper and pine, and changing colors of other trees—rise dramatically above the winding creek for miles through a national forest recreation area.

Ieaves at this time adds much to the beauty of the scene.

THERE'S ANOTHER reason for meandering through this area, according to reports from Phoenix. The northern segment of the Black Canyon Highway between Phoenix and Flagstaff has taken away the bulk of the heavy motor travel, especially the through traffic and heavy trucking. By doing so, it has brought relative peace and calmness once again to this region where Zane Grey wrote "Call of the Canyon" and where moviemakers have been filming typically scenic western backgrounds for years.

Dude ranches, many of which are located in the Wickenburg area, are fast filling with those who spend entire vacations on the desert. And why not? Horseback riding, chuckwagon dinners and music around a campfire, moonlight picnics, golf, tennis, shuffleboard, and even horseshoe pitching—all these things are offered at these colorful ranches.

Arizona deserts offer a surprise on every turn—Indian museums, ghost towns, a hearty prospector with his pack mules, and even an opportunity to look for lost gold mines.

IN ADDITION to things to see on the desert, Arizonans are constantly cooking up something special for its winter visitors. A few of these include:

Heard's Museum Hopi Exhibit, Jan. 17-Feb. 2; Parada del Sol, Jan. 31-Feb. 2; Parade of Bands beginning in February and continuing to June; Phoenix Open Golf Tournament, Feb. 6-9; Wickenburg Gold Rush Days, Feb. 7-9; Phoenix Dons Club Lost Dutchman Trek, March 1; and the Phoenix World Championship Rodeo of Rodeos, March 12-13.

If you like the desert—and who doesn't once in a while—it all means fun in the sun.

PHOENIX is a golfer's paradise. In the Arizona capital and its environs are 34 fine courses. Of these, 11 are 18-hole municipal or semi-private courses open to the public, and 10 are 18-hole private courses, some of which honor membership cards in other USGA clubs. Two of the 34 courses are lighted for night play.

It is on the 18-hole Phoenix Country Club course that the 29th annual $50,000 Phoenix Open will be played Feb. 6-9.

IF YOU'RE thinking about visiting Phoenix, write to the Vacation Advisor, Phoenix Chamber of Commerce, for a quick rundown of vital, up-to-date information on the area contained in "Facts About Phoenix." You can also get "Where to Stay in Phoenix

"Do you answer letter questions directly? I would like any information on Mexico. Can you answer this if you are overseas?"

TRY TO send individual replies. Some letters I get ask enough to fill a book. Sometimes I don't know—but I try to tell you how to find out. Sometimes I forget. And I can't carry files with me.

In your case, I get a boiled down version of your letter on tape, Answer goes back to my office on tape. They have already sent you a printed sheet of travel advice from columns I've written on Mexico. If you sent a dime and a self-addressed stamped envelope, we appreciate it. If you didn't, you got it anyway. Be my guest.

"Q: You mentioned a good seafood restaurant in London. But I have forgotten what it was...."

(TAPE ANSWER): Wheeler's Oyster House. There are three in London. But the one I mean is a Christmas card where with leaded place with leaded windows just behind Picadilly. (O'Hara look up address in London restaurant file.) (Duke of York Street off Jarmyn at Apple Tree Yard.) About 20 ways of cooking sole.

"Q: I don't have much money but want to go to Europe more than anything. Would it be cheaper to fly from Mexico City? I could go there by bus."

I NEVER HEARD of fares being cheaper from Mexico you must be thinking of saving the U.S. tax on air fares. However—I have heard it is cheaper from Canada. I would check rates on Canadian Pacific. Surely Montreal-London is cheaper than San Francisco-London.

Bus to Montreal or Vancouver must be cheaper than air. But you have to eat and sleep enroute. So you'd have to figure that and see if you really

The cheapest air fare is still on Icelandic Airlines—a company that is not a member of the price-fixing airline association, IATA. Slower planes but excellent safety record. Usually booked up several months in advance. Main offices, New York City.

*Q: Is there a restaurant in the Eiffel Tower in Paris? And is it worthwhile for a place to cat?"

THERE IS-1 think there are two. Anyway, I wasn't greatly impressed. It seemed pretty big and I didn't get a seat near a window. Prices were moderate and all French food is good. Better view and more elegance at the Tour d'Argent—but this is a high-priced and Michelin three-star restaurant.

A restaurant that has a garden effect and a lot of Fatis atmosphere: Cioserie des Lilas on Boulevard Montparnasse. Any Paris taxi-driver knows

"Q: (O'Hara to Deloplane: Reader writing asking about British tourist office ads that you can travel in Britain on $14 a day.)" I THINK $25 is more like it and am against pushing publicity handout dreams. You might do England on $14. But I think this is crowding it down to bare eating, sleeping and one Shakespeare show.

"Would we do better to ship our own car (which has more room than foreign cars) to Europe? We have two children..."

GASOLINE at 90 cents a gallon is going to be murder if you run an American car. And there are plenty of European cars that will hold four and luggage. Rent. (You have about $200 each way shipping and insurance charges too.)

"Q: There was a place in London where you could get toy soldiers...."

WELL, THE soldiers are authentically dressed period models—actually collector's items. There's = little shop in Shepherd's Market — right across the corner from Shepherd's. An excellent pub and restaurant by the way. Shepherd's Market is a hideaway little district behind bustling Picadilly, Supposed to be residential area for Christine Keeler types, But the area is quiet and you'll find it charming.

Break for Fido

Some hotels and motels reject dogs and others accept them but the motorist stands a good chance of getting the family pooch in for the night if he adopts a few simple rules. The AAA recommends that in case of doubt the owner take his dog by the leash and introduces him to the management with a solemn pledge as to his good behavior.

One motel chain provides separate kennels for Fido at all its establishments and one motel near Washington offers him a couple of playthings.

Tiny, satin-smooth Ch. Flaminia of Alpine is first of breed, Italian greyhound, to become a U. S. champion.

FIRST and, at this writing, only toy Italian greyhound to take a best-in-show in America is Ch. Flaminia of Alpine, owned by Jane S. Gosden and leased to Russo Kennels, 2026 Cahuenga Blid. Hollywood. Her triumph was very recent. Flaminia has more than a fine porcelainlike beauty and a high-step-ping gait. She has a sunbeam charm and is very loving. I know, for I've held her and

The Italian greyhound is quite rare, although the breed dates back to ancient times. It could be that a few miniature greybounds existed in the days of the Pharaohs of Egypt, for some claim that a mummy of one was found in a tomb, possibly at Abydos. I know of no supporting evidence of this.

THE BREED really comes from Italy and there it is called Piccoli Levrieri Italiani. Relics date the breed back to the days of ancient Pompeii. Just how a large greyhound was dwarfed is not known. But royal ladies of the ancient courts fancied toy dogs, and when women want something, they usually get it. In this instance they greyhounds for lap dogs.

The breed has figured in art. One painting is of Mary Beatrice D'Easte, consort of James II, with her Italian greyhound. It is said the dog appears coarse and does not compare to those owned by Queen Victoria, GRADUALLY the breed found a certain amount of popularity in the United States, which was fortunate because, during World War I, the little dog almost disappeared from the Old World. Englishmen came knocking at our gates, an unprecedented happening, and took home good breeding stock, Although he appears exquisitely delicate, the Italian greyhound is active and hardy, and his bones are no more brittle than any other toy dog. His short coat makes him chilly only in extremely cold weather. And he is so clean a careful rubbing with silk or chamois can usually take the place of a bath. He is normally calm and quiet and has a wenderful tempera-

Sturdy grower with long, nearly thorn-free stems and rich pink flowers, Effel Tower rose has a good future.

By Joe Littlefield

OSES come and roses go, but it looks like one of several exceptionally good roses, Eiffel Tower, will be around and popular for a long time. We had read about this rose having four-inch flower buds on three-foot stems. A specimen Eiffel

Tower rose that won a special award at the recent El Monte Community Garden Club show flower wasn't quite as large as that, nonetheless it was an outstandingly rose!

This vigorous, tall growing rose with nearly thorn

Relief for Sore Throats

Few people know that Benedict Arnold, before his traitorous exploits, worked in a throat elixir factory in Connecticut and later opened up his own apothecary shop, dispensing such popular 18th century throat remedies as solutions of garlic, brown sugar and rose water.

In parts of this country, some people still suck horehound drops for a sore throat, and swathe their necks in flannel soaked with warm camphorated oil.

But whether your favorite sore throat remedy is ultramodern or homey and old-fashioned, throat specialists stress the importance of 48 hours of bed rest for a sore throat, plus a high-protein diet plenty of liquids-and no smoking. If the infection is stubborn or severe, call a doctor; a sore throat can be serious business.

New Rose Has Good Future

free, long stems topped with rich, pastel pink flowers, originated by Armstrong Nurseries, is most desirable one for the rose garden. Plant these vigorous Eiffels at the back row of the rose bed, because they grow five to six feet tall.

BE SURE to firm the soil around roots with the round end of a trowl or shovel handle, because tamping the soil with shoe heels simply doesn't firm it enough. Unless new growth shows on newly planted bare-root roses wrap some form of a cloth cover, even if it is an old bed sheet, around the branches right to the ground. Wet the cover thoroughly daily unless the weather is cloudy or damp, and be sure to keep the soil moist until roses have sprouted new growth. These two factors are the main keys to sprouting roses quickly.

group of three of each variety chosen. This way, they have more flowers of the same color to pick for table decoration, or more flowers to choose for flower show competition. Several roses of the same variety planted in groups in a rose bed also supmore dramatic color effects, provided the colors are wisely selected to blend with other colors, or to complement the others.

ROSES GENERALLY are smaller in ultimate growth than camellias, and naturally take up less space. Camellias actually should be spaced about twice as far apart as the roses,

Warm, windy, driving weather causes good blooming camellia flower buds to brown and glaze as they barely begin to open. They stop developing, rot, and drop off. Gardener should be conscious of the drastic and sudden weather changes. They cold, preferably moist atmosphere to produce best flowers. During unusual mild winter weather, gardeners should shower bathe the plants, regardless of the open blossoms on the plants, lowering the drying conditions and providing some humidity. Gardeners may have longer blooming season with their favorite varieties by planting pairs, one plant in lots of shade and the other in up to half day of sun-excepting in hot, dry localities. We're referring to the Japonica type which is the favorite type of most gardeners.

AN EXAMPLE, planted a Debutante camellia on the west side of the house where it gets a half day of sun. Later, we cut down a Eureka variety which is a stingy bloomer, and budded a Debutante to it. The plant in the west exposure side of the house blooms three to five weeks earlier than the one in shade on north side of house. Blossoms develop quicker and the flowers open fuller. Flowers of the one in shade open later, are not quite as large, but have a richer pink color. Between the two we have about a month and longer of Debutante blossoms!

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week. . . . Start crabgrass control now by knocking the seeds with one of the available controls. Your nurseryman will recommend one.

Prepare new planting beds for new bare-root roses.

Start thinking about a gift for your gardening friend. Plants in bloom, a book on gardening or a special gadget are good choices.

Geraniums will bloom this winter if you bring them indoors by a sunny window and keep them watered.

Select a living Christmas tree this week, while supply is still good. Nurserymen have several varieties to offer.

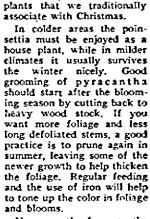

Make sure newly planted trees are solidly staked against possible wind damage this

Mulch around shrubs with steer manure, If you fertilize this time of year, use a slow-acting plant food such as bone meal.

Plant perennials for spring bloom. Delphinium, day lify, sweet William, Canterbury bells, coral bells and many others may go in now.

Major pruning should wait until winter sets in, but weak or dead growth can be removed from shrubs and trees this month.

New growth of pyracantha and cotoneaster can be pruned away to expose the brilliant berries without harm to the plants.

Sprigs of any of these berried shrubs also can be cut and used as Christmas decorations inside the house. All of these plants are hardy and new growth returns rapidly.

Spray the cut sprigs with an insecticide containing a fatty acid emulsion before bringing them into the house. It will clean them up and put , a lasting thine on the foliage.

Rooftop Treasure: Purple Glass

"glass purpler"-and she has glass as beautiful as any "purpled" by the desert sun. Tones range from lavendar to violet to amethyst to purple so deep it approaches black.

Mrs. Kloehn became interested in the hobby 10 years ago when she picked up some purple glass from behind Diamond Lil's home in the ghost town of Calico.

SHE HAS the most success with pressed glass, manufac-tured before World War L. That glass contains a great deal of manganese. Glass made during and immediately after World War I contains a great deal of selenium, which turns amber in prolonged sunlight. Present-day glass does not appreciably change color, Mrs. Kloehn finds.

Most glass "purples" in from two to four years. After that the color usually deepens -but sometimes it fades, and she does not know why.

Mrs. Klochn has displayed purple" glass in the annual Hobby Show and the annual Gem and Mineral Show here.

BILL WELCH New and Surprising

RIGHT NEW menus will be introduced this week at the beauteous Tenderloin restaurant, 4363 Atlantic Ave, And they contain some surprises for the dining out public.

The Tenderloin is offering a number of sumptuous new entrees priced in the popular $2 range. This new policy, effective today, means that The Tenderloin's price structure will be more in keeping with that of its nearby sister restaurant, Wekh's, also owned by Rex Welch.

The Tenderloin, with its white, gold and black modern decor, is unquestionably one of the most attractive Restaurants in Southern California. Its service, by teams of highly trained waiters, is outstandingly thoughtful and efficient. The staff includes the following waiters who have international training and polish: David Nelson from London; Roberto Ortiz from Mexicó City; Shahine Farzad, Teharan; Wilhelm von Poelgeest, Amsterdam, and John Perlinger, Montreal.

Among the new entrees offered by manager Bill Welch (Rex's brother) are breast of chicken in a rich wine sauce, $2.50; sauteed chicken livers with rice, $2.50; sand dabs maitre d' hotel, $1.95, and chicken fried steak, $2.25. These include marvelous salad, mixed by the waiter at the table in a huge bowl on a bed of ice; outstanding baked potato or rice, dark and light sourdough breads and beverage.

Also available are The Tenderloin's cuts of glorified eastern prime beef, including a variety of tenderloin, top sirloin and New York cut steaks, plus superb prime rib au jus, priced from $4.50. Closed Mondays, the restaurant serves dinner daily and Sunday from 5 p.m. on. Inocheca is Tucaday through Firday from 11:30 or.

BERT'S EYE VIEW

Living Doll' from 'Petticoat Junction' Serious Thinker

By BERT RESNIK Ty and Radio Editor

The average man looking at beauteous red-headed Jeannine Riley could hardly respond with less of a thought than:

"What a living doli!"
It is because Jeannine is a living doll-and can act, too -that she was cast as Billie Jo in the CBS-TV's Tuesday night "Petticoat Junction."

That's why it is a little startling when such a gorgeous girl, who portrays a relatively boy-crazy teenager in the TV series, comes up with a philosophy of life such as:

"The mind is the key to inner strength."

NOW IT ISN'T that Jeannine is fighting her physical beauty. It's part of her and she's not complaining. But beauty isn't enough for her.

"I think about becoming a better person and I don't find it by trying to perfect my face in the mirror every morning."

she said.
"I find it by watching, reading, listening and by doing."
Anyone who has read any newspaper stories about beautiful girls in Hollywood should recognize this appreach.

It sounds like the usual press-agentry, to wit:

"Who says that a gorgeous Hollywood star can't have brains along with beauty?"

THE USUAL press agent was sitting with Jeannine and I during the luncheon interview and his mouth gaped open at her next statements. Matter of fact, it gaped almost as wide as mine did.

"Metaphysics," said Jeannine, 'is an organized thought process. It is constructive thinking in a positive way.

"I use it and it applies. The only thing I haven't mustered is the time element."

There are two things a reporter can do when the person he's interviewing brings up a subject about which he knows nothing.

He can say to himself, "What a kook!" and change the subject.

JEANNINE was introduced

Six months later she read it.

"It made me feel an awareness," she said. "It made me ask myself, 'What's really important? What's really beautiful? What's really good?"

In the final analysis it did something else for Jeannine. It made her decide to believe in herself.

COWBOY & THE TIGER—The musical fantasy about a small Texas boy who meets a fugitive tiger he wants as his horse gets a repeat showing at 12 noon, ch. 7. David Wayne narrates the hour which met high acclaim after its Thanksgiving Day showing.

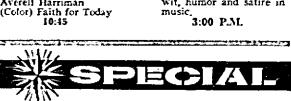

1776-Fredric March will speak the words of George Washington, with other actors, including Philip Bourneuf, recreating the voices of Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, Benjamin Frank-lin and other "Founding Fathers" in the second of the 4-part "Saga" series at 6:30 p.m., in color, ch. 7 ("1492," with March as Columbus, will be re-shown Dec. 29). Actual treasures of the American Revolution are seen in re-enactments filmed in Boston, Philadelphia, Williamsburg, Lexington and Concord as we relive 1776, the year that launched a world revolution that has not yet ended, as man demanded freedom, economic opportunity and recognition of his personal dignity.

JUDY GARLAND—Guest Mickey Rooney sings, dances, plays the drums and joins with Judy in tunes they sang together in the movies "Girl Crazy," "Babes in Arms" and "Strike Up in the movies "Girl Crary," "Babes in Arms" and "Strike Up the Band." Produced by George Schlatter before a star-studded audience last June, show was postponed at Rooney's request so that the song medley could be added. The revised version, now sans Jerry Van Dyke, is at 9 p.m., ch. 2.

THE BEST ON RECORD—Past winners of the recording industry's Grammy Awards are saluted in a full-hour special at 10 p.m., ch. 4. Taking part, as either introducers or performers, are Frank Sinatra, Allan Sherman, Bing Crosby, Mahalia Jackson, Homer and Jethro, Connie Francis, the New Christy Minstrels, Tony Bennett, Richard Rodgers, Diahann Carroll and "."2." Peter, Paul and Mary.

BOB HOPE AND BING CROSBY appear on "The Road to Tiltsville" as they prepare for their comedy special at 8:30 p. m. Friday on channel 4. Hope's appearance will be limited to pre-taped sequences made before medical treatment was ordered for his left eye. Jack Benny will handle most of Hope's chores.

THE RABBI WAS MILLION LAUGHS

Up Ministry for Show-Biz

By VERNON SCOTT HOLLYWOOD (UPI)-Rabbi Jacob Maza was a miltion laughs at parties and community dinners, so after six years in the ministry he quit his calling to become a full-time comedian.

He changed his name to Jackie Mason who is now a rapid fire monologist with an hilarious Yiddish accent, (He guests on 'The Garry More Show' at 10 p.m. Tuesday, channel 2.)

If I had wanted to stay a rabbi I'd be the most popular rabbi in the world by now," Mason said, his speaking voice exactly the same as it is on the Ed Sullivan show and in night clubs.

is at his best talking about himself.

"I was the rabbi of Weldon, N. C." he said morosely. "There were only 100 Jewish families in the congregation. I worked a little humor into my services, but at social functions I became a real comedian.

"Pretty soon they wanted me to entertain at community clubs. So I did. I was even a regular for the Ku Klux Klan. . . . .

WHEN I QUIT the temple my family was upset. My father was a rabbi in Russia, Wisconsin and New York, My three brothers are rabbis. And all the generations of my family going back centuries were rabbis. I was the first one to leave the ministry.

"They were broken-hearted and disowned me. Then when I became a hit as'a comedian they took my picture out again and I was allowed to rejoin the family.

"It wasn't easy getting started, I played the Jewish mountains—the Catskills, It's an easy place to work. There are 500 hotels, almost all of them small with owners so cheap they'll hire almost anybody for nothing. It's a good deal for both sides.

"During the summer everything was fine, but when the hotels closed 1 starved. 1 sold shoes and worked in department stores, but I wasn't very good. Finally I began working benefits and for free in night clubs. Then I began making $50 a night at dinners and Banquets, And after a while I worked the big hotels in the mountains."

CHESTER CONKLIN

Keystone Kop Comedy 'Play-by-Ear'

HOLLYWOOD (UPD) Chester Conklin, an original Keystone Kop, will be hopping all over the video screen at 9:30 p.m. Monday, channel 4, when Mack Sennett's old one-reelers unfold in "The Funny Men," the first of a two-parter.

In honor of the occasion Chester made a special trip to Hollywood,

At 77 he lives at the Motion Picture Country House, dream-like institution in Calabasas, Calif., where old movie folk live and re-live their days of glory.

Chester is spry, garrulous and in excellent health.

"I DON'T know where they dug up all that old film of the Keystone Kops," he said. "About three years ago one of the oldtimers went back to New York to take the negatives out of storage to show on TV. But the film was so bad and storage so slipshod the negatives were all stuck together.

'They couldn't salvage a single reel from the whole collection. And you can take my word for it, we made hundreds of those comedies. I made two Kops' pictures a week for five years."

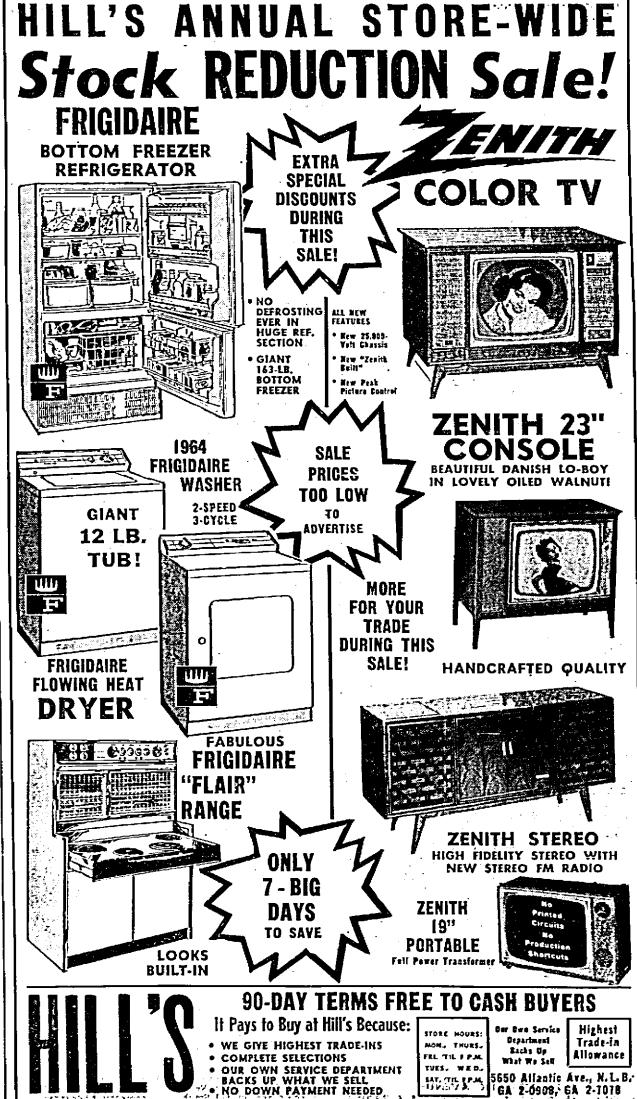

Conklin's face shows nary a trace of the thousands of cream pies that splattered against it. But there's a twinkle in his eye.

"I'd love to have been able to grab those one-reelers," he said, "They'd be worth more than a million dollars today. . . . .

"THEY CAN'T make comedies like the Keystone Kops these days. We'd set up our cameras on any street in Los Angeles and if a crowd gathered we'd hire a few cops on the spot to keep the people away from the action.

"Anyhow, producers and directors aren't around any-more to think up the stunts and gags. In the old days we'd just start with an idea without a script—and play it by ear.

"We'd think up jokes and gags as we went along. Such thing is unheard of these days."

RAYMOND BURR . . . A Fireplace, Book and a Man's Dreams

The house that "Perry Mason" built currently is awe-inspiring and eventually will represent more than a million dollars.

That's the amount of money — principally from "fees" collected by Perry — that Raymond Burr, who portrays the TV lawyer, plans to put into the home.

It's located on a 150-foot Malibu bluff and affords an inspirational view of the Pacific Ocean.

Its two and a half acres of grounds are a botanist's dream, planted in hundreds of varieties of flowers, shrubs and trees.

Burr was delighted recently to hear an airline pilot tell him his home was a landmark for aircraft.

"The pilot said it's the only green cliff along the coastline in this area," Burn said.

AT THE MOMENT Burn's house has 12 rooms (three bedrooms, one bath). But the outsized actor is in the process of building a new wing which will eventually transform the edifice into a 24-room mansion.

A widower, Burr certainly does not need that much space for himself.

"Quite right," he says, "But some day I hope to turn it all ever to a foundation of some kind for the promotion of better communication among people." Each of the new rooms has a definite function — there are music rooms, offices, libraries, health rooms, laundry, gallery, study, recreation room, bedrooms and an apartment for servants.

FIVE OR SIX nights a week he spends at a special apartment at the old Charlie Chaplin studies in Hollywood which have been converted into CBS-TV facilities. What was once a stable has been made into a suite for four offices, kitchen, bath and bedroom.

Because his schedule calls for 12 to 18 hours of work each day—Eurr is in almost every scene of his hour show—he simply doesn't have time to spend an hour before and after work commuting to Malibu.

In sharp contrast to his closets at home, Burr's studio apartment is crowded with 55 suits and thousands of neckties, socks, shirts and undergarments.

Here's a gift that will keep on giving for its and your entire long life — a gift of health — a gift that cannot be measured by money.

Imagine! From this Christmas on, you will have at your fingertips the opportunity to erase tension, minor muscular aches and pains, sprains and bruises, aching back... or ease the pain of many chronic ailments.

- The vigorous hydromassage with torrents of bursting air bubbles peps up local blood circulation—helps refresh and revitalize.
- The surging warm water provides heat and massage at the same time — brings complete relaxation . . . promotes sound, restful sleep.
- The tingling action invigorates and stimulates every part of the body — converts your bathtub to a 20th Century "Fountain of Youth."

SUSPENSE THEATRE James Whitmore and Richard Crenna star in roles differing from their previous series images, and French actress from their previous series images, and French actress Francoise Ruggieri makes her U. S. TV debut as a French Begirl, in the color drama of murder and revenge at 10 p.m., ch. 4. The one-time high-minded attorney of "Law and Mr. Jones" plays a fast-talking military-lawyer who resorts to unethical but legal trickery, while the former rural comic Luke McCoy has a straight dramatic role as a psychopathic G. I. facing court-martial for killing his sadistic sergeant. The story is told in flash-back from the lawyer's office where, 20 years later, the dishonorably discharged soldier decides to right the old wrong by killing. Arch Johnson, Ron Hayes, Philip Abbott, Chana Eden and Christopher Dark are featured.

In regard to Mrs. Maynard's letter of Dec. 1, I also have children. They are aged 5 and 6 and 1 tried to convey to them the importance of why there were no children's shows on during that unforgettable weekend.

Even at their young age they realized that all that was important enough to capture every adult's attention and therefore entertained them-

I pray to God we shall never have another such tragedy.

But I gratefully acknowledge the complete news coverage on television which enabled us to watch, as it was happening, what will surely be in our children's history books.

We must remember that television is not solely for entertainment and, above all, is not THE SOLE ENTER-TAINMENT for our children. Mrs. R. D. Gurzi,

I think you are qualified to listen to our complaint and forward it to proper channels.

We are an average working family and enjoy early evening shows of good quality.

People in our income
bracket, eight to ten thousand yearly, are the people who respond to products advertised by sponsors. But this season we find that, consistent with our normal early rising hour, we have no enter-tainment but last year's re-

Consequently, we are reverting to radio and the public library, but we unhappily miss good entertainment from 7:30 to 10.

Mrs. H. Dreier, Long Beach Using last Monday's TV log from 7:30 p.m. through 9:30 p.m., Mrs. Dreier, I find that original programs outnumber repeats 15 to 6. Maybe you're using last year's television set.

I never miss your "Pan and Fan" column. It's just not long enough.

Q. I am confused about President Kennedy's sisters and brothers. Supposedly the President is one of 9 children. How come only 6 are usually mentioned in the press?—Olicia Farley, Greensboro, N.C.

A. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy had 9 children. Their oldest, Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., was killed during the war. A daughter, Kathleen, Lady Hartington, was later killed in a plane crash. There are currently 7 surviving Kennedy children: The President, John F. Kennedy; the U.S. Attorney General, Robert; the junior senator from Massachusetts, Edward; Patricia, wife of actor Peter Lawford; Eunice, wife of Peace Corps head Sargent Shriver; Jean, the wife of Stephen Smith; and Rosemary Kennedy, 45, mentally retarded and currently living in a Catholic institution in Wisconsin.

Q. How much money does Elvis Presley get per motion picture?—Jiggs Hanley, Memphis, Tenn. A. Presley gets $500,000 a film, is asking $750,000 each for future commitments.

Q. Does the name Haile Selassie have a special meaning? — Lena Hampton, Norfolk, Va.

A. Haile Selassie is emperor of Ethiopia. The name itself means "power of Holy Trinity."

Q. Child star Margaret O'Brien — is it true she's broke and is now reduced to working in burlesque? — F. T. Morehouse, Seattle, Wash.

A. Former' child star O'Brien does not work in burlesque. She is far from broke. Her mother invested her daughter's earnings in Los Angeles real estate, and the investments have been most profitable. Margaret now works on the road in legitimate theater.

Q. I would like to know how old actress Pola Negri is. I understand the's now making a comeback in films.—Dee Illimer, New York, N.Y.

A. Pola Negri is 64.

Q. Who said: "There is no index of character to sure as the voice"?—Elaine Boucher, Baltimore, Md. A. Benjamin Disraeli, English statesman and writer (1804-1881).

Q. Is it true that Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor will next star in the film version of Lady Chatterley's Lover?—Vincent Lucchese, Newark, N.J. A. There is some talk about it at MGM.

Q. How much does Willie Mays earn per year in salary from the San Francisco Giants as opposed to the Giants' president, Horace Stoneham?—J. P. I., Oakland, Calif.

A. Stoneham was paid $70,000 in 1963; Mays was paid $105,000.

Q. What is wrong with the Jerry Lewis TV thow?— B. T., Passaic, N.J. A. Jerry Lewis

Q. Please tell me what has become of Ramon Mercador, the man who killed Leon Trotsky.—Roy Tyrrell, Peoria. Ill.

A. In 1940, Jacques Mornard, alias Ramon Mercador, a 26 year-old Spanish Communist agent, on orders from Stalin, inveigled his way into Trotsky's house in Mexico by seducing one of Trotsky's female disciples. He then smashed in Trotsky's head with an ice hammer. He was sentenced to 20 years in jail and released in 1960. Supposedly, he headed for Prague or Moscow. No one knows for sure. It may well be, however, that Mercador was murdered by Communist agents because he knew too much. His present whereabouts are unknown.

Q. Will former British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan be offered an earldom by the Queen? Isn't that the usual reward?—G. T., Washington, D.C. A. Yes, it is, but Macmillan, like Churchill, may decline the earldom, prefer to remain in the House of Commons.

Q. Adolf Hitler had a well-known interpreter, Otto Schmidt. What's happened to him?—Robert Hayworth, San Bernardino, Calif.

A. Dr. Paul Otto Schmidt today runs one of the largest schools for interpreters in Europe, lives in Munich.

Q. The daddy of Secretary of State Dean Rusk was he really a mailman?—Ruth Marshburn, Kinston, N.C.

A. Yes, in Atlanta, Ga.

Q. Can you reveal how much money Pablo Picasso has contributed to the Castro cause in Cuba?—Fiorita Coronado, Miami, Fla. A. No money, although he recently sent a portrait of his wife, Jacqueline, to the Cuban embassy in Paris to be auctioned off. The funds from the painting are to be sent to victims of Hurricane Flora, which struck Cuba in October.

Q. Is it true that the French run their buses on wine not fit for human consumption?—B. Reisch, Indianapolis, Ind.

A. From time to time, they do. For example, from 1945 to 1955, motor fuel alcohol derived in part from grape wine was used to move French buses equipped with engines capable of running on such alcohol.

WHY WOMEN DRINK. An estimated one out of every six alcoholics in this country is a female. Why do these girls drink? Generally, men are to blame. A woman drinks because:
(1) She wants a husband and doesn't have one; (2) to accompany her drinking husband; (3) to get even with her husband; (4) to bolster her courage to revolt or to tell her husband or boy friend off. There are other explanations for serious alcoholism, of course, but the above reasons are the major ones.

KHRUSHCHEV & CASTRO. Soviet bloc aid to Cuba has been severely cut, and the Soviet may withdraw from Havana practically all of its technicians. Reason: Castro has been wooing the Chinese Reds, much to the irritation of the Russian Reds. Red China contributed $1.000,000 to the Cuban victims of Hurricane Flora. Russia contributed $75.000. Because the hurricane destroyed much of the Cuban sugar crop, it looks as if the Russians will now have to buy sugar, as well as wheat, in the open market. In Short, other than for tobacco and cigars -- which most East Europeans don't want -- Cuba has become an economic millstone around Khrushchev's neck.

PAY-OFF. How accurately does the Bobby Baker scandal mirror the materialism of young America? Robert Baker, 36, former secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority, began his Washington career as a Senate page 22 years ago. The major part of his young life was spent in government. Did this imbue him with a desire for further service to his country or with a greed to feather his own financial nest? In his case, the answer is obvious: a law partnership, a travel agency, a club for lobbyists, two homes, an ocean resort, a vending company, a restaurant, seemingly anything for a buck. Is Bobby Baker atypical? Or is this why many men enter government? Look at Congress. It insists that cabinet officers and others in the executive branch divest themselves of private financial interests which might conflict with their government service. But congressmen themselves refuse even to divulge their own financial holdings. Are we becoming a nation of wheelers and dealers interested only in the personal pay-off? This is a good time to ask why men enter politics. Is it to serve or self-serve?

TRUE STORY. Before she took her. own life a few weeks ago. Diana Spencer Churchill, 54, eldest daughter of Sir Winston Churchill. had a secret voluntary job--talking people out of suicide. On the job she used her middle name. Mrs. Spencer. "Mrs. Spencer" answered the phone, Mansion House 9000. That's the number at St. Stephen's Church in London people ring up when they are lonely, distressed, on the verge of suicide. Her task was to listen to these unhappy souls, to pep them up with an inspiring, lifesaving message. How unfortunate that she could not use the same therapy on herself.

AGGRESSION. wan has more aggression than wild animals, the scientists declare. Dr. Harrison Matthews. Scientific Director of the London Zoo, reveals, for example: "The weapons of wild animals are potentially so dangerous that fighting is ritualized into display, threat, submission and appeasement, so that fights are generally no more than trials of strength followed by disengagement and rapid withdrawal by the weaker. In man. however, aggression is so uncontrolled that it leads to wholesale killings within a species. Why is human aggression more intense and deep-seated than animal aggression? Man, apparently, is meaner and less morally inhibited in fighting for positions of power.

AUSTRALIA AND THE U.S. The decision to equip the Royal Australian Air Force with American TFX planes in preference to British aircraft means that Australia plans to link more closely with U.S. defense strategy in the Far East. In all probability, Australian air crews will come to the U.S. for training, and we will base a bomber force somewhere on Australian soil.

TO BE REPLACED. The Cunard Line, having been loaned close to $50,000,000 by the British government, will build a new luxury liner to replace the Queen Mary, at 81,000 tons the second-largest liner in the world. The Queen Elizabeth at 83,670 tons is first.

ABORTION IN JAPAN. According to Mrs. Shizue Kato, a member of the Upper House of the Japanese diet, about 1,000 foreign women annually combine abortions with sight-seeing in Japan. In her country abortion is cheap, legal and easy. An estimated 1,500,000 to 1,900,000 Japanese women each year visit neighborhood clinics for that purpose. The standard fee is now $11. In fact, abortion is so easy in Japan that the government is afraid the abortion rate may soon exceed the country's birth rate.

FACT OF FINANCE. Approximately 1% of U.S. taxpayers own almost half of all the stocks held by individuals in this country. So reports the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School in a study, Characteristics of Stock Ownership.

CHICAGO CLIPPING. Minimum haircut rates for men in Chicago are now $2.25 on weekdays, $2.50 on Saturdays, making haircut prices there the highest in the nation. In Hollywood there are a few barber stylists who trim movie colony heads at $7.50 per haircut and up. But only the stars can afford them.

NEW DISEASE. To "tennis elbow" and "housemaid's knee," you can now add a new disease: "howler's finger." It's a condition characterized by joint-swelling of the middle finger and comes from too much bowling, particularly with a too-heavy ball.

DO YOU HAVE TO BE A MILLIONAIRE TO BECOME PRESIDENT?

by Lloyd Shearer

States is a millionaire 10 times over. Richest man ever to sit in the White House, he does not accept his yearly salary of $100,000.

As of this writing, his leading potential rivals in the 1964 Presidential race are Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania and Gov. George Romney of Michigan. All are millionaires.

The wealthiest of this foursome is, of course, Gov. Rockefeller. He has an estimated $200,000,000 fortune, the major portion in stock of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Sen. Barry Goldwater sold his three department and men's wear stores in Arizona in September, last year, to Associated Dry Goods for 57,052 shares of Associated stock at approximately $39 a share, worth roughly $2,250,000. Reportedly this sum was divided three ways among the senator, his brother Bob, still president of the Goldwater Stores, and a sister. Sen. Goldwater remains thairman of the board of the Goldwater Stores at approximately $7,500 a year. The senator's wife, Peg, the former Peggy Johnson of Muncie, Ind., is the wealthy-in-her-own-right daughter of R. P. Johnson and niece of C. S. Davis, founders of the highly successful Borg-Warner Corporation.

Another inheritor of great wealth is Gov. William Warren Scranton of Pennsylvania, who inherited an estimated $10,000,000 from his mother, the late Mrs. E. Worthington Scranton, a Republican National Committeewoman for 23 years, known in political circles as The Duchess. The governor's ancestors started a foundry in 1840 in Northeastern Pennsylvania and gave their name to the town which bears it.

Michigan's Gov. George Romney, prophet of the compact car and former president and chairman of American Motors, is a millionaire by virtue of exercising a stock option on 102,305 shares, accorded him while he was an automotive executive at salaries plus bonuses ranging from $100,000 to $149,000 per year. Of the four possible Republican Presidential candidates, Romney is the only one who began life as a poor boy, inherited nothing of substantial material value and earned his own millions.

WHAT BECAME OF THE LCG CABIN?

What's happened to the traditional American belief that the candidate born of poor but honest parents in a log cabin is blessed with a political advantage? Has the log cabin image become passé in America? Have we passed from the era of the common man to the century of the common millionaire? Is it possible that the so-called poor man will never again be elected to the Presidency?

Several weeks ago PARADE polled the members of the U.S. Senate for their thinking on the following question: "Do you think it probable that in the future a nonmillionaire can be elected to the U.S. Presklency, campaign expenses being what they are?"

Half of these brave men refused to answer, one explaining his refuctance by pointing out: "This whole question of campaign funds is a tricky one. The object is to get elected and re-elected without selling your soul. It calls for a good deal of tightrope-walking, and if you don't mind, I'd rather chicken out on the discussion." Other senators, however, spoke their minds. Said Sen. George Smathers of Florida: "Possible but extremely difficult.

"From my experience in my own campaign," Smathers went on, "plus serving as chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee for six years and having participated actively in the recent Presidential campaign, it becomes ever clearer to me that until we broaden the base of campaign contributions through a tax credit program such as the President has recommended and I have introduced, it is going to be difficult for a man to run for President unless he is a millionaire or is financed by well to-do interests to the point where he really is not a free man."

Here is a representative group of other senatorial answers:

Sen. Vance Hartke (Ind.): "A nonmillionaire probably will be elected President of the United States in the future. But unless a better way to finance campaigns is found, the likelihood lessens with each passing election. This, of course, is because campaigning costs so much...."

Sen. Jack Miller (Iowa): "Yes. But it will be helpful if his wife has a million."

Sen. Hiram Fong (Hawaii): "Very unlikely."

Sen. Edward Kennedy (Mass.): "I would certainly be hopeful that nonmillionaires can and will be elected to the U.S. Presidency in the future."

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (Minn.): "The answer is Yes,' provided the nonmillionaire has friends who are dedicated to politics and are willing to be generous in assistance, and if he has the enthusiastic support of the political party he represents."

Sen. Wayne Morse (Ore.): "In my view, since campaign expenditures are raised from a wide variety of sources, I do not think that the personal bank account of a candidate will act either as a hindrance or help...."

Sen. Stephen Young (Ohio): "Yes, indeed, I do. Also, I hope I'm right."

. Several senators who declined to be named answered the question with these statements: "Highly improbable, at least in the foresceable future." "Unless there is a significant change in our present methods of financing Presidential campaigns and preconvention campaigns, the millionaire candidate will continue to have a decided advantage over the nonmillionaire." "I don't like to think that a man's personal wealth or lack of it would be a determining factor in getting him to the White House, but wealth, either earned or acquired, is certainly no handicap. If anything, it's an asset. Eventually it may become a prerequisite." "I think Harry Truman will go down in history as the last poor man elected U.S. President."

When a politician becomes the chosen Presidential candidate of his party, he does not finance his own campaign. His party picks up the tab for campaign expenses and usually goes into debt to do it.

But where a potential candidate needs his own million and that of his friends is during the hard, hopeful days of the preconvention campaign. This is the period we are now in. Sen. Goldwater and Gov. Rockefeller and other aspirants are currently spending their own funds and those of their supporters, flying around the country with their wives, making speeches, TV appearances, taking advertisements, handing out stickers, running for the nomination. All this costs money. Exactly how much, no one knows.

PRENOMINATION EXPENSES: $1,000,000

There is no federal law which requires the disclosure of prenomination campaign expenses, but it's a fair estimate that the man who obtains the Republican Presidential nomination next year will have spent a minimum of $1,000,000.

After Sen. John F. Kennedy received the Democratic nomination in 1960, he did a rare thing. He allowed a reporter from the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Ed Woods, to inspect his campaign finance records. These showed that Kennedy had spent a total of $912,500 in 1959 and 1960 to obtain the nomination, and this figure included no local spending by his supporters.

What we do know is that Sen. Kennedy received $543,939 from 5 Kennedy-for-President state committees. He also contributed $60,000 of his own money to the preconvention campaign. His family contributed another $90,000, plus forming a family corporation, Ken-Air Corporation, to purchase a $385,000 airplane which was leased to the senator at $1.75 a mile. Members of the Kennedy family worked without salary and paid their own expenses in getting the senator the Democratic Presidential nomination, and it is difficult to evaluate monetarily their dedicated services.

The Kennedy records list such expenditures as the following: $176,500 for the maintenance of national headquarters; $475,000 in primaries ($25,000 in New Hampshire; $100,000 in Wisconsin; $100,000 in West Virginia; $70,000 in Indiana; $55,000 in Oregon; $120,000 in other primaries), $37,500 at the Los Angeles convention and a deficit of $217,000, which possibly accounts for what it cost the Kennedys to fly around the country in their private plane.

Of the four Republican possibilities, only one, Gov. Rockefeller, has a private plane, a Convair, which he owns jointly with his brothers. But the character of hit and run campaigning has changed so radically nowadays that this prop-driven Convair is not fast enough for the governor. On a recent speaking tour, Rockefeller, in order to speak in New Hampshire, Utah and California on the same day, was compelled to use commercial jets. Such transportation costs a pretty penny, especially when the governor takes his wife, his press secretary and the secretary of his press secretary on these tours and in addition pays for the transportation and hotel accommodations of two advance men.

Gov. Rockefeller has established his own New York headquarters in a five-story brownstone at 22 West 55th Street in Manhattan. He owns the building, and of the 25 people working there, a third are on his personal payroll. Rockefeller also employs a brain trust of speech-writers, researchers and political advisors—a personnel setup that costs him half a million a year.

Where Rockefeller's money comes from is no secret. A grandson of famed John D. Rockefeller, the governor inherited fabulous holdings in oil, real estate and banking. In financial circles it's been rumored that he receives $5,000,000 a year in dividends and interest payments. Although this figure may be exaggerated, the fact is that Nelson Rockefeller is one of the world's richest men. He can afford the race to the White House. So, too, can multimillionaire Gov. Scranton of Pennsylvania.

SETUP IS COMPLEX AND COSTLY

Sen. Goldwater, on the other hand, is only a "small" millionaire and must rely on the financial contributions of his supporters; reportedly they have promised him a $3,000,000 campaign kitty. Goldwater has set up campaign headquarters in a suite of offices in the Carroll Arms Hotel, across from the Senate Office Building in Washington, D.C. He has hired a new speech-writer, ex reporter William Flythe. His campaign manager, Denison Kitchel, plans to microfilm all the senator's speeches, past and present. In downtown Phoenix, in a converted two-story drugstore, Goldwater supporters with a paid staff of 10 and an unpaid group of 190 volunteers are busy compiling, via IBM machines, lengthy mailing lists. The people on these lists are solicited for contributions. The executive director of the Phoenix headquarters is a professional fund raiser, Frederic Chesnut, long known in the New York area as an astute promoter of funds for hospitals, churches and community projects. Chesnut has equipped his Goldwater for President headquarters with the latest automation aids and campaign paraphernalia, which includes colorful bumper signs,

To run an effective campaign, today's Presidency-sceler needs airplanes, automation, television and poll takers—all expensive. Lou Harris, until recently President Kennedy's private pollster, is said to have earned more than $100,000 from the Kennedys for his preconvention guidance. Supposedly he told Kennedy which subjects to stress, which to avoid, where rival Nixon was strong, where he was vulnerable. Such advice is invaluable to the prospective candidate.

WEST YIRGINIA CAMPAIGN

So, too, is television. When Sen. Kennedy entered the Presidential primary in West Virginia opposite Hubert Humphrey in 1960, a nipand-tuck battle was expected. Kennedy, a Catholic, was marching into a predominantly Protestant state. In West Virginia, the Kennedys, Jack and Bobby, went all out, money no object. They spent $14,000 on television. They flew from one end of the state to the other, campaigning intensely. Kennedy swamped Humphrey. When it was all over, the senator from Minnesota complained, "It's tough being ganged up on by wealth. I campaigned in West Virginia on a shoestring cut in half."

In the early years of our republic, many of our Presidents were rich men. George Washington, a case in point, was one of the wealthiest of his time. But as the republic grew older and the Industrial Revolution expanded, the millionaire businessman in America, owing to his predatory nature, came to be regarded with suspicion; his millions were frequently described as "tainted money," and no successful businessman, until Herbert Hower, reached the White House.

Of late, however, rich men have become more acceptable to the American public as Presidential possibilities. There are several reasons for this: (1) A rich candidate is considered not "on the take." He has all the money he wants. He doesn't need the Fresidency to feather his financial nest. The poor candidate, it is felt, is inevitably corrupted by politics and more frequently succurabs to "The Deal." (2) With increased prosperity, anti-Wall Street and antibig business feeling has diminished in this country. (3) Wealthy candidates frequently give the impression that they are dedicated men of service and sacrifice. Like others of their economic echelon, they might have deteriorated into worthless playboys. Instead, as Presidential candidates they seem devoted to the public service. (4) Millionaire candidates are generally liberal, compensating frequently for the piratical tactics and unethical conduct of their monopolistic forebears. The President of inherited wealth is always more openhanded with government money than the President who came up the hard way. As such, he attracts the large liberal segment of the nation. (5) Finally, the man born to money is regarded by many Americans as a patrician of superior background, a gentleman of breeding, a man of trust and social superiority who fits comfortably and naturally into the nation's highest office.

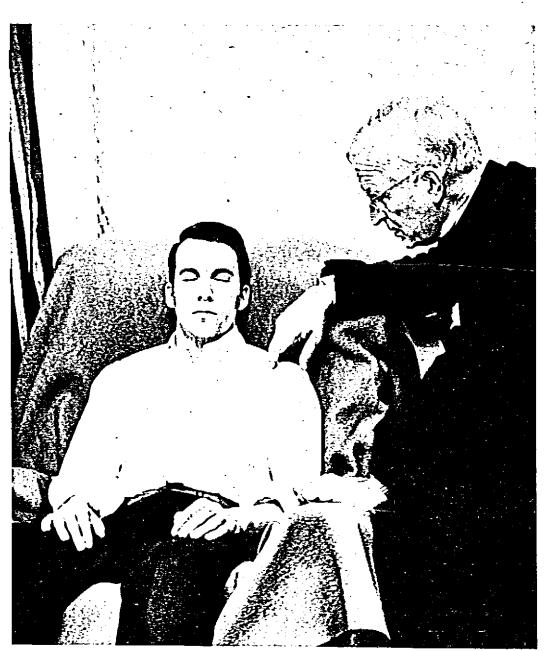

In America the word "millionaire" is no longer equated with the wages of sin, corruption and exploitation. Nowadays, the possibility exists that a millionaire can even be a nice guy, can even make a good President. Under the circumstances, that's a good development, because unless the present system of financing campaigns is radically revised in this country, it may be that only millionaires or friends of that breed can aspire successfully to the Presidency in the future.

High-cost handshake is given out by John F. Kennedy on visit to Alis-Chalmers plant, Milwaukee, in '60 primary. Kennedy spent $100,000 on Wisconsin campaign.

ZAP! A NEW WAY TO PASS EXAMS

by SID ROSS

Helping exam-panicked student, Father J. Higgins of St. Louis University places him under hypnosis. Technique helps students relax and concentrate on exam questions. Tap on shoulder (see photo) is favorite posthypnotic gimmick.

tudents at Parks College of Aeronautical Technology here have a new technique for passing examinations. They go to "Higgie" and get "zapped."

"Higgie" is the Rev. John J. Higgins, 58, a kindly, white-haired Jesuit priest who is student counselor at this East St. Louis branch of St. Louis University. And "rap" is the students' word for the simple, soothing technique he uses to help them relax and concentrate before examinations. According to Father Higgins, a better word would be "suggestion." But actually the popular priest practices hypnosis.

Father Higgins has been hypnotizing students out of their pre-exam jitters here for the past 17 years. Each exam period, about one-sixth of the college's 600 students come for the half-hour treatment, which lasts them through the exam period. In fact, the treatment is in such demand that it has been put on a two-sided long-playing record for use by students in college, grade and high schools. And in the process Father Higgins has managed to achiete some spectacular results.

Not long ago, for instance, one student at Parks became so upset about pending examinations that he developed cramps in his stomach and legs, and on the day before exams developed functional blindness. Friends took him to the local hospital, where Father Higgins visited him. The priest hypnotized him into believing that he would make an A or B on all his exams. The boy regained his sight within an hour—and ran up an excellent record on all tests. He topped it off by getting an A on Father Higgins' own philosophy exam.

In another instance, one boy became what Father Higgins describes as "a gibbering idiot" just before exams. He was taken to the closed ward of a psychiatric hospital, where Father Higgins interviewed and gradually brought him back to normal. Since then, each exam time, he has come to Father Higgins to get zapped. He has rolled up an enviable school record and hasn't had any trouble since.

Actually, l'ather Higgins got his start as a hypnotist almost without knowing it, when he was hospitalized back in 1927. One day, on the hospital grounds he noticed a middle-aged man walking to and fro, sobbing. Father Higgins walked over and asked him what the matter was. I'm going to hell," said the man. The priest began to talk to him soothingly. And he noticed that his calm, almost sleepy voice seemed to help the man relax, and virtually put him into a trance. "It wasn't exactly hypnosis, but it was something like it," the priest says in retrospect.

After watching vaudeville performers, studying books on the subject and professional training. Father Higgins began to perfect his techniques. Other priests began to send for him when confronted by hysterical or panicky persons. In 1946, as dean of Rockhurst College, Kansas City, he began to use hypnosis to help veterans with stuttering problems. When he came to St. Louis as counselor, he realized that hypnosis would be helpful for everyday exam stress.

Actually, Father Higgins' technique, which has the blessing of his Jesuit superiors, is a simple one. He brings a student to his office, has him lie or sit in a relaxed state and focus his attention on some monotonous sound, such as the ticking of a clock. This puts the boy into a light trance.

"Then all you have to do," says Father Higgins, "is suggest self-relaxation by a posthypnotic suggestion or signal. You suggest to them that when they wake up they'll be able to help themselves overcome the fear and panic by some device such as taking a deep breath.

"If you don't get the desired results with this technique," Father Higgins says, "you use what we call revivification. You take them back, via a deeper trance, to the time when the examination panic first began. Sometimes these memories go back to the second or third grade. With one boy, who was failing English, the panic went back to a day in second grade when he got back a spelling paper with every word marked wrong. After you've found the source of the trouble, you plant a posthypnotic suggestion that when they panic, they're just to recall that they're no longer the little second-grader who flunked the spelling exam. It usually works."

WEE-HOURS SESSIONS

Just in case it doesn't work, however, Father Higgins keeps himself available at all times. He lives in his cluttered, two room office right on the campus, and students often drop in at 2:30 or even 3A.sr. for a that, a counseling session or to get zapped. In an average day, he is likely to zap 10 students.

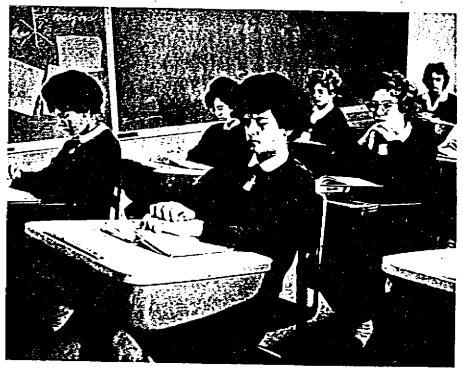

Father Higgins regards pre-exam jitters as a serious problem. He estimates that 20 to 25 per cent of all high school and college students experience "severe temporary emotional disturbances" at exam time. The rate is higher in college, because so much more is at stake. Exam panie, he says, often leads to suicide and breakdowns, as well as failures.

The priest has great faith in hypnosis, or autosuggestion, as a means of therapy. It may have an unlimited potential, he feels, through the use of such records as his "The Professor's Secret of Study," one side of which relaxes the student and the other of which places anti-panic suggestions in his mind. Use of the record has been the core of his experiments in the lower grades at Holy Family School, East St. Louis. According to school officials, a number of students have since raised their grades.

And curing exam jitters is not the only use for his technique, Father Higgins says. He has treated people sent to him by physicians for stuttering, headsches and nervous tension and skin rashes. And he foresees the day when hypnosis will be standard procedure, not only for exam panic, but for juvenile delinquency, alcoholism and other problems as well.

Working with youngsters, Father Higgins gives relaxation treatment to 8th-graders at Holy Family School. Father Higgins also helps doctors, parish priests. He once hypnotized auditorium full of 300 students.

Entranced students listen to recording of Father Higgins' voice. Between his visits, they play it three times daily. Nuns find "Professor's Secret of Study" disc improved both grades and class behavior.

NEW PARTY LINE FOR JUNIORS

by VIRGINIA POPE PARADE FASHION EDITOR

Now's the time to buy a dress for the party season ahead. Juniors who want to look like seniors will be stepping out in clothes that are provocative yet subtle, sophisticated yet romantic, elegant yet inexpensive.

Holiday fashions are especially grownup for juniors this year. The long skirt, revealing torso and variations on the low neckline are a unique departure for junior styles. The little-girl dress is out, and in its stead is an exciting new look.

Talking about necklines, there's plenty of room at the top this season. Low necklines come in three different styles (see photos). One style features a peekaboo yoke of transparent material that turns a high-neckline dress into a provocative ensemble. A draped cowl on another dress adds a soft note to an otherwise daring dip, and a third is low-scooped front and back.

Since every girl dresses to please a man, we party-tested these new fashions on Joey Forman, comedian-about-town who is featured on the Sid Caesar TV show. Joey loved them all-particularly the swirling skirts, pastel colors and evecatching blacks and whites. But whatever style she chooses, the junior miss will get the appreciation she's looking forand have the time of her life.

Bavarian Creme Yellow Torte, that's what.

Now Pillsbury brings it to you in mixes. Two new mixes.

One for the Bavarian Creme Yellow Cake

One for the Bavarian Creme Fluffy Frosting

Together, they give you this Bavarian Creme-inspired torte. The cake bakes up into two tall and moist layers. So moist, it's easy to slice across for the four layers. The filling is fluffy and full of creamy Continental flavor with plenty to go between the four layers. Beautiful. Different. Yet, Pillsbury makes it all so simple with just two mixes. Bake up one soon. It's a party on a plate.—

MY FAVORITE JOKES

by Morty Gunty

EDITOR'S NOTE: Morty Gunty is one of the most educated comedians in show business. He received his master's degree In 1953 from Brooklyn College and became a teacher in the New York City school system. His first love, however, was always the stage, and in addition to teaching, Gunty used to play the saxophone in Ned Harrey's band and do comedy bits. One night at a club date he was spotted by Nat Dunn, a well known agent, who booked him into a Madison Square Garden benefit with Lena Horne, Tony Martin and Eddie Fisher. Gunty made such an overwhelming impression on the audience that he was signed to appear at the Celebrity Club in New York, where he stayed for six weeks. After that, bookings were no trouble. He worked the Mocambo in Hollywood, the Chez Paree in Chicago, the Copa in New York, appeared on TV with Perry Como and established himself as one of the most promising young comedians in the country. Here are some jokes from his routine:

A world traveler was seeking new excitement, so he entered a travel agency and asked to have passage booked to the moon." The ticket-seller went along with the gag and said, "I can't help you. All flights have been canceled."

"How come?" asked the astonished man. "Bad weather?"
"No," replied the agent, "it's just that the moon is full tonight."

An apartment-dweller entered the elevator of his building on his way to work one morning and met his next door neighbor. "Say," he said angrily, "didn't you hear me pounding on your wall last night?"

"Oh, sure," answered the neighbor, "but I didn't want to complain. After all, we were making quite a bit of noise ourselves."

My idea of a rich man is one who has a son in college and doesn't even know about it!

A tightwad once decided to take a cab instead of a bus. And—just his luck—halfway to his destination the brakes of the cab failed. The cab went racing down a hill and the passenger shouted, "Stop the cab! Stop the cab!"

"I can't," yelled the driver. "The brakes have gone out."
"Well, then," the miser shouted back, "if you can't stop the cab, at least turn off the meter!"

Two men were hard at work on a construction job when a passer by stopped to question them about what they were doing. "I'm making 25 dollars a day," mumbled the first worker. The second man, when asked the same question, answered: "I am building a cathedral!"

An hour later the second man was fired. He was supposed to be building a delicatessen.

When I taught school, I often suspected that parents helped their children with homework but I never realized the extent to which this help was given. Once I finished marking some papers and had them returned to the pupils. One youngster got a failing mark. He looked at his paper in astonishment, jumped up and hollered: "Holy Moses! Teacher just flunked my father."

banana shrimp curry

by beth merriman Parade food editor

- 6 medium onions, sliced thin
- 6 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 or 3 teaspoons of curry powder
  1 cup milk
  1 chicken bouillon cube

- 1/2 cup hot water
- 1/4 teaspoon salt 2 medium bananas,
- sliced 1½ lb. shrimp, cooked and cleaned

YOUR FEET

DON'T LET THEM GET YOU DOWN

by Jack Anderson

Her feet hurt the ancient Egyptian queen, Cleopatra, always kept specially trained slaves on hand to take care of her feet.

ot long ago, Vice-President Lyndon Johnson and his vivacious wife, "Lady Bird," placed an over-the-ocean phone call from Iceland to their podiatrist here. The first thing they wanted upon their return from overseas was an appointment. "Our feet are killing us!" they wailed.

Every day 100,000 Americans join the chorus as they limp into podiatrists' offices on corns, calluses, bunions, overlapping toes, ingrown toenails, warts and spurs.

President Kennedy's famous back ailment, according to his physician, may be related to a foot problem. Indeed, 20 per cent of all low-back pain is traccable to feet. Ex-President Eisenhower is treated regularly by a podiatrist at Washington's Walter Reed Hospital for a bothersome callus which hampers his golf game. His wife, Mamie, receives treatment for toenail trouble.

Even Abraham Lincoln had a podiatrist. The Great Emancipator's pedal extremities bothered him so much that Dr. Isacher Zacharie became one of his most frequent callers and confidants, often carrying presidential messages to Union generals.

The human foot is an engineering marvel. Its 26 bones, bound tegether by 33 joints, 100 ligaments, 20 muscles and millions of muscle fibers and blood vessels, take fantastic amounts of stress and strain. In an average lifetime, the feet walk 70,000 miles—nearly three times around the world.

Foot health affects all the rest of the body. Bad feet can cause bad posture, which in turn constricts body organs, causing indigestion, breathing difficulty and poor circulation. Sometimes conditions diagnosed as rheumatism, osteoarthritis or gout turn out to be the repercussions of foot trouble. And last but not least, sore feet can be the source of irritability and depression.

Although most people are aware of the importance of foot health, the majority limit foot care to a concern for appearance. They concentrate on foot glamour and neglect the very important bones, ligaments, tendons and muscles which determine to such a great extent their total well-being.

Foot beauty is easily achieved. In an hour, an ugly hammer toe or chronic corn can be surgically corrected. The podiatrist uses a local anesthetic, filing away a section of deformed bone, sometimes altering a ligament. Rarely will there be a sear. Cost: from $50 to $200.

Removal of disfiguring bunions costs more ($125 to $400), because the great toe affects the entire body's balance, and special post-operative care may be required. Surgery can also solve other foot defects, from overlapping toes to tailor's bunions (on the small toe).

Another technique for foot correction is prosthetics. A few years ago, a lady rumba band leader lost the front half of her foot in an accident. Dr. Abe Rubin, a Washington podiatrist, took an impression of her healthy foot and made a prosthetic of skin tinted foam latex to duplicate her missing foot front. She now rumbas happily in cut-out dancing slippers.

But podiatrists caution their patients: "Foot health first, beauty later." Spike heeled shoes, for instance, should be worn only for limited periods. Women who persist in wearing toohigh heels should get their shoes braced and taped to insure proper foot and back balance.

HOW TO AVOID FOOT TROUBLE

- KEEP YOUR FEET CLEAN, USE WARM, NOT HOT, WATER AND MILD SOAP.
- DRY SKIN CAREFULLY, DON'T RUB HARD.
- APPLY LANGLIN, COCGA BUTTER OR OLIVE OIL TO LUBRICATE DRY SKIN.
- TRY TO AVOID INFECTIONS LIKE ATHLETE'S FOOT
   BY WEARING SLIPPERS AT SWIMMING POOLS, BATHHOUSES AND PUBLIC SHOWERS.
- DON'T TAKE IT UPON YOURSELF TO CUT CORNS OR INGROWN TOENAILS, HAVE A PODIATRIST DO IT.
- IN CASE OF ERUISES, BURNS, CUTS, CRACKS OR FROSTBITE, SEE A DOCTOR AT ONCE.
- DON'T "DOCTOR" YOUR FEET WITH STRONG MEDICATIONS. HAVE A PHYSICIAN PRESCRIBE FOR ANY ULCER OR SORE ON THE FOOT OR LEG.

Men's shoes should be comfortably roomy.

In general, the 75 known foot ailments are caused by improper shoes and lack of proper exercise. By walking only on flat surfaces—such as paved streets and sidewalks—the foot lacks the opportunity for exercise.

Much foot trouble can be avoided if a few basic rules are followed. (See box.) Children's feet should be checked regularly, because neglected foot troubles can prove disabling later.

A few years ago, a pigeon-tood, 4-year-old girl was brought to the podiatrist by her frantic mother. The child had difficulty in walking, tripped constantly. The podiatrist fitted specially designed elongated steel plates into the child's shoes. Her still-pliable feet were forced in the proper direction and the situation corrected in two years. More important, a serious personality problem was avoided.

Nor should adults neglect persistent foot trouble. Serious body disease often is revealed through foot symptoms. Anemia, heart disease, diabetes, kidney ailments and gout may flash their first danger signals in the feet.

The science of foot care has come a long way since the days of the itinerant corn cutters of 50 years ago. But there still is a need for greater awareness of just how important it is to keep feet in good walking—and good working—order.

New Winegard Antenna Development for Better TV Reception!

excellent for Color and Black and White

Winegard engineers have developed a supersensitive TV antenna that increases the amount of signal that gets to your TV set... at the same time knocks out ghosts, snow and other interference.

This unusual antenna is the gold anodized Winegard Colortron. It will give you sharply detailed IV pictures for color or black & white sets ... even in difficult reception areas. It will pull in TV pictures hardly visible with ordinary antennas. And it is so powerful, you can operate 2, 3 or more TV sets from one Colortron antennas.

Colortrons are rugged, too. Wind tested to 100 mph. Permanent GOLO ANODIZED finish won't weather-wear - stays like new for years.

For the best reception, insist on a Winegard Colortron. Four models from $24.05, electronic power pack extra... satisfaction guaranteed. Ask your TV service dealer or send coupon for full story.

Tippi Hedren: Alfred Hitchcock's answer to the need for mystery, grace and high style.

Tippi Hedren:

CAN HOLLYWOOD STILL MAKE A STAR?

HOLLTWOOD.

VER since Grace Kelly left Hollywood to marry Prince Rainier of Monaco, director Alfred Hitcheck, veteran master of the suspense film, has been searching for her successor.

For a while, Hirch, who goes for cool, thin, ladylike blondes—"I like subtle sex in my women"—thought he had found another Grace Kelly in an actress named Vera Miles. "But Vera went and got pregnant," he plaintively recalls, "just when I was ready to star her opposite Jimmy Stewart in Vertigo, so I had to replace her with Kim Novak. Then I thought I had Grace Kelly for my new film, Mannie, the story of a girl who's a compulsive thief, and Grace wanted very much to play it, but the conservative element in Monaco—they didn't want their princess working in Hollywood, so Grace howed out."

To take her place in Mannie, Hitchcock is now starting production with a relatively inexperienced unknown—"Tippi" Hedren, a well turned, green-eyed Minnesota blonde of 28 who made her film debut in his last picture, The Birds, and before that earned her living by acting in

In his long and lucrative directional career, multimillionaire Hitchcock—he made Psycho for $800,000, and to date it's earned $14,000,000, half of which goes to him—has boomed many an actress (Madeleine Carroll, Ingrid Bergman, Grace Kelly) to the top rung of screen stardom. He now believes he can do the same with Tippi (real name—Nathalie) Hedren.

He readily admits that Hollywood has been unable to make any new stars for the past 7 or 8 years, ever since TV became the primary entertainment medium of the nation, but he feels "reasonably sure" he can reverse the trend with his lovely novice.

WORD-OF-MOUTH PUBLICITY

"It's going to be tough," he concedes. "because I can't give her repeated exposure the way we did with young players years ago when studios were making 50 and 60 films a year. But what I plan to do is to promote Tippi in big pictures, films of quality that compel attention.

"If I can get this girl to give outstanding performances in two or three films, so that we start a favorable word-of-mouth campaign, if I can build her up as a young actress of beauty, dignity and mystery, a gracious, high style lady-someone like a young Grace Kelly, Myrna Loy, Irene Dunne, Greer Garson, Claudette Colbert, then I think we've got a chance of making a new star, because I think that's the type of star a hungry public wants, not the girl with the big, hold, brazen, top-heavy front.

"The thing to do is to cloak Tippi with a veil of mystery, keep her out of the gossip columns. I don't want phony items planted about her such as 'Troy Donahue's new love is Tippi Hedren,' or 'Cary' Grant's latest heartthrob is Tippi Hedren'—that's rot, and it's worthless. I want Tippi to get a publicity build up away from the movie pages, and I want it to be gradual and dignified.

"We're getting her a new wardrobe. Alexandre, the hair stylist from Paris, has flown his assistant over here to re-do her hair. I'm trying to teach her a new taste in art and literature, because she's going to play a great variety of roles for me. I honestly think she's got what the public wants—subtle and wholesome sex. She's a female vokano whose lava is about to crupt."

Hitchcock says the first time he saw Tippi Hedren, she was advertising a breakfast commercial on 1v. The next day he saw her in the same commercial, phoned his agent and told him to sign the girl. "I was that sure," he says, "she had what it takes. I didn't even bother to interview her." Hitch's agent signed the girl to a 7-year contract, starting salary $500

PREFERS HITCH'S COMPANY

A well bred, thin faced young woman of 5-feet-4, 107 pounds, mature and perceptive, endowed with an extremely photogenic bone structure, she lives sedately in a three-bedroom Sherman Oaks house with her child, scrupulously avoids the dating company of actors - she married one, Peter Griffith, in New York, and after seven years the marriage failedseemingly prefers the society of mentor Hitchcock. A patient, diplomatic taskmaster, Hitch spends much of his time teaching her how to fill the demands of the exacting Marnie tole, explaining and interpreting the script, holstering her ego, constantly assuring her that in stardom she will find gold, goodness and glory.

If she doesn't quite believe that, Tippi Hedren is too tactful to say so. What she does say is. 'I'm working for money. If Mr. Hischcock can make me a stat, more power to him. At this period in my life, I couldn't ask for a better accident."

Honest and forthright, this Tippi Hedren-also a lady.

ore than 3 billion Christmas cards will jam the U.S. mails this month. The average family will send about 60, chosen from a whopping variety of 50,000.

Yuletide cards are designed for every relative imaginable—and for your boss, neighbor, clergyman, doctor, milkman and newsboy. One card says: MERRY CHRIST-MAS FROM OUR DOG TO YOUR DOG!

The father of the American Christmas card industry was Louis Prang, a German immigrant lithographer who began producing holiday cards in Roxbury, Mass., in 1875. A woman employee suggested to Prang: Why not add the words "Merry Christmas" to the small floral cards? He did, and his business flourished.

Today, however, instead of being a pleasure, sending holiday cards is apt to be just one more time consuming thore in an already overcrowded season. Because the burden is in danger of replacing the joy of card-sending, PARADE Interviewed leading ctiquette experts to find out their answers to the most commonly asked questions about Christmas cards:

Q. Must I send a Christmas card to everybody who sends one to me?

A. No. A Christmas card doesn't need a reply. It should be a spontaneous, friendly greeting.

Q. Should I send Christmas cards to my Jewish friends?

A. Do not send Christmas cards to Orthodox Jews. It is all right to send them to the overwhelming majority of American Jews. However, it is more thoughtful not to send cards which portray religious themes such as the Nativity, Holy Family - and Christ Child.

Q. Whose name is written first-a husband's or a wife's?

A. It is courteous for the person who signs the card to write his or her name last. If a wife signs the eard for herself and her husband, it should read, "Ed and Peggy" or "Ed and Peggy Smith."

Q. Whose name comes first when the names of husband and wife are printed or engraved?

A. The wife's, generally.

Q. Should "Mr. and Mrs." or "Miss" be used in signatures?

A. No. Presumably you're sending Christmas rards to friends and don't need to refer to yourself as "Mr. and Mrs."; the abbreviation should also be omitted with formal or business acquaintances.

Q.When children's names are included, what is the correct form?

A. Family signatures always begin with the father's name: e.g., "Ed, Peggy and Jeff." If you have more than one child, you may sign your card: "Ed, Peggy, Jeff, Sue and Debbie (Smith)." Or "The Five Smiths-Ed, Peggy, Jeff, Sue and Debbie." Don't use the lazy term "and family."

CARDS? by JACK HARRISON POLLACK

Q. It is proper to write on Christmas cards? A. Yes-more and more people are doing so. Even if it is only a line, a simple, handwritten message always warms up your card.

Q. How shall I address a card if I know only the husband (or the wife)?

A. Address it to both the husband and wife. Q. How should I address a card to a widow or divorcee?

A. Use the first and last name she prefers. O. Are family photographs proper to send as Christmas cards? A. Yes, to close friends. Some will keep them as a record of your children's year-toyear development. But don't send your "family gallery" to casual acquaintances. O, Should Christmas cards be set sealed or unscaled?

A. Sealed. First-class postage is especially important. Use the colorful new five-cent Christmas tree stamp. By spending five cents on postage, you may include written messages, and your cards are delivered quicker, will be forwarded or returned to you, if undelivered, without additional postage.

Q. Should I put my full name and addresson the envelope, or does it look like a bid for a return card?

A. It is both proper and practical to do so. This year the Post Office Department is especially anxious for you to include your ZIP Code number in your return address on your envelopes. Printed stickers of your name and address can also be used. Your return address not only ensures that your cards arrive but enables your friends to update their address book.

Q. Should I send a Christmas card to a friend with a recent death in the family?

A. Yes. People don't shut off contacts with their friends during periods of mourning. Actually, there are special Christmas cards with messages of sympathy just for this purpose.

O. Should a wife's name be included in her husband's business Christmas cards?

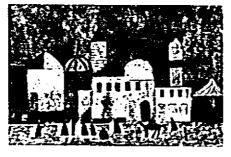

A. Absolutely not! Keep business and personal lists separate! When business Christmas cards are sent, the company should send them, not a wife who isn't a member of the firm.

Q. is there anything useful we can do with our Christmas cards after the holidays instead of throwing them away?

A. For many years I have sent mine to the children's ward of my local Connecticut hospital. It gives the children pleasure to look at them and provides a plentiful, free supply of material for cutouts and paste-ups. So check with your local hospital before you throw yours away this year.

If you follow these suggestions, a Merry Christmas should be "in the cards" for you!

Latest wrinkle in Christmas cards are UNICEF cards, designed by artists from all over the world and printed in UN's five languages. These cards were started 13 years ago, now sell more than 30 milfion a year. Proceeds go to buy mitk, medicine and health services for children in 116 nations.

ANECDOTE OF THE WEEK

■ Comedian Alan King was told that after a Command Performance in London he would meet Queen Elizabeth. For two days King very carefully practiced his greeting. "How do you do, Your Majesty. How do you do, Your Majesty. How do you do, Your Majesty." Hour after hour, he articulated the words in anticipation of meeting the Queen.

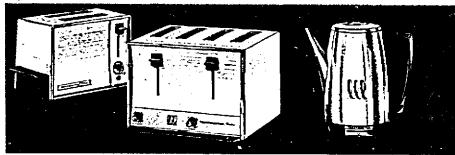

Came the big night and Her Majesty was introduced to the comedian. "How do you do, Mr. King," she said.

"How do you do, Mrs. Queen," he answered. ■

During this experimental membership and thereafter, if you continue, you will receive, with every Club choice you buy, a Book-Dividend Certificate. Each certificate together with a nominal sum, usually $1.00, can be redeemed for a valuable Book-Dividend which you may choose from a catalog of over a hundred fine library volumes whose publishers' retail prices now average $7. Since the inauguration of the Book-Dividend system, more than $280,000,000 worth of books (retail value) has been earned and received by Club members through this unique plan.
